Vol. LXXXIV. OCTOBER 30, 1909. No. 2172

THE recent sale of some residences of West Seventy-ninth Street for the purpose of constructing an apartment house on their site is an interesting indication of the dominant tendency in New York real estate. The only reason why people continue to live in private dwellings on the West Side is that such a type of building prevails in large numbers throughout that neighborhood. In case a fire destroyed the existing houses on the West Side, the whole district would be re-improved with apartment houses, and the reason why the re-improvement does not take place more rapidly at the present time is that the tenement house law interferes. On a good street like Seventy-ninth Street it is possible to erect the twelve-story fireproof apartment houses which have become the only profitable type of construction on the West Side; but on narrow streets it does not pay to tear down existing residences in order to replace them merely with six-story buildings. The consequence is that on the corners and on wide streets a considerable amount of reconstruction will take place. Whereas on the ordinary side street the existing dwellings will linger long after they have any real reason for existence. In every part of Manhattan the apartment house is gaining considerably on the private dwelling. Even on the East Side the co-operative apartment house is finding accommodations for many families who formerly occupied private residences, and the demand for individual houses is palpably less than it was a few years ago. It is surely worth considering whether this fact should not be recognized in the tenement-house law. There is no reason why fireproof apartment houses should not be erected on the side streets, provided sufficient court areas are provided; and in view of the burden which the provision places on Manhattan property-owners, the law should be amended to that respect.

THE purchase of the northwest corner of Thirty-eighth Street and Madison Avenue by a neighboring property-owner, so as to prevent the erection thereon of a business building will probably serve to prevent any business invasion of that part of Madison Avenue for another ten years. Of course it will tempt real estate operators to undertake similar operations whenever an opportunity occurs, but presumably the neighboring property-owners would not have gone to the heavy expense of preventing the erection of the proposed building, unless they saw their way to controlling other property which might be used for similar purposes. There is no reason why Madison and Park Avenues, between Thirty-fifth and Forty-first Streets cannot be kept almost entirely free from business for an indefinite period. Inasmuch as there are plenty of rich people, who like the convenience of living in a central location south of Forty-second Street, and who are willing to pay very high prices for the privilege, these few blocks on Murray Hill are really more valuable for residence than for business purposes; and the business interests of the city will not be injured by their retention in the hands of the owners of private dwellings. Eventually business is bound to take possession of this entire neighborhood, but it may be hoped that the local property-owners will be able to fight off the invasion for as long as they wish to do so. The Murray Hill district is one of the pleasantest in Manhattan, and its conversion into an ordinary business section would be a loss rather than a gain. On the other hand the rest of Madison Avenue will within the next few years be rapidly developed for business purposes. Between Twenty-sixth and Thirty-fourth Streets about ten business buildings have recently been constructed, and during the next few years the majority of the old brown stone residences of this quarter will assuredly disappear. North of Forty-second Street, the process will be slower, but no less inevitable. The blocks immediately north of Forty-second Street have already become very valuable for retail purposes. Further north the existence of certain large apartment houses will deprive the retail trade of many of the best corners, but it will creep into the old brown-stone houses in the middle of the blocks. Particularly north of Fifty-ninth Street Madison Avenue has ceased to be very desirable as a private residential thoroughfare. Property on the avenue has not shared in the increase in values which has so generally taken place throughout the East Side residential district, and the present dwellings will gradually give way to apartment houses with stores on the ground floor. In case a Madison Avenue subway is built this process will be very much accelerated. The mere construction of the subway will make the avenue for several years a comparatively unpleasant place in which to live, and after it is completed the building of apartment houses with stores on the street will proceed rapidly.

CONSIDERING the benefits which were supposed to accrue to the property-owner from a better method of budget making, the preliminary estimates for the coming year are not so very encouraging. There will be an increase of over $6,000,000 in the total appropriations, and the best that can be said about this increase is that it will not mean any substantial change in the tax rate. Considering the large amount of new building which has recently taken place, and certain increases in real estate values, the assessed valuation of real property may possibly expand as much as $300,000,000, and the existing tax rate levied on this increase will produce about $5,000,000. There can be no doubt that the Board of Estimate has really tried to keep appropriations down and that it would have succeeded in doing so effectually, had it not been necessary to make appropriations for certain expenses which have hitherto been escaped by vicious methods of bookkeeping. But the Record and Guide has never believed that it lay within the ability of the administrative officials of the city with the legal authority now at their command to effect any substantial decrease in the city's expenses, and if any of the candidates for the office of Mayor are elected who have promised such economies, they will probably disappoint their supporters. That New York wholly fails to get full value for its enormous expenditures we fully believe, but there is also every reason to believe that the process of economizing demands a drastic administrative reorganization. The first step towards such a reorganization is the adoption of the Ivins charter, and until it is adopted, any promises about economical and efficient administration will be practically impossible to keep.

NOW that New York is on the brink of the election there is every reason to believe that the constitutional amendment of the debt-limit will be accepted by voters. The question has not bulked large in the public speaking, but no one of the candidates for Mayor has opposed it, and at least two have warmly approved it. The average voter will believe that a vote on behalf of the constitutional amendment will be a vote in favor of more subways, and he will be right. The final decision of the Court of Appeals in relation to the debt-limit, although it was assuredly a wise decision, does not afford New York the credit it needs to continue subway construction. It leaves the debt margin at something less than $100,000,000, and considering the responsibilities of the city in other respects, that margin is not large enough for the purpose of continuing the construction of a municipal subway system. The Broadway-Lexington Avenue subway alone is estimated to cost as much as that. In case any necessity arises for the further use of the city's credit for purposes of subway construction, a larger margin will be necessary, and if this margin is obtained by means of the constitutional amendment, it will be obtained under conditions which will prevent its use upon unremunerative enterprises. Taxpayers should consequently vote for the amendment. A vote in opposition to it is a vote to tie the hands of the municipal authorities in their negotiations with corporations for the construction and operation of future subways. The Record and Guide believes that, considering the standing of the city's credit at the present time, New York stock should not be issued for subway construction, provided such an issue can be avoided. If subways can be built by private companies with their money under the conditions imposed by the new Rapid Transit Act, they should be built in that way. But the city should always have the alternative of municipal construction in case good terms cannot be obtained from private corporations. That is the fundamental reason for the approval of the constitutional amendment. It is interesting, by the way, to remark how large a figure subways have cut in the municipal campaign this fall. All the candidates are valiantly promising that they will provide the people of New York with as many subways as they want, and they are making this promise in spite of the fact that if elected they will not have the power to carry it out. But the incident at least indicates the dominant importance of new subway construction in the minds of the inhabitants of New York City.

NOVEMBER comes next week and the building trades are thinking about such arrangements for the Winter season as may be required, though the Winter is rarely anymore a closed season when there is good work to do. During October a large amount of new work has been started, and most of the trades are well employed; some have more to do than they had in the Summer. Operations seem to be taking a fresh start. This is partly due to the fact that jobs long ago planned-out are now reaching the stage where they can employ mechanics in large number. For example, at the American Bank Note Company's operation, at Hunts Point station, the contractors have started to put down the concrete foundations, and millions of brick are being stacked on the premises for use during the Winter months. New business structures in the midtown section, large apartment houses on the upper West Side, and a large amount of alteration work are successively calling for more materials and more mechanics. All the indications are for a steady growing volume of business, subject to weather conditions. A large amount of small work that has been planned for still remains to be put under contract, and some extremely important plans are on the architects' boards. It is understood that the firm of B. Altman & Co. are about ready to proceed with the enlargement of their department store, by extending the great building to Madison av. They have acquired all the Madison av frontage except the Howard corner at 34th st, and this corner has been left out of the firm's plans. The west side of Madison av is outside of that part of Murray Hill that is restricted to private dwellings. One other large building project for Madison av has been given up, as noted in the news of the week, and the site will be used for something else than a business block. The lower West Side, after many years of inactivity, gives some evidence of becoming a building centre again. Riverside Drive continues to gain as a centre of apartment house construction, and during the week the old Furniss home, occupying the block between 99th and 100th sts, was acquired by a syndicate headed by Messrs. Benjamin Mordecai and G. Richard Davis, who have been interested as owners and builders in some of the largest apartment houses on the West Side. Plan-filing continues rather light, so far as new buildings are represented, but alteration projects are fairly numerous and many of them will be very large operations.

EFFECT ON TENANTS OF INCREASED TAXES.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I am glad to see in your columns a letter from Mr. Polak challenging the statement that "high taxes make high rents, and low taxes make low rents."

Real estate owners in the City of New York should not allow themselves to be lulled into a sense of false security under the delusion that they will be able to shift increased taxes on real estate to their tenants. If that were possible, why fear the competition of cheaper rents in New Jersey?

It is true that the real estate tax comes out of the rent paid by tenants, because there is no other source for it; as no real estate owner will, for any length of time, pay the taxes on improved property out of his own pocket. But this does not mean that the taxes increase the total rent received, which is determined by a number of factors, of which taxation is a minor one. Out of the gross rent received from the tenant, the property owner must pay all operating expenses, including taxes, and he gets what is left. This net return on the average will fix the selling price of the property.

It is a well-known economic fact that THE SELLING VALUE OF LAND REPRESENTS THE CAPITALIZATION OF THE NET income, and, therefore, the effect of an increased tax is to diminish, or to prevent an increase in, that selling value.

The case is complicated by our custom of placing the same tax rate upon both land and buildings. The effect of an increased tax on real estate is twofold. In so far as it falls on buildings, it tends to check their production, which would result in a diminished supply and a higher rent, if the increase applied only to buildings, and if the increase was widespread. But the effect on the building is offset by the fact that the increased tax burden on land tends to force more land into use and also to keep down its selling price.

In a community where the value of buildings is very high in proportion to the value of the lots on which they stand, it may be that the high tax will tend to increase the building rent more than it will reduce the ground rent, and will, to some extent, be shifted and paid by the tenant. Though even there, if rents are raised for that reason only, tenants are apt to move away and so bring the rents down again.

But in the City of New York, where land values are so high in proportion to the value of the structure, THE EFFECT ON THE TENANT OF AN INCREASED TAX IS NEGLIGIBLE.

If all real estate taxes within commuting distance of New York were increased, then it might be possible to add some of the increase, so far as this fell on buildings, to the rent. But this is not the present situation.

After all, this is a case in which the average man can see the facts without the need of an ecomonic diagram. Does any tenant believe that if all taxes on real estate were abolished in this city, he could obtain an apartment any cheaper? Do not the owners to-day get all that the traffic will bear, and would they be any less likely to do so because their fixed charges were reduced? And can they get more simply because their taxes are raised?

TAXES AND RENTS.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE TITLE INSURANCE AND TRUST COMPANY CHALLENGES MR. POLAK'S THEORY.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

In your issue of October 23, 1909, there appeared a letter from Mr. Edward Polak, expressing the belief that taxation has no effect upon rents. "Rent," says Mr. Polak, "is governed by the same law as any other commodity, namely, the law of supply and demand;" and answering the question, "Suppose it were possible to abolish all taxes on real property, would rent be reduced?" He says: "No, indeed."

Accepting Mr. Polak's own test of the law of supply and demand as regulating rent, the fallacy of his belief becomes apparent. New building operations are regulated by the amount of money willing to seek employment in this kind of investment, and this in turn is regulated by the net return to be obtained by such employment in competition with the profits to be derived from other classes of investments. If taxes on real property, and especially on buildings, could not be shifted from the owner to the tenant by means of increased rents, high taxation would be followed by a cessation of building operations, since investors could employ their money more profitably in other directions. Whatever differences of opinion may exist in regard to the effect on land values of the "single tax," all economists are agreed that taxes on improvements are shifted from the owner to the tenant, and the only way in which this can be accomplished is by raising rents. Very truly yours,

EDGAR J. LEVEY.

THE PHELPS STOKES FUND.—By the will of Catherine Phelps Stokes, sister of Anson Phelps Stokes, a sum estimated in the public prints as several millions is directed to be "used for the erection and betterment of the tenement houses in New York City, and the education of negroes in the United States and Africa, the Indians and needy and deserving students of industrial schools, similar to those schools at Northfield and the Peck Industrial School at Asheville, N. C." It is the residue of the testator's fortune that is devoted to these objects, and the following named are constituted, by the terms of the will, a board of trustees to take charge of this residue, which is to be known as the "Phelps Stokes Fund," in order to expend it for charitable purposes: The Protestant Episcopal Bishop of New York, the chancellor of New York University, Dr. Lyman Abbott, Elizabeth Eggleston Phelps Stokes, her sister; Newton P. Stokes, Helen O. P. Stokes, Mabel Slade, Caroline P. Stokes, Grace H. Dodge, Arthur Curtiss James. The proportion of the fund that will be set aside for the construction and alteration of tenements will evidently depend upon the judgment of the trustees. The money so "used" might very well be made a profitable investment instead of merely an outlay or "expenditure" bringing no return whatever. To be really a "model" tenement a house should stand in that relation to the owner, as well as to the tenant. Owners expect property to return a fair income, and if the Phelps Stokes houses would truly fulfill their office as "models," then the whole of the Phelps Stokes fund might very well be "invested" in such constructions, and the income so produced "used" for the benefit of the other objects named in the will.

BUILDING CODE legislation has been postponed until after the election, and Chief Engineer Lewis has not yet obtained the appropriation he needs to make the tests of fireproof materials directed by Mayor McClellan. Code revision is a decided issue in the present political campaign, which will end at the polls next Tuesday. The result of the election is expected to have a bearing on the revision of the code,—as to who will next revise it, and how it shall be revised. Such a matter ought not to be interwoven with partisan politics, many say, but it is, nevertheless. But there is room to hope that the next revision will be undertaken not with the object of making building construction more expensive, but less expensive, and at the same time better and more fireproof.

CONSTRUCTION.

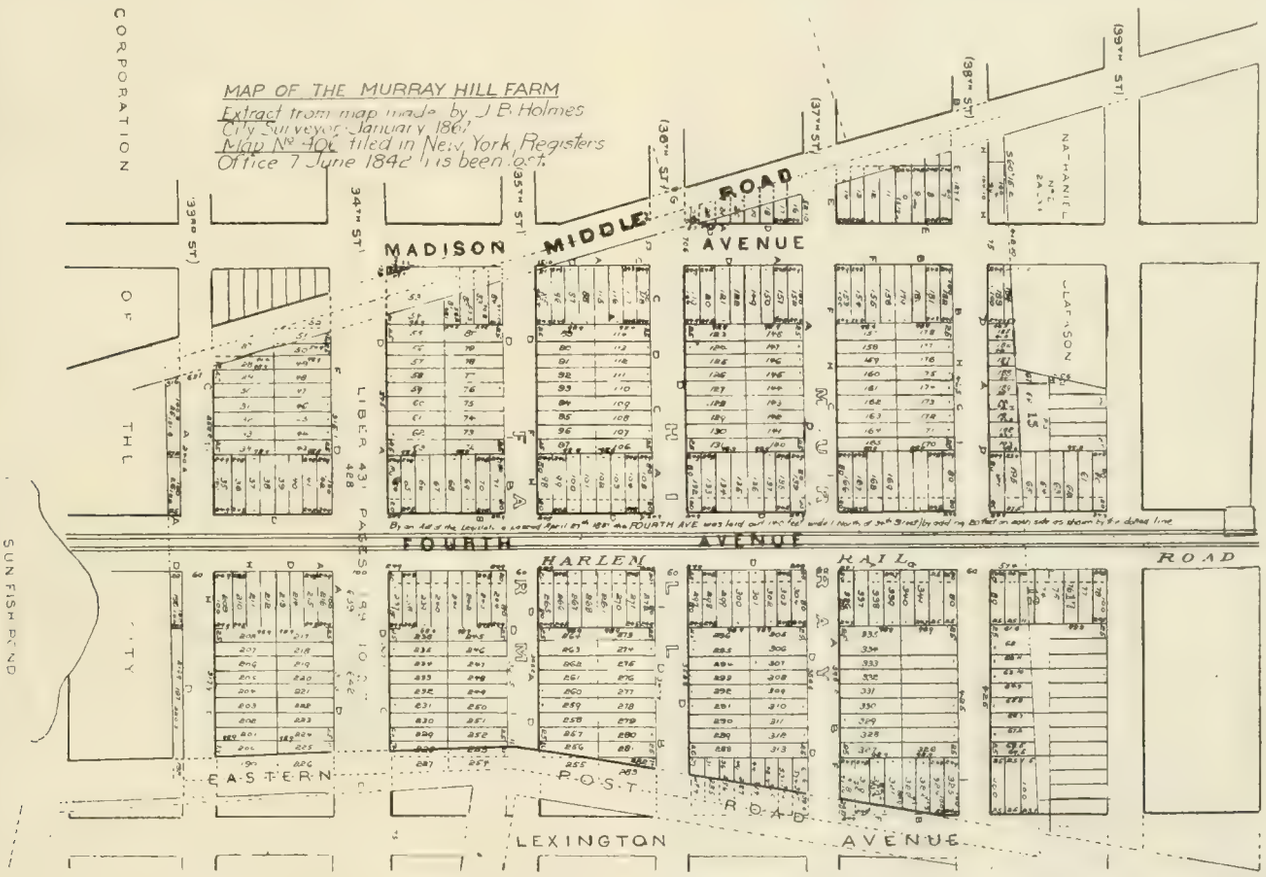
THE MURRAY HILL RESTRICTIONS

A Builder's Views on the Future of Madison Avenue—Circumstances Connected With the Purchase of the Frederick Johnson Site

WHEN Frederick Johnson, the builder, acquired the northwest corner of Madison av and 38th st, it was with the intention of erecting a 10-sty apartment house. He supposed that the street was eighty feet wide, instead of which it is but seventy-five, and under the Tenement laws he would have been restricted to a 9-sty house, by which he would have lost from his calculations the revenue of one floor, and the building would have cost nearly as much as one of ten stories.

Then came his decision to improve the plot with a 20-sty business structure. Mr. Johnson had at his disposal a plot measuring 75 ft. on Madison av and 100 ft. on 38th st. For many years there had been standing on this plot three buildings, constituting latterly an unobtrusive apartment house, which had become unsuited to so valuable a site. Plans had been drawn and excavations had nearly been completed for the business building when Mr. Johnson concluded to accept an offer made to him by Mr. George W. Perkins. The contract to purchase was ultimately signed by Mr. George F. Baker, Jr., the stated sum being $750,000, subject to a mortgage of $300,000, which left Mr. Johnson a profit of $70,000 over and above what he had paid for and expended upon the site.

Mr. Johnson had contemplated a much more profitable operation. There is a great desire on the part of certain business lines for locations on Madison av, for reasons which will hereafter appear, and a business building at the northwest corner of Madison av and 38th st would probably have been the beginning of a general transformation from an entirely private residential district to a very general business section.



THE MURRAY HILL RESTRICTIONS.

This might have happened in spite of the restrictions which have so far protected the Murray Hill section, for the reason that with a business building at the corner of 38th st and another at the corner of 34th st, the courts might have been brought to see that the character of the section was changing, in case some other property owner within the restricted limits had attempted to violate the restriction.

Diagonally across the street from the Johnson site is the old South Church property. It stands altogether on the old Murray Hill farm, the northern boundary of which is the south line of 38th st. A new church edifice is being erected for the congregation at the corner of Park av and 85th st, and the old site is therefore in the market. What will be its future? If Mr. Johnson had gone on with his business building, and the church site had fallen into the hands of men who did not believe that the restrictions would hold when the character of the section was changing, and they had put the issue to a test, it might have been decided by the courts, as in the case concerning the corner of Sixth av and 40th st, after the Elevated Railroad was put through, that the nature and character of the section had indeed changed.

THE CAMERON CASE.

While Mr. Johnson was going on with his building operations at the northwest corner of 38th st and Madison av, there were pending in the courts two applications for an injunction against a building of like nature to the one he intended to erect. These cases concerned the Cameron Building, which stands at the northeast corner of 34th st and Madison av, and the actions were brought one by Mrs. Sarah E. Goodhue and one by Messrs. J. Pierpont Morgan and others. All the plaintiffs are owners in the neighborhood, and their object was to uphold the restrictions against business buildings being erected on "Murray Hill." The defendant in both cases was Mrs. Margaret S. E. Cameron, owner of the new building.

As will be observed from the map of the old estate printed herewith, the plot on which the Cameron Building was erected is partly within and partly outside of the bounds, as indicated in this instance by the easterly line of an old road, called the "Middle Road," which was obliterated when the existing city map was adopted. The easterly line of this road intersected the northerly line of 34th st at a point 79 feet and 11 inches easterly from the corner formed by the intersection of the northerly line of 34th st with the easterly line of Madison av, and intersected the north line of the Cameron property at a point 65 feet 6 inches easterly of the easterly line of Madison av, between Mrs. Cameron's property and the property of Mrs. Goodhue.

THE REFEREE'S OPINION.

Judge Charles F. Brown, formerly Chief Justice of the New York State Court of Appeals, to whom, as referee, both the Goodhue and the Morgan suits were submitted, handed down an opinion, when he decided against granting an injunction, in which he said that the two cases presented precisely the same question, and having been tried together, his opinion applied to both. Mrs. Cameron contested the validity of the restriction agreement on two grounds, first that it was not signed by Anna Vernon Murray (wife of John R. Murray), and is therefore void for lack of consideration; second, that the acknowledgment is defective.

Judge Brown upheld the Murray Hill restriction, but he found that the portion of Mrs. Cameron's property which was subject to the restriction measured only 20 feet and 1 inch wide on 34th st, and only 34 feet 6 inches wide on the north line of her property. Such being the fact, the question was presented whether a court of equity should issue its injunction, as prayed for in the complaint, or whether equitable relief should be denied and the parties left to their legal remedy.

THE BUSINESS BUILDING WHICH IS NOT TO BE.
Buchman & Fox, Architects.

In his opinion an injunction should not be granted. Only a little in excess of one quarter of the area of the lot is subject to the restriction, and upon the balance of the property Mrs. Cameron was entirely free to erect precisely the kind of a building which had been erected over the whole property. Her legal right was to construct a building for business purposes which should be 79.11 on 34th st and 65.6 deep adjoining Mrs. Goodhue's property. The extension of the building over the balance of the defendant's lot, as was being done, would not in Judge Brown's view, add to Mrs. Goodhue's annoyance, or discomfort, or damage, in the slightest degree.

WHY AN INJUNCTION WAS DENIED.

An injunction would therefore be of no benefit to Mrs. Goodhue, and for a like reason it would not benefit the plaintiff in the Morgan case, Judge Brown says. It would, however, cause the defendant a serious loss. Moreover, he agrees that THE CHARACTER OF 34TH STREET HAS CHANGED within the restricted territory, to that of a business thoroughfare, and that it is plain the defendant could not make a practical use of her property in 34th st by devoting it to a residence. Should she erect on the portion of the plot subject to the restriction a residence of the character of those intended by the agreement, it could not be rented except for a sum which would be an inadequate return upon the value of the property.

As to the width of the Middle Road, Judge Brown found that it was about sixty feet. As the easterly line of this road represented the westerly line of the Murray Hill Farm, the judgment has much importance, as it was claimed on the trial by one of the parties that the old road was 100 feet wide. In denying the injunction, and dismissing the case, without prejudice against an action of law for a breach of the restriction, Judge Brown said: "IF THE RESTRICTIONS COVERED THE WHOLE OR THE GREATER PART OF THE DEFENDANT'S PROPERTY, I SHOULD REACH A DIFFERENT CONCLUSION."

The case has been appealed. Mr. J. P. Morgan, Mr. George F. Baker and other neighbors, it is inferred, perceived in the court's decision reasons why the character of the section as a private residential section should be further protected by inducing Mr. Johnson to give up his business building project. The Record and Guide prints elsewhere a voluntary letter from Mr. Perkins to Mr. Johnson expressive of the writer's appreciation of the "manly" nature of Mr. Johnson's part in the whole proceeding.

FREDERICK JOHNSON'S VIEWS ON BUILDING SUBJECTS.

Mr. Johnson is a member of the firm of George F. Johnson & Sons, of 165 Broadway, long identified with real estate and building interests in New York. They are among the very few big operating firms now doing business as individuals. Mr. Johnson considered that this was a very suitable location for the kind of business building which he intended to erect there—a 20-sty store and loft building. It would have been in a location that appealed strongly to the carriage trade. The same reasons which are impelling Redfern to move from Fifth av would have attracted other firms to Madison av.

Redfern has leased from Mrs. Anson R. Fowler the dwelling house at No. 3 East 48th st for a term of 21 years, and on the site Mrs. Fowler will erect a new 5-sty building from plans by Thain & Thain, architects. One of the brokers in the transaction, Mr. Frank D. Veiller, says that Redfern, like some other firms, had decided that locations in the side streets just off the avenue, offered better facilities to firms having an established carriage trade. They were not at all dependent for their continued success upon show window attractions or transient customers. The recent vehicular congestion in Fifth av was avoided by using the Madison av appoarch, and carriages in waiting could remain at their stand near by. For firms requiring great show windows and liberal displays Fifth av is yet, and would probably remain, the highest class shopping thoroughfare in America, but for exclusive and special shops the side streets offered locations that are to be preferred.

Mr. Johnson, speaking to a representative of the Record and Guide, said he not only agreed with these views himself, but he knew for a fact that some large merchants who emigrated to Fifth av several years ago had come to the same conclusion. The heavy vehicular traffic on the avenue interfered with the carriage trade, and for that reason Mr. Johnson considered that for many business houses a location just off Fifth avenue would be just as good as one on the avenue. It was on account of their carriage trade that a number of houses left their former locations below 23d st. They thought they would not be interfered with by traffic regulations and by the throngs of operatives from the adjacent factories which at times blocked the sidewalks.

In Mr. Johnson's opinion Madison av, between 34th and 42d sts, had a particularly favorable location for high-class trade. It would be a natural shopping thoroughfare between the Pennsylvania terminal improvements in the 34th st section and the New York Central, New Haven, McAdoo and Belmont railroad and tunnel improvements at the 42d st center.

Asked as to where he considered the most desirable business building improvements would be in the future, Mr. Johnson said they would be on 4th av for some trades, and on 5th av for some other trades. Fifth av, from 34th to 59th sts, and the side streets off the avenue would take care of the cream of the shopping of the whole of the United States. Bearing on that, said Mr. Johnson, it must be understood that ten years ago Americans provided the greater part of the best shopping trade in both London and Paris, and that this trade is now falling off, which could be proved by official records. This meant that this high-class trade, which once went to London and Paris, was now being provided for in New York. It also meant that firms like B. Altman & Co. no longer rely to the same extent on customers coming to their store as they did on Sixth av, because a large part of their business is now done in another way.

Asked as to his views upon the future of residential construction in Manhattan, Mr. Johnson said that the people of means in this city were going to do as they do abroad. They would have their real residence in the country, and would live in the city only a portion of the time. If it were not for the law which restricted an apartment house to a height equal to one and a half times the width of the street, many large apartment houses would be erected in the choicest sections.

THE SUBDIVISION OF PRIVATE PROPERTY.

Points for Laying Out the Site for a Suburban Development—The Location of Main Roads and the Size and Shape of Individual Plots—Roads that Tempt or Repel.

Nowadays the builders who buy and develop suburban acreage realize that much of the success of the operation must depend upon how the grounds are laid out and prepared. A high standard has been set in this respect by the leading syndicates and others must strive to equal it. The following brief article, written for the Record and Guide by a landscape architect and engineer, gives some general hints on subdividing suburban lands.

BY EDGAR F. RANDOLPH 2D.*

THE question of the subdivision of country property for residential purposes is becoming more and more important as the tendency to live in the country grows stronger. The high value of city real estate for private residence, improved transit facilities from country to city and the increasing desire for an out-door life have had much to do in strengthening this tendency.

I have in mind that kind of property which appeals to those who wish to live in the country, within commuting distance of a city, but beyond the range of cheap developments. In the first place, an outline survey should be made, checking up the acreage and setting monuments to indicate the corners of the property, and this should be followed by a topographical survey of the entire tract. This survey, besides showing the different elevations, should show the location of existing buildings, roads, woods, meadows, bodies of water, and such natural features as the land may possess that can be used to advantage in working out the general scheme. Features that are detrimental to the property and ought to be removed or planted out, should be located on the map.

Before the survey has been completed the owners should decide on the maximum and minimum sizes of the plots. THE SIZE AND SHAPE OF THE INDIVIDUAL PLOT SHOULD BE GOVERNED LARGELY BY THE TOPOGRAPHY AND NATURAL FEATURES OF THE LAND. A general development plan based on a topographical survey should then be made. Under a plan such as this, the property can be developed gradually, without the risk of making mistakes, which are almost sure to follow in a development that is planned out as the work progresses.

THE MONEY VALUE OF A CURVE.

The most important question to decide in working out a plan is the location of the roads necessary to open up the property. By incorporating in the road system, when a good reason presents itself, roads laid out on an EASY CURVE, the travel through such property will be made more interesting, and therefore MORE SALABLE, than if all the roads had been laid out on the gridiron system. Where property is adjacent to the built-up portion of a town and is of small acreage, the placing and direction of the streets is generally fixed by the location of existing streets. Where property so situated is sufficiently large, the general scheme can be PLANNED OUT ON PARK LINES, thereby giving individuality to the development.

Suppose, for example, that a tract of land, containing a thousand acres is to be developed, and that it is bounded on one side by a highway. Plan the road system in such a way that those connecting with the highway will enter the property at such points as will make the first impressions favorable and, if possible, at such an angle that they will divide importance with the highway and tempt those traveling on the highway through the property. A ROAD WHICH LEAVES A HIGHWAY AT RIGHT ANGLES DOES NOT DIVIDE THE IMPORTANCE WITH A HIGHWAY, NOR DOES IT BEGIN TO TEMPT TRAVELERS from the highway as does a road which branches off a highway at a less abrupt angle or on an easy curve. A bend in the highway or the lay of the land may locate a point for such an entrance.

Where roads meet, their sides should flare into each other, thereby lessening the danger of collision by doing away with sharp corners. This is especially true in the case of automobiles, which, owing to their length and speed, need considerable room. Encourage all natural growth about an entrance, for a clump of dogwood in the spring or sumac in the fall improves the general effect. A combination entrance and lodge, built of shingles or red cedar with the bark on and partially covered with vines, is both appropriate and useful.

MAKE THE PROPERTY SPEAK FOR ITSELF.

Field stones can be used to good effect at the entrance of a drive, by growing a vine, such as a Clematis Paniculata or a Virginia Creeper over them. Often a few evergreens can be planted about an entrance, to act as a background to birch, sumac, dogwood and the like, and also for winter effect. After entering the property the roads should be so placed that they make the property speak for itself, by showing its best features. Good property with the proper system of roads speaks most convincingly.

Everyone who is at all observing knows how a single tree, if it be sufficiently large or picturesque, and be viewed from the right place, can dominate and enhance a view. If you can so locate a road as to approach such a tree, perhaps using the tree for a turning point in the road, or enter a piece of property between two such trees, you are increasing the attractiveness, and therefore the salability of the property, by using its natural advantages without any additional expense. FIRST IMPRESSIONS COUNT for so much that every natural advantage should be made use of.

The axe, if wielded intelligently, is often very useful in thinning out woods, thereby giving the better trees more air and light, opening up views and emphasizing the beauties of any particular tree, by cleaning out the sprout and young growth which hide it.

The direction of the roads should be governed by the lay of the land, its natural advantages and the location of the main points of travel.

THE ROAD SYSTEM.

The property may be developed gradually, in which case the road system will not all be laid out at once; but, as the roads are built have them well made and with a sufficient crown. If curbs and gutters are not laid, have shallow side ditches to take care of the surface drainage. The width of the roadway of any street depends on the location of the property, amount of travel and its importance to the entire road system. Allow sufficient space between property line and roadway for any future widening.

If the property is adjoining a built-up part of town, where there is much walking, sidewalks are necessary, with a grass strip between curb and sidewalk for trees. Have this strip sufficiently wide to allow the roots of trees to spread out, and the trees to thrive. Select the best kind of tree for the location, order good nursery stock and have the trees set out under the direction of a man who knows how to prepare the soil and plant them. For, the poor apologies for trees which one so often sees set out are a waste of time and money.

Where property is to be developed far enough away from a town and is to be sold for the most part in large tracts, the sidewalks can usually be dispensed with by the owners and the sides of the road beautified by encouraging and by adding to the natural growth already there. Such growth as dogwood, sumac, asters, golden rod and the like can be planted appropriately in such places. Honeysuckle is excellent to plant on a bank, as it binds the soil together and its leaves are very persistent. Other vines such as Virginia Creeper, Clematis Paniculata and the Wichuriana Rose will blend with a natural growth. The appearance of an old stone wall can be much improved if it is partially covered with a vine. Old stones are in great demand in laying out a country place and should be saved.

FINE TREES ARE ONE OF THE GREATEST ASSETS TO COUNTRY PROPERTY AND SHOULD BE PRESERVED AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE, FOR IT TAKES YEARS TO REPLACE A GOOD TREE.

In determining the sizes of the individual plots, make the boundary between them split any natural advantages rather than to place them all in one plot at the expense of the other. One large tree, such as an oak or elm near a house, will make a place and take away that barren look often so noticeable in new places.

Make the most of the natural features in developing a tract of land, and often very few additional features will be needed to make the property salable.

A plan based on a topographical survey and worked out along the lines of landscape architecture is necessary in order to obtain the best results.

AMERICAN CAPITAL GOING TO TURKEY.—According to Levantine newspapers, American capital, under the new regime, is likely to be freely utilized in the development of Turkey. It is claimed that a concession for a railroad from Sivas to Mosul and beyond, via Harput, Arghana, Diarbekir, Bitlis and Van, has been conditionally granted to an American syndicate, which will build also a branch line, with outlet to the Mediterranean at Jumurtalik, on the Gulf of Alexandretta, at which point a modern port is to be constructed. The total length of the proposed lines is placed at 1,243 miles.

—Nearly every new brick building of importance erected in Manhattan now bears testimony to the new interest among owners and architects in good brickwork. In the first place the bricks themselves are more artistic, and, in the second place, they are laid in finer style.

COUNTRY-WIDE BUILDING CONDITIONS.

MANUFACTURERS and dealers in building materials who have kept in touch with local building tendencies and are somewnat disappointed in the non-fulfillment of boom promises made about this time last year, are optimistic over what 1910 seems to hold out for them in the way of increased volume of business. Locally, in the building material trade, collections are good. Full recovery from the late depression is now general. To show this, the Commercial National Bank of Chicago has recently issued, for limited circulation, a booklet which covers all branches of business, and the tenor of the replies received to thousands of inquiries sent out to bankers and captains of industry from coast to coast is that conditions are such as to warrant the belief that next year will witness the fulfillment of the optimistic promises of the Fall of 1908.

After discussing the brick industry, and showing that where last year 40 per cent. of the plants were idle, 80 per cent. have been operated this year—although at small profit; it treats of the cement situation. It also exhaustively reviews the iron and steel situation and then speaks of lumber, the country wide demand for which has a bearing upon the local market conditions.

THE LUMBER MARKET.

Reports state, according to this booklet, that there has been little loss of trade since the panic from the agricultural districts. The tendency in other districts, before the panic, was for retailers, manufacturers and other consumers to carry large stocks because of the difficulty of receiving prompt shipments on their orders. Stocks were low and cars were scarce. Since then conditions have changed, writes a correspondent, and in all lines they began to reduce those stocks; the necessity no longer existed to carry excessive ones. Prices were declining; hence the natural tendency would be in that direction. Another correspondent notes that the panic was felt mostly by the railroads and contingent interests which depended upon Wall street for finances and on the confidence of the money loaning and bond purchasing interests throughout the country.

"We have been trying in every way, owing to the low price of our product, to reduce the cost of manufacture, but it has been practically impossible," writes another correspondent. "Wages cannot be reduced, because the cost of living is so extremely high and the prices which we have to pay for everything that enters into the manufacture of our goods, such as cattle, horses and feed, are higher than they have ever been."

HARDWOODS.

Discussing the hardwood situation, one man wrote: "Our business is unique in that every year we see higher prices for our goods. The reason for the advance in the domestic article is that it is growing scarcer, every year the mill men have to go greater distances to get their supply, and this means increased cost. Another reason is that hardwood timber in this country is passing into stronger hands and is only cut now when a good profit is promised on an operation.

"On the other hand, the volume of business is not as great as it has been, and this is caused by the increased use of metal and composition and concrete flooring. Then again in cities of the first class a determined effort is being made by architects and builders to get away from the use of wood. This is caused by the danger of conflagration and the pressure brought to bear by fire underwriters. Here in New York the modern building contains no wood."

STONE.

The subject of stone, which also has a bearing upon the local market, is discussed as follows:

"Building stone is now in active demand and the coming year will be a good one in this line. An officer of a large company writes:

" 'From present indications, and the amount of business we have on hand, we should have the most successful year that we have had since this company was organized. Building stone people throughout the country all state that they look for big business for the balance of this year and next year.'

"The cost of cut stone has been lowered on account of improved machinery that has been put into cutting plants. (Note reference to installations of stone cutting machinery in Indiana and Ohio, in Stone department in Building Material and Equipment reports in this issue.)

" 'Cut stone can be bought for about 30 per cent. less than the price at which it could have been purchased five years ago,' writes a correspondent."

BRICK.

According to the bank's correspondents, brickmaking throughout the country is rapidly tending to a full capacity of plants. Although no betterment has developed in the profit side of the brick trade, there has been a constant ascending price list in most centres, but not including New York, since the Spring months, so that this has just about equaled the increased cost of production. Skilled labor in many cities has had wage increases which has counteracted the ascending prices. While there have been some price agreements made by makers they have not, as a rule, been successful in operation, and have ultimately been discarded. Efforts at consolidation, while successful in the past, has of recent date been followed by the establishment of competitors and in an increase in productivity which has caused falling prices and negatived the benefits of consolidation.

The related industries, such as terra cotta, tiling, cut stone, lime and wall plaster, had an increasing demand and an excellent outlook, but the same conditions as to returns on the capital and energy is reported as in brickmaking.

CEMENT.

The manufacture of cement was not checked by the depression, the summary goes on to state, the widening utilization of the product more than overcoming the diminution where activity subsided. In the last three years there has been a productivity larger than the consumption causing a congestion at many points. Surplus stock has been dumped at sacrifice and with consequent demoralization of prices everywhere. While improvement in handling has reduced costs, the intense competition by constantly increasing numbers of new plants, was a more accelerating influence to low prices. During the first part of this decade, the average price was $1 a barrel at the mill, while until recently it was as low as 70 cents below cost of manufacture.

IRON AND STEEL.

A constant improvement in the iron and steel business has been noted elsewhere than in New York. Much of this, outside of New York City, has been for maintenance and renewals allowed to lag during the depression. The buying movement has a healthy tone and steel is being purchased, generally speaking, for immediate consumption in directions and for improvements which the country's needs apparently demand. There is very little if any speculative buying.

CONCRETE ON COUNTRY ESTATES.

THE Portland cement companies are giving much attention to extending the use of cement on suburban estates. The revised edition of "Concrete Construction About the Home and on the Farm" (published by the Atlas Portland Cement Company, 30 Broad st, New York) is a remarkably informing book. Much new matter and many new pictures have been added to what was retained of the first edition. The reader is impressed by the many different ways in which cement is now being used on the farm.

Down at Far Rockaway a large estate has its fence posts made of concrete. On "Gedney Farms," at White Plains, the fence posts are also made of concrete. If an owner does not hire outside help, he can make seven-foot fence posts for 20 to 30 cents each. They will cost 10 to 20 cents more if the cost of the labor is counted. Each post is reinforced with four quarter-inch steel rods, or No. 6 wire. A man at Westwood, N. J., has the clothes posts on his place made of concrete, and the hitching posts and the horse block are made of the same material.

Concrete water troughs are getting to be numerous on Long Island and Westchester County estates, as they are easy to make and don't wear out. From such simple things the estate owner advances to the construction of silos, corn cribs, cisterns, ice-houses, barn floors and box stalls. Then come cellars for roots and mushrooms, wellcurbs, sidewalks, steps in the garden and for the porch, and, later on, chicken-houses, dairy houses and other simple buildings.

Full specifications are given in the book for constructing or doing all these things, but in reality, not very much instruction is necessary after one has acquired the general principles in his first attempts to work in cement.

The Universal Portland Cement Company issues a pamphlet entitled "The Farm Cement News," and the Lawrence Cement Company, in a new publication, devotes a section to "Concrete in Connection with Farmwork." To show the responsive interest taken in the subject by estate owners, the Gedney Dairy Farms at White Plains could be taken as an example, as all the buildings on the place are constructed of reinforced concrete.

Concrete is becoming indispensable in dairy farming, since Boards of Health in cities throughout the United States and Europe are demanding high sanitary conditions in dairies which can be secured most economically only where concrete is used for the construction of cow stables, feeding floors and dairy rooms and cellars.

The ornamental possibilities of concrete are also wide, especially when reinforced. Molded fountains of cement concrete can be erected of the most graceful sort. Settees or benches of reinforced concrete can be readily constructed as complicated and artistic as desired, while some crude products, which would be equally as serviceable, can be made of mass concrete at much less expense. Owners are also prolonging the lives of favorite trees by filling cavities with cement. "Tree dentistry" it is called. The foliage of the country has found in cement a new friend and preserver.

NEW IDEAS IN LAND DEVELOPMENT.—In developing the "Great Neck Estates," the McKnight Realty Company says it is aiming to preserve as far as possible the natural beauty of the land, the old trees and hills. Many attractive features will be provided, such as a yacht club, a private pier, a casino and broad driveways. This is the modern idea. Formerly very little care was bestowed on laying out a tract over and above what was actually required in order to make the lots saleable. Landscape architecture and engineering now enter largely into the calculations of the big suburban developing interests.

NASSAU COUNTRY CLUBHOUSE.

WORK will be begun in the near future on the new home of the Nassau Country Club in Glen Cove, L. I., an organization whose membership is composed of men prominent in the commercial, financial and professional life of the metropolis. To be situated on a large tract of acreage, the new club house will be 200x120 in size and 2 stories and basement in height.

To be built after plans by Woodruff Leeming, 20 Broad st, Manhattan, the design of the structure is pure English Tudor Manor. The club house will be of red brick and concrete stone and will cost $100,000.

At the east end of the structure is a porte cochere, while terraces and covered verandas extend across the south front so arranged as to command a sweeping view of the tennis courts, nearby.

SPACIOUS LIVING ROOM.

The main living room is 36x56 in size, the ceiling of which is the full height of the building, with galleries in three sides on two floors. In the rear of this room are two alcoves, 12x19 each, between which is an entrance from the rear porch.

To the east of the main living room and in the front, is a billiard room, 23x35, with a stairway leading to the basement.

Parallel with the billiard room is a 12-foot wide hall leading from a vestibuled entrance from the porte cochere to the main living room. This hall also opens into the billiard room, while on the opposite side of the hall is a ladies' sitting room, 17x23, and the office of the club, 16x17, the latter close to the entrance from the porte cochere.

On the rear of the east end of the club house is a wing containing a squash court and connected with the main building by a corridor.

On the rear of the west end of the structure is a larger wing containing the chauffeurs' dining-room, 10x18, the servants' dining-room, of similar size, a room 12x14 for dry groceries, an ice-box 9x10, the two latter being divided from the foregoing dining-rooms by a hall leading from a rear porch to the kitchen.

The basement is well sub-divided, containing men's lockers, dressing room, lounging room and the cafe. The latter is in the east end, where the land around the club house slopes perceptibly and consequently allows a full view of the golf links. The links are a special feature of the club's life and are very complete. The architect has accordingly provided for large casement windows on three sides of the cafe, thus making it in summer almost an out-of-doors dining-room.

Comprising the second floor of the club house are 20 spacious bedrooms and 10 bathrooms, both containing every necessary equipment.

It has not yet been quite decided what the interior trim will be. It is probable that the second floor will be finished in white enamel.

The principal rooms and halls will be exceptionally spacious, some will be lofty, and will be handsomely trimmed with choice woodwork. At the west end a large outdoor dining porch (28x50) will adjoin the main dining-room, of like dimensions. The kitchen and pantry will both be large and equipped in the modern way.

Between the main dining-room and the main living-room a hall 12 feet in breadth will be flanked on one side by a private dining-room, and on the other by a smoking-room.

To the Record and Guide Company:
Dear Sirs:

Replying to your inquiry as to my success in getting business by the use of the Record and Guide, I would say I have been a subscriber for some time and get good results from following your leads under the heading, "Where Building Materials Are Needed." I presume you are aware of the fact that I secured the contract for installing the window shades in the Belnord Apartment House, the largest of its kind in the world, and also the largest number of shades ever put up in one building.

I first learned of this job through the information you gave in the Record and Guide, and by getting in touch with the proper parties I secured the order.

I consider the Record and Guide a necessity in my business.

Very truly yours,

I. FLATO.

Mr. Flato has built up a large business by persistent efforts in connection with the use of the information he gets from the Record and Guide each week.

TO REBUILD A CHURCH.—No external move has yet been made to reconstruct the church of St. Vincent Ferrer, situated at the southwest corner of Lexington av and 66th st. Some time ago it was said that a new facade would be built, one which would have two towers. As it has stood for many years, the large edifice has the appearance of being only a part of the architect's conception of what it should be, as it was left without a tower and seems to end abruptly back from the building line. Churches designed on a fine scale, but left unfinished, most often remain incomplete, but St. Vincent Ferrer's is to have its reward for waiting. Two spires will rise to a height of 200 feet and will be entirely constructed of limestone. The approach will be by marble steps to a main vestibule lined with limestone and floored with marble, and having a groined roof, which will be constructed with limestone ribs and Guastivano tile filling. As funds are received further changes will be made. The edifice will get a chancel, side chapel and vestry, which will displace the existing Dominican Sisters' home, which stands at the western end of the church. Messrs. Allens & Collens and James W. O'Connor, associated architects, have designs and plans for the eventual reconstruction of the whole building. The location, always choice, improves with each passing year.

—The largest stone ever quarried is generally accepted to be still lying in the quarry where it was detached in prehistoric times, but never shifted. It may be seen in some ancient workings a few miles from Damascus. It measures 70 feet by 14 feet square, which means 14,228 feet cube. In the Great Temple of the Sun, at Baalbec, in the same locality, stands a column, in situ, which is 66 feet high, and this, probably, may justly claim to be the largest in the world.

Brief and Personal.

One poor job will do you more harm than a dozen good ones will do you good.

August Kiel, of the marble firm of Tomkins Kiel Marble Co., of 505 5th av, underwent an operation for appendicitis recently and is well on the way toward recovery. He is expected back at his office about the last of next week.

In the article appearing in last week's issue describing the foundation work under the Pocono Building on 4th av it was stated that Thomas Shannon was superintendent of shorers for "John Slattery." This should have read, for Canavan Brothers Company.

Otis Corbett, father of Mr. W. P. Corbett, Eastern sales manager of the Alsen Portland Cement Co., 45 Broadway, has just purchased the Cadmus grain mills at Plainfield, N. J., from A. L. Cadmus and William Shotwell, who have conducted that business in the same location for half a century.

The R. T. Ford Co., of Rochester, which has the contract for the new $4,000,000 State Education building at Albany, has asked for a year's additional time in erecting the building, having met with unexpected and unavoidable setbacks. The contract calls for the completion of the work by January 1, 1911, but if the extension is granted the building will not be finished before 1912.

A tract of land, belonging to James R. Sayre and Peter Fisher, of Sayre & Fisher Co., brick manufacturers, adjoining the works of the National Fireproofing Co., at Keasbey, N. J., is under negotiation for sale by the Public Service Corporation for a power-house site, the dynamos of which will generate 7,000 kilowatts. The tract has been used for some time as a storage-place by the National Fireproofing Co.

Chief Engineer Lewis, of the Board of Estimate, has been unable to go ahead with the tests of various fireproofing materials, as ordered by the Mayor, because the $30,000 which he asked for to carry on the work has not been appropriated. It has been unofficially stated that he has selected a site where some of the tests will take place if the appropriation to be made by the board is sufficient to enable him to make the extensive investigation he hopes to.

BUILDING MATERIAL AND EQUIPMENT

And News Regarding Source of Supply

Material in Stiffening Market.

There is a general stiffening tendency in the building material market affecting all branches. The brick manufacturers have put up their prices pending a further advance later on. Cement shows improvement. Pig iron continues in demand, while sheets are feeling the car shortage. Structural steel deliveries are slow, and fabricators are taking considerable new business. Iron bars are scarce. Lumber continues to move easily, and there is a favorable undercurrent setting in in favor of stone. The proximity of the election had little real effect upon material business. Dealers so far have shown little disposition to take in heavy supplies for late fall business, the disposition seeming to be not to store heavily this year. This is doubtless because some dealers had unpleasant experiences following this action last fall.

Hudson Common Brick Higher.

At a meeting of the Hudson River Brick Manufacturers' Association, at the Palatine Hotel, Newburg, on Wednesday afternoon, the condition of the market for the year was canvassed, and it was announced that on Monday the price in cargo lots would be $6.00 to $6.25 per M., and that on the following Monday the quotation would read, $6.25 to $6.50. It was further decided to stand by these figures, which, it was said, were made compulsory by reason of the fact that labor conditions have been such this year as to leave a very small margin for the manufacturer. These, of course, are not the winter prices, further action being probably later. The transactions for this week were normal. Figures for last week's business are: Left over, Oct. 16, 5; arrived, 72; total, 77. Sold, 69; left over, Oct. 25, 8.

MOST YARDS NOT MAKING.

Most of the Hudson River brick companies have stopped manufacturing. Here and there a palette yard has some brick on rack, but they are the exception. More brick will begin to come in from now until close of navigation if the new prices are sustained. There is little talk among the manufacturers of making extensive yard improvements this year, the disposition being to wait until a better idea may be had of what next year will bring forth. While a good year is generally looked for, conservative men do not expect a boom. They say, however, that they believe next year's business will be an improvement over this one. The opinion seems to be unanimous that better prices will rule.

REPORT LESSENING CONSUMPTION.

Retailers reported a slight falling off in consumption this week, which they attributed partly to unrest preceding the election, many of the employees being more or less interested in election in certain wards. Delays in getting steel is still holding up a certain class of work. The dealers say conditions governing demand here do not warrant an advance in price.

Cement Gradually Improving.

Reports from the offices of various licensees in this city state that a general improvement is felt, that the demand is a little more brisk, and that prices stand at $1.43. Some of the companies are making deliveries on big work, but the call, as a general rule, is for medium-sized operations. Dealers are taking material only as they need it, and the manufacturers, so far, have been able to deliver despite, a shortage of watertight freight cars. Atlantic brand Portland cement is being delivered to several Thompson-Starrett operations, namely, the Hewitt-Bryce buildings at 4th av and 27th to 28th sts; the Schlaegel building at 22d st and 2d av; a theatre and office building being erected by the same company at 47th st and 7th av, and the Wolff building, 8-stys high, 245x100 ft., in 26th st and 1st av.

The sales manager of one of the biggest companies, with offices in this city, returntd recently from a visit through New England, taken for the purpose of ascertaining just what the conditions are, and to find out how builders felt as to the future. He told the writer that he found conditions just as they were in this city —rushing through work now in hand. There is little work being given out, but enough is on hand to last well into the early winter. A boom year is not expected in this material, in the sense that high prices will prevail, but everybody seems to look forward to a prosperous year, beginning with early spring.

Iron Continues in Demand.

Iron shows no falling off in demand. New Jersey and Connecticut bought heavily during the week and inquiries were in hand toward the week-end for additional tonnages from these quarters. Importation of foreign ore continues, but shows a slight falling off. As it stands, domestic leads in competition for pipe making, which business had the greatest tonnage requirements this week. Prices will remain where they are, it is thought, for a while, with the exception of steel making material, which may move to $20. Basic for this quarter is entirely sold up. About fifty per cent. of first quarter's capacity is engaged at present, but hardly any business runs into the second quarter.

This fact indicates that a great deal of structural material is booked to come out early next Spring, and as far as it is possible to judge of what proportion of this will go into new building operations, it seems assured that the building boom that will undoubtedly settle upon New York at the close of the coming Winter will extend throughout the middle west and north of the Mason and Dixon line. Foundry iron is being well sustained. A little more Southern is coming into this district.

SHEETS HIT BY CAR SHORTAGE.

One jobber reported this week that the car shortage is being felt by the mills, and shipments that would have been made a week ago are still waiting cars. The recent advance in prices is still being well sustained, but the scramble for material continues. There is a great demand for sheets from the West, while here in the East the question of delivery supersedes that of price.

STRUCTURAL DELIVERIES SLOW.

Structural deliveries are not improving, the mills being now about 90 days late in making shipments. Most of them are simply swamped with business. Prices which advanced last week are well sustained in all grades. Iron bars, such as used by architectural iron workers, blacksmiths and in the manufacture of fire-escapes, are becoming scarce, and it is possible that an advance will come in that material, the rumor having reached the jobbers to that effect.

Concrete reinforcement is not in this class. There is a good demand for that kind of material. There was said to be a slight falling off in wire products during the last week, but mesh reinforcement held its own and reported an increasing demand from foreign markets.

All iron and steel is firm. Copper was weaker, due, it was said, to speculators being unable to obtain money. Tin was firm with lead and spelter strong.

FABRICATORS GETTING NEW BUSINESS.

Inquiries were abroad this week for fabricated material. All the local and near-by shops are figuring on a great deal of important work for this city and vicinity, the tonnage being in most cases larger than has been the case in some time. There were no important local structural contracts announced this week, but it was said that some big ones will be ready to be given out within a week or two. Advices received at the offices of the leading fabricators are to the effect that architects will be ready to give out some big work early in December.

Lumber Firm in Fair Market.

There seemed to be considerable activity in pine timber and spruce this week, although reports are conflicting as to the supremacy of long-leaf yellow pine over the latter. There was quite a little activity in Harlem, and Bronx distributing stations took considerable business in flooring. The situation is characterized as being normal. The car shortage problem is still on the hands of the millmen, and is responsible for the difficulty experienced within the last ten days of getting supplies to the wholesale yards. There is always difficulty of getting fully manned schooners at this time of the year, because the crews, if they are in their home ports, want to stay there to vote. This is another reason for the delay in getting material from the mills.

LUMBER.

These figures cover only wholesale prices to the trade on well manufactured graded stock, classified by the inspection rules now in operation. Because of terms of sale, etc., it is impracticable to quote retail prices.

Better Tone in Stone Market.

From all the principal stoneyards and some of the wholesalers' reports of improved conditions come in. Business is picking up locally in lime and sandstone. Brooklyn trade is especially active, and has been, in fact, all summer. Some of the cutters are so crowded now that they have trouble in making deliveries on time. The stock held by wholesalers is larger than for several years. The impression seems to prevail that there will be a bigger demand for stone before the winter is out than can now be foreseen, and they are laying in larger quantities of rough material. Buff block stone will be a scarce article this winter, because there has been a greater demand made upon the quarries than they anticipated, and are not, therefore, prepared to meet it. The market is consuming this material faster than it can be produced.

A GLIMPSE AT THE QUARRIES.

Joseph G. Spurr, of the retail company of J. J. Spurr & Sons, of Newark, and Arlando Marine, a wholesaler, returned this week from the West, where they visited some of the big quarries there to see in what shape they were for getting out orders, and to place an order for 10,000 cubic feet of old bluestone for a Newport operation, the general contract for which is held by the Whitney-Steen Co., of 135 Broadway. They found that the West has gone "machinery mad," as one of them expressed it, and that some of the country's biggest cutting plants are locating there, among these being the Ingles Stone Co., of Binghamton, N. Y.; J. P. Fault, of Springfield, Mass; Shay & Donnelly, of Glenn, Mass.; and the Dugan Cut Stone Co., of Kansas City. The Furst Kerber Co., of Chicago, is adding 100 feet to its already mammoth plant. All this development has taken place within the last twelve months, in anticipation of a big year in 1910. New derricks are being installed now in many yards, and new working breasts are being opened up. In one of the quarries the visitors saw the biggest single block of rough stone they had ever seen. It was cut for a door lintel in the new City Hall in Indianapolis. It contained 350 cubic feet and weighed thirty tons.

THE WEEK.

BUSINESS reported this week from the broker's offices showed an increase in both quality and quantity over that of the past four weeks. Of the seventy transactions reported, the purchase by J. P. Morgan of the plot at the northwest corner of Madison av and 38th st was the most interesting, and was probably hastened by the recent decision of the court in relation to the Cameron property at Madison av and 34th st, denying the request of adjoining property owners for an injunction restraining the owners from erecting a business building. However, that may be, Mr. Morgan seems to be satisfied with his bargain, as appears from the following letter signed by George W. Perkins:

23 Wall street, New York.

October 28, 1909.

Frederick Johnson, Esq., 165 Broadway, New York City.

My Dear Mr. Johnson: My attention has been called to an article in question is so far from the truth, I simply want to that the 38th st corner, which you have recently sold, was sold by you at a large profit to you, for the reason that some of the gentlemen in the immediate neighborhood had to pay you a large profit to prevent a large business block being put up there.

As I was a party to the negotiations, and as the newspaper article in question is so far from the truth, I simply want to say I hope it won't bother you at all. The negotiations with your for this property were all so satisfactory, and you met the views of the neighbors in such a very broad and manly spirit, and made the trade at so small a profit to you over and above interest and expenses, that the newspaper article was most unfair. With best regards, I am,

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) GEORGE W. PERKINS.

In the midtown section there were five sales of property for immediate improvement, all on 25th st, between Broadway and 7th av. Lots on this street, between Broadway and 6th av, are now held at $3,500 a foot front, and between 6th and 7th avs at $1,600, and recent sales have been at that price.

There were nine sales of vacant plots all suitable for improvement with elevator apartment houses. The sale by the Furniss estate of the large plot on Riverside Drive, between 99th and 100th sts, to a syndicate of building loan operators, removes from the market the last large vacant plot on the West Side south of 100th st.

The sale by the trustees of the Union Theological Seminary of the corner of Park av and 69th st to Arthur Curtis James for improvement with a dwelling, and the decision of the trustees to restrict the property for twenty-one years, is sure to affect all of the property on the avenue as far north as 86th st.

THE AUCTION MARKET

WHILE there were more than the usual number of voluntary offerings in the Vesey street salesroom, the actual number of properties sold was far from satisfactory. On Tuesday Joseph P. Day offered nine Manhattan properties, most of which were bid in. Herbert A. Sherman and Charles A. Berrian offered three parcels, two going to the plaintiff. Bryan L. Kennelly offered on Wednesday ninety-three lots in the Wakefield section of the Bronx. There were two offerings. The first sale covered property within the area bounded by Kingsbridge road, 233d st and Digney av. At the southeast corner of Kingsbridge road and 233d st, a plot of about four lots, with a 2-sty dwelling, was sold for $8,750, and an adjoining plot of three lots, with a stable, was sold for $2,625. The northeast corner of 233d st and Bronxwood av brought out a bid of $1,150. The same price was paid for the northwest corner of Digney av and 233d st, and for inside lots on 233d st prices ranged from $825 to $925.

In the other sale, that involving thirty-one lots, a plot of three lots at the southwest corner of 233d st and Doon av was struck down for $2,100. The opposite corner, the southeast, went for $1,050, and adjoining lots on 233d st for $650 each. At the rear, along Doon and Jones avs, prices ranged from $370 to $485 a lot.

EMPLOYER OF BROKER MUST PAY COMMISSION.

In a suit tried this week before Justice Donnelly in the City Court by Harris M. Fischer vs. Francis Conlon, a theatrical agent, to recover $350 commissions in securing a purchaser for the property 507 West 27th st, New York, the defendant claimed that he could not have sold the property because his brother, who had a half interest therein, refused to consent to sell, but the court, at the request of Jacob Friedman, of 302 Broadway, counsel for the broker, charged the jury that if the defendant employed the broker to produce a purchaser at $35,000, and the broker did procure parties who were ready, willing and able to pay that price for the property, and upon the terms demanded by the defendant, that it was immaterial whether the defendant's brother had any interest in the property or not, and that plaintiff would be entitled to his commissions. The jury rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for $350 and $65 interest.

—J. H. Mayers, the new real estate auctioneer, seems to be making good headway for the short time he has been in business (about two weeks). He says that he has placed upon his book eight different sales for auction. It seems that the many friends and acquaintances he made while general manager and auctioneer for Joseph P. Day stand him in good stead now.

Furniss Heirs Sell Homestead.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE—Benjamin Mordecai, G. Richard Davis, Emanuel Heilner and Moses J. Wolf have purchased from Sophia R. C. Furniss, Margaret E. Zimmerman and Clementina Furniss, the property on the north side of 99th st and the south side of 100th st and the east side o fRiverside drive, containing in all twenty-three lots. The property was held at $1,000,000. This plot, which is one of the largest vacant parcels on the west side, consists of about twenty-three lots, with frontages of 207 feet on the drive, 262.1 feet on 99th st, and 300 feet on 100th st. The buyers will subdivide the property into plots suitable for apartment house improvement and resell it to builders. On the West End av front of this block the A. C. & H. M. Hall Realty Co. is building two 12-sty apartment houses. This property, too, was formerly owned by the Furnisses. After the Halls had bought it some of the owners of private dwellings on the north side of 100th st sought to enforce a verbal restriction, said to have been placed on the 99th to 100th st block by the Misses Furniss. These owners said that they had been led to believe, and they showed letters in support of their claim, that the homestead block, as it was called, would be restricted to private dwellings and that they bought the houses on the opposite side of the street with this understanding. The courts, however, failed to uphold their contention, not only making it possible for the Hall project to be carried forward, but also opening the way for the sale of the rest of the block for apartment house improvement.

The Furniss originally owned the greater part of the region from Ninety-ninth to 104th st, and from Broadway over to the river. The house, a three-sty structure of Colonial design, was put up in the early part of the last century by William P. Furniss. This was long before the Hudson River Railroad had been thought of, and the lawns of the place sloped down to the water's edge. The entrance was through a gateway from the Bloomingdale rd, at what is now 104th st. Cruikshank & Co. were the brokers.

Dwelling for Riverside Drive.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE—Lower Riverside Drive is to have another costly dwelling added to its group of handsome residences. The plot, 35.6x105x21x99 on the drive, 30.7 feet south of 73rd st, has been purchased by Carl D. Jackson, who intends erecting a house for his own occupancy.

Mr. Jackson formerly resided at 4 Riverside drive, which adjoins on the south the plot just purchased by him. He sold this house, together with its contents, last July to Mrs. Booth for over $300,000. His latest purchase adjoins the south corner of 73d st, which is owned by Robert E. Dowling, and in the block to the south of the Charles W. Schwab mansion.

Do you need a first-class employee?

Dear Sir:

If you are in need of a first-class man to canvass for properties to rent, a man that can be thoroughly recommended as industrious, honest, accurate and a tremendous hustler. A man who by himself can keep you posted on all property to let and much that is for sale in your territory, and by reporting properties withdrawn from the market keep you from provoking your customers. If you think from $2 to $4 per week would be about right for such a chap, we can fix you up.

In fact our proposition is much better than that. We have fifteen canvassers and ten clerks, a part of whose duties is to work up this information. Our Rental Reports are now combing your territory with a fine tooth comb and would cost you only the above mentioned figure. Write for terms and samples.

Yours very truly,

The Realty Records Co.,

Ronald C. Lee,

11 E. 24th St., N. Y. General Manager.

Redfern Leases 3 East 48th Street.

This dwelling will be replaced with a modern building for the exclusive use of the Redfern Company, which will be erected by Mrs. Flower from plans prepared by Messrs. Thain & Thain, the architects. The rental is $10,000 net per annum. The lessees were represented by Mr. Frank D. Veiller, who, when interviewed, stated as follows: "Redfern, like many other firms having an exclusive patronage, has decided that locations in the side streets just off the avenue offer better facilities to firms having an established carriage trade and not at all dependent for their continued success upon show window attractions or transient customers. The recent vehicular congestion in 5th av is avoided by using the Madison av approach, and carriages in waiting can remain at their stand near by. For firms requiring great show windows and liberal displays, 5th av is yet, and will probably remain, the highest class shopping thoroughfare in America, but for exclusive and special shops the side streets offer locations that are to be preferred."

PROPOSED EXTENSION OF SEVENTH AVENUE.

Dr. Zimmerman, the president of the Greenwich Village Public Service Commission, has sent the following letter to the City Comptroller:

Hon. Herman Metz, Comptroller of the "Greater City of New York":

Honored Sir—You, and the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, know me in my earnest endeavor to have 7th av extended, and that I stand honestly without a possible gain representing the people in a just cause, affecting, as it does, our homes and our firesides, who have been discouraged by neglect.

I am before you with the people, asking the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, as few, if any man, has ever appeared before, with the business men, property owners, and civic associations, which, you know, from Yonkers to Staten Island, and Brooklyn, are demanding that this imperative and immediate need, benefiting all, be done now.

Seventh avenue should be extended, and a subway follow under it, which would be the greatest subway in the world; a mint. To divert from this route would be suicide. Go up 7th av with a subway, and you will at once see that the extension makes the way clear to connect with all of the tunnels and subways, north, south, east and west, benefiting all of the outlying districts, a fact that must be considered.

Seventh avenue must be extended, and a subway follow in its track. It is the only logical conclusion, connecting as it would at the Battery, with Staten Island and Brooklyn. The tunnels at Cortlandt and Christopher sts, the Pennsylvania tunnel station, at 7th av and 32d st, and the Grand Central Station at 42d st, with the above appeal of the people to you, and the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

We ask that you will be a unit in securing 7th av extension, which would be one of the greatest improvements for general good in the city's history. It would be a monument to you all, in a just cause, for the right.

EDWIN ZIMMERMAN, M. D.
(Chairman of the Greenwich Village Public Service Committee.)

FOURTH AVENUE SUBWAY AUTHORIZED.

The Board of Estimate, at Friday's meeting, unanimously authorized the construction of the 4th av (Brooklyn) subway. This will give employment to a great many men for a long period, and require large amounts of certain building materials, such as structural steel, cement and tile. It will also mean a building boom in South Brooklyn sections.

By unanimous vote the issue of $6,799,010 of corporate stock was authorized for the building of thirty-one new schools—eight in Manhattan, six in the Bronx, twelve in Broklyn, five in Queens and one in Richmond.

This will put buildings on twenty of the unused sites owned by the city and enlarge eleven other schools, besides providing three portable buildings and numerous alterations.

NEW JERSEY REALTY BOARD.

The real estate brokers of Hudson County held their seventh annual meeting in the exchange rooms, Washington and York sts, Jersey City, this week. President C. Howard Slater presided. There was a large attendance representing the important real estate interests in New Jersey. The following ticket was unanimously elected: Percy A. Gaddis, president; Charles J. Singer, Jr., vice-president; S. Rowland, treasurer, and Henry Eigenrauch, secretary. The trustees elected were Frank Stevens, H. C. Albright, A. A. Franck, C. A. Burhorn and A. J. O'Neill, and the directors, J. C. Cronan, William H. Brown, C. Howard Slater, William C. Wallace, Harry Ward, D. F. Putman, Emil Schumann, Francis Gormerly, Thomas A. Ryer, Palmer Campbell, D. D. Formell and J. H. Hankin.

J. P Morgan Buyer of Johnson Corner.

MADISON AV.—Frederick Johnson has sold the plot, 75x100, at the northwest corner of Madison av and 38th st, upon which he had started to erect a 20-sty business building. George S. Baker, Jr., is the name on the contract, but the actual buyer of the property is J. P. Morgan, who is the owner of the block from 36th to 37th sts. The price paid for the plot was $750,000, and that the buyer is satisfied with his bargain is evidenced by a letter printed in another column. The seller bought the property in July of this year for $537,000.

We understand that in the present negotiations he simply submitted a statement of what he had paid for the property and what he had expended for the removal of the old buildings and in making plans, for a vault permit, and for excavating for the new building. The contract for the steel having also been let, this also had to be taken into account. The total was $680,000, to which was added a percentage to represent interest and profit, which addition produced the ultimate figure, $750,000.

The house, which is a 4-sty structure, occupies a plot fronting 55 feet on 5th av and 200 feet on the street, and was bought by Mr. Smith in 1904, together with furnishings, for $1,600,000.

NEW TRIAL ORDERED.—ACTION FOR SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE.

The Court of Appeals on October 12 reversed the judgment of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the First Judicial Department ordering a new trial.

This action was brought to compel the specific performance of a written contract made by the defendant's testator in his lifetime with the plaintiff, by which he agreed at a place and on a day and hour therein named to convey to the plaintiff a certain piece of real property for the consideration of $7,500. The contract provided that the plaintiff should pay "five hundred dollars on the execution of this (said) agreement * * * seven thousand dollars in cash on the delivery of the deed * * *" and said testator agreed upon receiving such payment to deliver to the plaintiff "a full covenant warranty deed for the conveying and assuring to him * * * the fee simple of said premises free from all incumbrances * * * and subject to a party wall agreement recorded in the office of the Register of the County of New York in Liber 859 of Conveyances at page 375."

The decision written by Justice Chase states that, in an action to compel specific performance of a written contract for the sale of land free from all incumbrance it is error to admit oral evidence that prior to and contemporaneously with the making of the contract it was agreed that the purchaser should accept title without the discharge of an existing mortgage on the property and retain sufficient of the consideration moneys to satisfy it.

The parties having executed a written agreement adjourning to a future day the closing of the title, it is error to admit oral evidence to the effect that it was then understood that no further adjournment should be had, and that the time mentioned in the contract be made of the essence thereof, that not being, ordinarily, the rule in such cases.

The above was an action brought by Louis Lese against Anna Lambrecht, the full text of the decision was reported in the Law Journal of October 18.

RIVERSIDE AND MORNINGSIDE HEIGHTS.

At the last meeting of the Riverside and Morningside Heights Association, at the Hotel Langham (Broadway and 103d st), the report of the treasurer showed a balance of $71.89.

Mr. Louis J. Halle, No. 2872 Broadway, was elected a member of the association. Reports were made by the various committees.

Mr. Clare, for the Grievance Committee, reported progress in regard to the work of closing objectionable saloons on Sundays—one on the northwest corner of Amsterdam av and 107th st had been closed and the fixtures removed by the brewer. The work of improvement of the trees in the centre of Broadway was reported as progressing. The dance hall, which has long been a nuisance in 110th st, has been removed and fine buildings are to be built on the site.

A letter was read from Rev. Dr. Sweeny, in which he regretted his inability to attend the meetings, and enclosed a check for $50 towards the work of the association. The secretary was requested to acknowledge this fine action.

There was a general discussion as to various matters of interest, at the conclusion of which, as there was no special grievances reported, the meeting adjourned until the second Monday in November.

IMPORTANT TO TAXPAYERS.

Notice is hereby given to all persons whose taxes for the year 1909 have not been paid befort the 1st day of November, of the said year, that unless the same shall be paid to the Receiver of Taxes at his office in the borough in which the property is located, as follows:

Borough of Manhattan, No. 57 Chambers st, Manhattan, N. Y.;

Borough of the Bronx, corner 3d and Tremont avs, the Bronx, N. Y.;

Borough of Brooklyn, Rooms 2, 4, 6 and 8, Municipal Building, Brooklyn, N. Y.;

Borough of Queens, corner Jackson av and 5th st, Long Island City, N. Y.;

Borough of Richmond, Borough Hall, St. George, Staten Island, N. Y.;

—he will charge, receive and collect upon such taxes so remaining unpaid on that day, in addition to an amount of such taxes, interest at the rate of seven per centum per annum, to be calculated from the day on which the said taxes become due and payable (October 4), as provided in section 914, as amended by chapter 447, Laws of 1908.

DAVID E. AUSTEN, Receiver of Taxes.

TAXPAYERS DIPLEASED WITH THE P. S. COMMISSION.

The Taxpayers' Association of the 18th and 21st Wards met on Wednesday evening, October 20, at 192-194 3d av.

A letter from the Borough President was read, stating that the Corporation Counsel was drawing up the proper papers in the matter of the opening up, grading and paving of Av B, between East 2th and exterior streets, and that the work should be completed and the street ready for traffic by the Spring of 1910.

The matter of the service on the Av C and Belt Lines was discused at some length, and the committee instructed to take the matter up again with the Public Service Commission.

The Public Service Commission was condemned very much for its lack of action in this matter and its apparent favoritism toward the companies. A letter from the Commission was read, which many of the members claimed to be a misrepresentation of the real facts.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Chas. J. F. Bohlen, president; George Schroeder, 1st vice-president; Patrick J. Dempsey, 2d vice-president; Ernest W. Morche, secretary; Frederick Stuckel, financial secretary; John G. Bauer, treasurer.

LAW DEPARTMENT

CORRECTION DEEDS.

A recent decision in the Appellate Division has relieved a purchaser at a foreclosure sale from completion of his purchase, and ordered the return to him of his ten per cent. earnest money, a thing which many believe is not done where the title is defective, believing the purchaser is obliged to take whatever title is given him by the legal sale, good or bad.

In the case in question the title on which the original mortgage under which the foreclosure had been brought, had been plain and supposedly complete, until some time after the making of the mortgage, when a correction deed, so called, was filed.

While not deciding whether a lot of earlier grantors and grantees in the chain of title could get together and change by a correction deed the amount or location of land on which a subsequent mortgage had been given, in reliance on the earlier deed sought to be corrected, the Court does hold that the purchaser at the foreclosure sale is not bound to complete a purchase so hedged about with conflicting claims and uncertainties as were brought about by the filing of the correction deed after the giving of the mortgage.

The holder of the mortgage would, of course, have to take his chances fighting it out with the people who filed the correction deed, his rights depending, of course, very greatly on whether the original deed so sought to be corrected was valid as to what it pretended to convey, in which case if he were a mortgagee, for a valuable consideration and without notice of the error, he would be protected.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I would consider it a great favor if you would inform me through your weekly publication what equity I have, if any, in the following: During the life of my mother's first husband they bought unimproved property. He died; no will was left and no executor was ever appointed. A daughter was born to the above marriage, who grew up, married, raised a family, but has since died, as well as my mother (her mother) and father, her second husband. The daughter mentioned above (my half sister), her husband has since the death of his wife (my half sister) my mother and father had the property transferred to him by his children (all of age) on a B. & S. deed. Have I any equity in the property, my father having paid the taxes on same during his married life for 40 years? My sister was three years old when my mother married the second time.

Very truly yours, WM. FICHTER.

Answer.—There is heritable blood in this State to property descending through the half-blood when the property does not come from one not an ancestor of the claimant. See an attorney.—Ed.

To the Editor of the New York Times:

Can you inform me through your law department the following: A. is an international corporation having C. B. and D. employed as New York managers. E. has done some work on contract and has received some money, but cannot collect the balance. Therefore E. threatens to bring suit. Must he (E.) mention C., B. and D. in suit or just A. alone?

C., B., D. have each signed separate contracts.

Hoping that you will oblige, I beg to remain,

Very truly yours, P. FEINER.

Answer.—The particulars are too complicated for an answer of any value without further statement. The general rule is that a corporation can sue or be sued by its name, and no individuals composing it, or working for it are necessary to be named in an action.—Ed.

Editor of the Record and Guide:

Dear Sir: Will you please answer the following in your Legal Department? Has the city, or a public telephone company, or a private owner a right to trespass on private property to put up telephone wire on house, roof or chimney without owner's consent? How can city, telephone company or (private party, whose wire I think it is) be compelled to remove telephone wire? Owner is advised he can cut down wire himself without being held liable, though if cut would obstruct street. Would a civil or city court judge issue an order to remove wire if appealed to?

ANS.—A telephone or telegraph company has no right to attach a wire to your house, or chimney, or any part thereof without permission of the owner. Once attached, however, the law forbids any summary act of cutting down wires—this we regret to say is often availed of by enthusiastic line riggers of the corporations, the line being set up by any device available, and the owner left to seek a slow remedy by the law, or similarly plan illegal reprisals.

2. Any good lawyer will take for you the necessary steps in the law to force the "evacuation by the enemy" of your invaded premises.—Ed.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1909.

9th.—T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

Oct. 22, 23, 25, 26, 27 and 28.

Vol. LXXXIV. NOVEMBER 6, 1909. No. 2173

THE BROOKLYN EAGLE has been quick to seize upon one result of the election as of the greatest importance for that Borough. According to this able journal the happiest result of the polling will be the approaching control of the Board of Estimate by the inhabitants of Long Island. The new Mayor, Comptroller, and the Borough President of Brooklyn are all Brooklynites and their voting strength will be equal to the combined strength of the rest of the Board. If they can carry with them the vote of the President of Queens they will have a clear majority, and the Eagle thinks that this is a consummation devoutly to be wished, because in its opinion the City has been administered hitherto too much for the benefit of Manhattan. Statements of this kind are surely sufficient to justify some irritation on the part of Manhattan tax-payers. The consolidation of the former cities of New York and Brooklyn has been a veritable boon for the tax-payers of Brooklyn and has resulted in a considerable loss to the tax-payers of Manhattan. Brooklyn was practically a bankrupt city at the time of consolidation. The immediate fruits thereof were an increase in the salaries of Brooklyn office-holders to the Manhattan level and a shifting of a large fraction of the cost of the government of Brooklyn on the back of the Manhattan property-owner. Brooklyn now receives about twice as many millions from the city treasury as its tax-payers contribute thereto. Since consolidation, the only money voted for transit improvements in Manhattan and the Bronx has cost the city nothing and will eventually be very profitable to the city. On the other hand, twice as much money, about $80,000,000 in all, has been spent on bridges to Long Island, which return to the city substantially no income at all and which will never return a direct income anywhere near sufficient to pay the interest on their cost. Before consolidation, two-thirds of the expense of constructing a bridge was paid for by Brooklyn. Since consolidation more than two-thirds of this expense falls on the tax-payers of Manhattan. In addition, a subway has just been authorized running to South Brooklyn. That will constitute a burden on the city treasury instead of a source of income thereto. Similarly, undeveloped sections in the Bronx have to be satisfied with elevated roads, but Brooklyn suburban districts must have four-track subways. In view of this array of facts, the tax-payer of Manhattan may well rub his eyes and ask how much Brooklyn really requires in order to feel satisfied that it is getting a fair share of the benefits of consolidation. What more can the new Board of Estimate from Long Island do for the inhabitants of that section than has been done by the selfish Manhattan officials of the past? The only possible grievance Brooklyn can have turns upon the delay in the construction of the Fourth avenue subway, and that delay was due chiefly to the opposition of a resident of Brooklyn, Comptroller Metz, whose wholly disinterested attitude in respect to this matter really injured his personal political career. The tax-payers of Manhattan are paying the expenses of consolidation freely and uncomplainingly, and they should at least receive credit for their well-doing from their brethren across the river.

ONE of the most encouraging results of the election has been the stronger tendency which has been shown in the price of the city stock, and the feeling of satisfaction which is indicated by this fact is in all probability well founded. The Record and Guide does not, indeed, believe that the new Mayor and Board of Estimate will be able, any more than their predecessors were able, to bring about any material reduction in the municipal expenses, but there can be no doubt that they will be obliged from the very necessity of their situation to make every effort to keep expenses down. During the campaign two issues predominated—the issues of new subways and of municipal economy. All the new officials are committed to the rapid extension of the subway system, and the Mayor-elect in particular to the construction of the new system with the city's credit. He may have difficulty in making good this part of his platform, because at this writing it is doubtful whether the constitution has been amended for the purpose of permitting the city to issue as much stock as is necessary for the construction of a self-supporting transit system; but in any event it will go hard with the new administration in case at the end of its term a good start has not been made towards additional subway construction. The pledge in respect to municipal economy will, as we have said, be still more difficult to redeem; but even if little can be effected in the way of reducing the city's expenses a good deal can be accomplished in the interest of financial reorganization. The attempt which will undoubtedly be made by the new Comptroller and Board of Estimate to introduce more order into the city's finances, and to diminish the waste will at least serve to show how much can be accomplished under existing laws and how much more can be accomplished with the help of some effective reorganization. The new Board of Estimate is characterized by a high average of good intentions and ability. The very fact that the new Mayor was elected on one ticket and the rest of the Board on another will provoke emulation on the part of the competitors for public approval; and there is a fair chance at least that this competition will not stand in the way of effective co-operation in respect to all matters involving some essential question of public welfare. That some such incentive of emulation and co-operation will characterize the work of the Board may be fairly anticipated, and the new administration should assume office encouraged by the confidence and good wishes of the people of New York.

BOSTON has gained something better from the recent election than has New York. A new charter has been adopted by popular vote in that city, which is a radical improvement upon its existing charter and which is in fact the best system of municipal organization as yet adopted in any large American city. In certain respects it is indeed an improvement upon the charter reported to the Legislature by the New York Commission. In their general tendencies the two charters are similar. In both cases a Finance Commission becomes substantially responsible for the good government of the city. In both cases a Mayor is made responsible for the efficient administration of the city's affairs. In both cases the Board of Aldermen is used simply as a check upon the Finance Commission and the Mayor. But the details of the organization are superior in the Boston instrument. The Boston Board of Aldermen has become a small body of only nine members, elected on a general ticket, instead of the large body of district representatives, which is proposed by the Ivins charter. When elected in this way, there is a much better chance that the Board will perform a useful function, and serve as a really efficient check upon the Finance Commission and the Mayor. Furthermore, the new Mayor of Boston, while he will serve for four years, will be subject to recall after two years, provided the voters of the city decide at a special election that he has served them ill. This provision is more doubtful; but its insertion constitutes a useful experiment in the value of the recall as a political expedient. It is natural that in case officials are elected for long terms and are supplied with abundant powers, some precautions should be taken against a possible betrayal of the public trust. But while the new Boston charter is in these respects better than that of the New York Commission, the latter is so much an improvement upon the existing charter, that the sooner it is adopted the better. There is unfortunately very little chance that it will be adopted at the next session of the Legislature; but in all probability the officials elected four years from now will serve under the provisions of a charter which will more closely resemble the Ivins charter than does the instrument under which we are now governed.

IN CASE further investigation proves that the Criminal Courts building in Centre street is wholly unsafe and can be made safe only by radical reconstruction, the Board of Estimate should consider carefully the best course to be taken in reference to the matter. It should consider, that is, whether the cheaper course in the end would not be to tear down the existing building and erect a really good one in its place. The city is constantly needing more space for the proper conduct of its judicial business. The value of real estate near the City Hall is very high and is constantly becoming higher. The city or the county owns in the Centre street property a large site which is sufficiently convenient, and which could be used for the construction of a sky-scraper which would be in every way an improvement upon the old building. The existing building is not only unsafe, but it is ugly, inconvenient, badly ventilated and shabby. A new building could be erected on the same site which would afford many times the space and which would provide the criminal and some of the other courts with clean, modern, convenient, sweet and good-looking apartments. The old building always was a hideous, rotten, vulgar thing. It was born in iniquity. It has lived an ugly, deformed life, and it should die an early and an unregretted death. If there is any way in which its complete destruction can be brought about without excessive expense, the Board of Estimate will make New York a sweeter city by taking immediate steps to that end.

BUILDING OPERATIONS, favored by fair weather, continue to employ a high proportion of the mechanics in most trades, but not in all. Brick-building remains below normal, but is expected to improve before winter sets in. This was election week in the city, with one working-day less than usual. The honors of the election fell mostly to the Fusionists, but the new Mayor will be a Democrat, and the Board of Aldermen will continue to be Democratic, but by a reduced majority. As the best form of government is said to be a government of checks, wherein one department acts as a check on another, we ought to get for the next four years a pretty good brand of government. Some political economists allege that a "reform" victory spells parsimony and lessened business activity, but Chairman Willcox, of the Public Service Commission, says the result of the election means "more subways." If there is anything that the building trades need to stimulate them, it is more subway construction. Shoveling will begin for the new Brooklyn subway early next year, as the final authorization has been given, and the contracts have virtually been awarded, to William Bradley, for two sections; E. E. Smith Company, two sections; J. P. Graham, one section; Tidewater Building Company, T. B. Bryson and J. P. Graham, one section. Plan-filing at the Building Bureaus has been light this week, but several important announcements have been made, one representing a new 12-sty office building for William st, and another, a new building, for the firm of W. & J. Sloane, to occupy the site of the Windsor Arcade, on 5th av. Particularly as regards Manhattan Borough, though the plans filed for new buildings are comparatively few, they average high in importance. The day of small buildings in old New York is passing. There has not been the congestion of work or the high mounting of prices for building materials that was expected, for one reason, because the demand for apartment houses has not been sprightly enough; but next season will, in all probability, be a banner year, and if the weather is favorable there will be considerable to do this winter.

TAXES AND RENTS.

Mr. Polak Holds to the Principle That the Tax Rate Cannot Be Shifted to the Tenant.

To the Editor of the Real Estate Record and Guide:

In Mr. Edward J. Levy's reply to my article in your last issue, he overlooks entirely the effect of the increase in the tax rate to reduce the selling price of land. If this feature could properly be ignored, then all that Mr. Levy says in criticism of my article would be true.

Every increase in the tax on the value of the land has the effect of decreasing the amount which the builder must pay for the land by twenty times the increased tax on the land. This saving and the interest thereon will more than offset the increased tax which he will pay on the building.

The selling value of land is an untaxed value. It is the net rent, after the taxes and other fixed charges are paid, capitalized at the current rate of interest, and is usually equal to twenty times the annual net rent. An increased tax upon the value of land diminishes this net rent, and, of course, diminishes the selling value of land by twenty times the increased tax. On this point, Professor Charles J. Bullock, of Harvard, stated at the Louisville Tax Conference in September:

"Every buyer of real estate, at the time of his purchase, takes into account the taxes falling upon the property, and adjusts accordingly the price he offers. The result is that the value of real estate is diminished by the existing taxes capitalized at the current rate of interest, so that these taxes are no real burden for the subsequent purchaser. If the taxes increase during the time he holds the property the additional burden of course falls upon the purchaser, since it diminishes by so much the price obtainable at the next transfer."

With owners of land having no pressure on them to sell or use there is no supply of land except such as owners choose to sell at a price which builders can afford to pay. While builders can afford to pay so much, and no more, they will do so only as long as the terms of the landowner demand it.

The final arbiter of all value is the law of supply and demand. In a congested city, with more land held out of use than should be, the amount a builder will pay depends upon his receiving, in net rents, interest on the capital invested in buildings, the tax on building and other fixed charges and interest on purchase price of land plus taxes on the same.

The landowner, however, will not be in a position to hold out for these terms if the increment to the value of the land is taken through increased taxation.

It is a fundamental truth in political economy, recognized by all authorities on this subject, that a tax on the value of land cannot be shifted by the owner to the tenant.

Professor Seligman, in his "Incidents of Taxation," says: "It may be laid down as a general rule that a tax laid on the owner of the soil for ground rents cannot be shifted."

The reports of the Department of Taxes and Assessments place the value of land in the City of New York at approximately two-thirds of the total. This means that two-thirds of the increase in the city's tax rate falls upon the value of land and one-third upon the value of the improvements.

Yours truly, EDWARD POLAK.

TAXES, RENTS AND "MODEL TENEMENTS."

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Dear Sir—The question of the burdens of local taxation, and who bears them, is so clearly and so exhaustively set forth in a little pamphlet of Mr. Lawson Purdy's, which the Tax Reform Association supplies for all its members and to persons entitled to it, that argument or discussion of the effect of taxes upon rent seems to me superfluous.

Many professors of political economy use this book in their classes, and its clearness and brevity commend it to those who are interested.

I was glad to see your recommendation to the Phelps Stokes Fund that they make their model tenements pay.

Instead of being models, such enterprises as the Phipps tenement houses are solemn warnings to every builder to keep away from that sort of thing, because even unlimited capital cannot make it pay. Our Model Tenements, so far, have been—models of how not to do it.

Perhaps this is because they share the uneffectiveness for real reform of all charities. Sincerely yours,

BOLTON HALL.

THE ELECTION AND THE BUILDING CODE.

This week's election leaves the present dominant political power with a majority of but one with which to organize the next Board of Aldermen. Under such circumstances, no legislation of an extremely partisan nature is likely to be attempted with reference to the Building Code. As Chief-Engineer Lewis has been unable to obtain an appropriation with which to defray the expense of the tests which Mayor McClellan desires to have made, he has been unable to proceed; and no tests having been made, no report is available upon which to predicate new amendments with respect to the matters referred to in the Mayor's veto message. The proposed amendments must lie under the weight of his official disapproval for the few weeks that remain to this present administration.

As two commissions have tried and failed to produce a code that could be officially sanctioned, the next Board of Aldermen can be expected to consider carefully before constituting another commission of like nature with no assurance of a better result. An entirely proper course for the next administration would be to take good counsel as to the best way of obtaining an impartial and competent revision in a manner that will not invite another war between rival interests.

Hon. Max Grifenhagen, formerly an Alderman, and as such Chairman of the Building Committee, has been elected Registrar of the County of New York. Unbiased opinion ranks Mr. Grifenhagen very high as a man of affairs and good motives. Hon. H. O. Wittpenn, of Houghtaling & Wittpenn, brick dealers, of 44 East 42d st, has been elected Mayor of Jersey City.

LAST OF THE COURT OF HONOR.—By Tuesday night the last column of the Hudson-Fulton Court of Honor, in front of the New York Public Library, at 5th av and 42d st, will have been removed. These were erected by the Clay-Thompson Co. at a cost of $7,500, entirely of plaster of paris. The only part made of cement was the scraping blocks at the foot of each column. There were thirty-six columns in all. No part of the structure, except the poles supporting them, can be saved, the debris being taken to the city dump. The poles are the property of the Clay-Thompson Co.

WHAT A TENANT GETS FOR $10000

As Exemplified in Two New Apartment Houses—Why Such High Rents are Paid —The New Standard of Living for Millionaires—City Apartments and Country Estates.

QUESTIONS and remarks overheard by builders and agents from time to time disclose that it is still incomprehensible to most non-residents why many New York families should be willing to pay as much per annum for rent as would buy a fairly good farm in the country. The wonder is not that there are so many New Yorkers able to pay eight to twelve thousand a year, but that so many are willing to pay it for a single apartment, in preference to having a whole house of their own.

There are a number of reasons why, but it is not the purpose of this article to give them, except to explain in a general way that New York has become the wealthiest city in the world, that it has its own standards of living, that these have changed from former times, and that to a large number of families the expenditure of a few thousand dollars more or less per annum is not a matter of great importance when value is received.

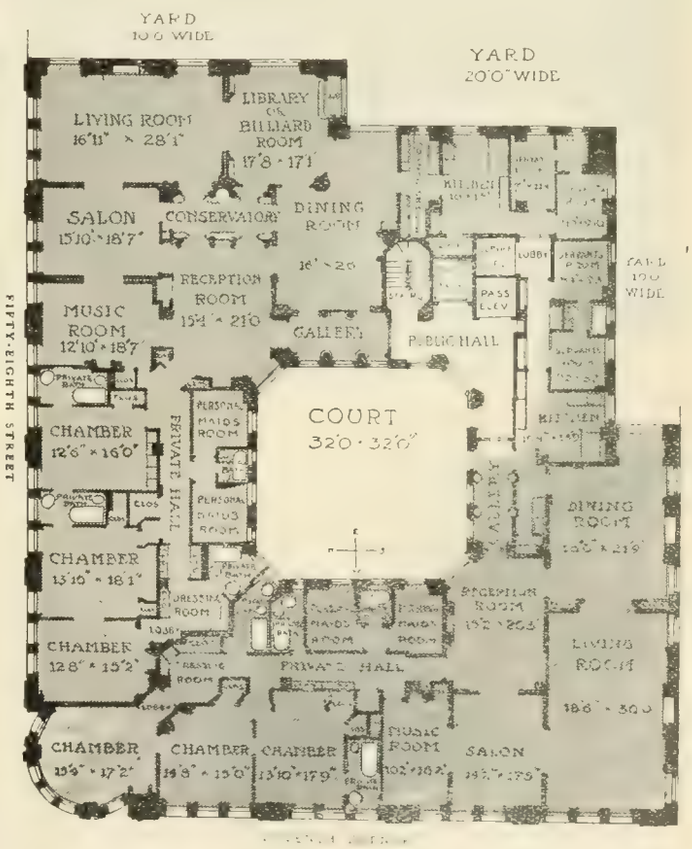
We must learn to take a very large view of New York, for it is to be the foremost city of the world. The leading families in America are adopting a standard of living which includes more than one home. There is a country home and also a city home. The real homestead is in the country. There's where the family treasures are. For the city home, apartments are coming to be preferred over the private dwelling, for one reason, because a private dwelling may not be obtainable in the particular neighborhood where the family wishes to reside when in town. The really high-class apartment offers to tenants of wealth and standing the choice of the finest locations in Swelldom. Emerson says that there is a price on everything—pay the price, and the thing is yours. If one wishes to live in the most fashionable neighborhood in America, he must pay the price fixed by the market.

Part of the price being for the use of the site, another portion represents the cost of the building and other portions of the price represents the cost of maintaining that building—the cost of the house service, the taxes and the interest. It is apparent that the size of the rent does not necessarily represent the degree of luxury of the apartments themselves, and it is conceivable that a house in an ultra-fashionable section may not be, architecturally, as imposing, and internally as luxurious as one less fashionably situated and for which a smaller rent is required. Therefore, the answer to the question, What does a tenant get for nine thousand a year, is not to be expressed merely in a description of the suite, of the number and size of the rooms, or of the beauty of the decorations.



The ten thousand pays for more than can be defined in words.

Two houses finished this fall represent the new standard of living for millionaire Americans very clearly. One is "Alwyn Court," standing in an exclusive district near the "Plaza," and the other is the "Verona," at the crossing of 64th st and Madison av, which is adjacent to the Park and 5th av. The rentals in the first-named range from $6,500 to $10,000 for single apartments, but one duplex apartment in this house is priced at $22,000 a year.

ARRANGEMENT OF ROOMS.

Messrs. Harde & Short, the architects, have cautioned other architects, owners and builders that they are not to use the floor plan of this house, or any feature incorporated therein, in any building they may erect. The plans will appeal to everyone as a fine layout for a house of grand dimensions, such as "Alwyn Court." There are but two apartments on a floor, each consisting of fourteen rooms, eleven of which are outside, and five baths. They are so arranged that over two thousand square feet of floor space can be thrown together for entertaining.

That chamber in the corner is a grand room for the prospect it gives out over the Plaza and Central Park, and also for its own interior finish of white enamel woodwork and silken hangings. Back of it is my lady's dressing-room, where every panel is a mirror, and every mirror hides a closet in the wall. A singular thing about the doors in this room and in some others is that they have no visible hinges and locks; and one who did not know would see no door at all, as doors have the appearance of panels merely. The walls and ceilings of the bathrooms are all mirrored also. The shelves in all the bathrooms and dressing-rooms, are plate glass. There are roomy millinery closets with plate glass compartments, fireplaces of exquisite design, parquet floors, mahogany doors, paneled walls in the dining-rooms, and woodwork elsewhere in white with "compo" ornamentation in floral designs.

For every apartment there is a vacuum-cleaning system. No more brooming for the ten-thousand-dollar tenant. Every particle of dust miraculously disappears. There is also an individual wine vault with each apartment.

The owners of the "Alwyn Court" are Charles R. Hedden, of 1 Madison av; A. L. Prescott, 92 West Broadway; Alwyn Ball, Jr., 395 Broadway; William McKenzie, Carlton Hill, President of the Standard Bleachery Company; and Frank Hughes, of Passaic, President of the Dundee Textile Company. The Hedden Construction Company, No. 1 Broadway, was the general contractor.

The other new house, the "Verona," is not quite in the ten-thousand-dollar class, as the highest rental rate is $9,500, but the minimum rate of $8,000 is higher than the minimum rate in the "Alwyn." The "Verona" is a fireproof apartment, designed in the Italian Renaissance style of architecture. It is now owned by a corporation called the "Sixty-Fourth Street Company," of which Victor V. Kranich is president. It was built from plans by William E. Mowbray by the Buckley Realty & Construction Company. The cost of the building alone was once given as $800,000, or about fifty cents a cubic foot.

It is a massive structure, composed in three horizontal layers of three stories each, reposing on a rusticated basement story, of which the large entrance on the Madison facade is the most prominent feature. The architecture, with its alternate pairs of windows in vertical rows, reminds one of the manner of some Venetian palaces. The cornice was evidently designed to be in proportion, not to the upper division, as is often the case, but rather in proportion to the whole building.

Always bearing in mind the choice residential location of the house, and the proximity of 5th av, it can be explained, in answering the question, What does a tenant get for nine thousaand dollars a year? that all the rooms in the "Verona" are of unusual size, and that each apartment contains fourteen rooms, giving as much space as in some private dwellings of very good class. In each apartment the kitchen, pantry and service-rooms are grouped in the center of the building, without loss of light and air, as there is a rear court, and they are reached by an independent elevator, thereby being isolated from the living portions of the apartments.

All the living-rooms and sleeping-rooms of importance have "outside" positions, and the elevators run directly upon a private vestibule in connection with each apartment. The apartments have been decorated in accordance with the wishes of the tenants, irrespective of cost. That is to say, it is up to the tenants to set the standard of beauty and luxury. If they can conceive of anything more elegant, they can have it without extra cost. All the usual conveniences and comforts in the best form are, of course, present, beside the new vacuum-cleaning and refrigerating systems, and a safe in every apartment.

The parlor is finished in white enamel, with a tapestry frieze; the library in mahogany, with paneled walls and beamed ceiling, and it also has unique windows; the dining-room in Flemish oak, dark, and with heavy carvings; and then, the bathrooms and dressing-rooms are beautiful with white decorations and mirrors. In all these high-grade houses there is much closet space—not obtrusive closets—and sometimes with doors hid in the panels of the walls. The house performs many services for the tenants and reduces the housekeeping to the minimum. As the rooms are dustless, there is very little cleaning to do; no errands to run, for the telephone is on the table, and Altman, McCreery or Tiffany will bring the fashions of Paris to your side when you telephone. One can literally live in the choicest neighborhood of the most interesting city in the land, in a house of beauty and luxury, without a household care—without lifting a hand.

VISTA IN "ALWYN COURT."

BEAUTIFUL NEW THEATRE IN CENTRAL PARK WEST

A GROUP of public-spririted gentlemen will presently receive from the hands of their architects and builders the most beautiful playhouse in America. We understand that it is a failing of New Yorkers that their range of vision is short, but the new theatre is really the first in this country wherein a real attempt has been made to equal in architectural elegance and construction the ideal playhouse, as everyone knew it ought to be, but was not able, on account of commercial reasons, to produce.

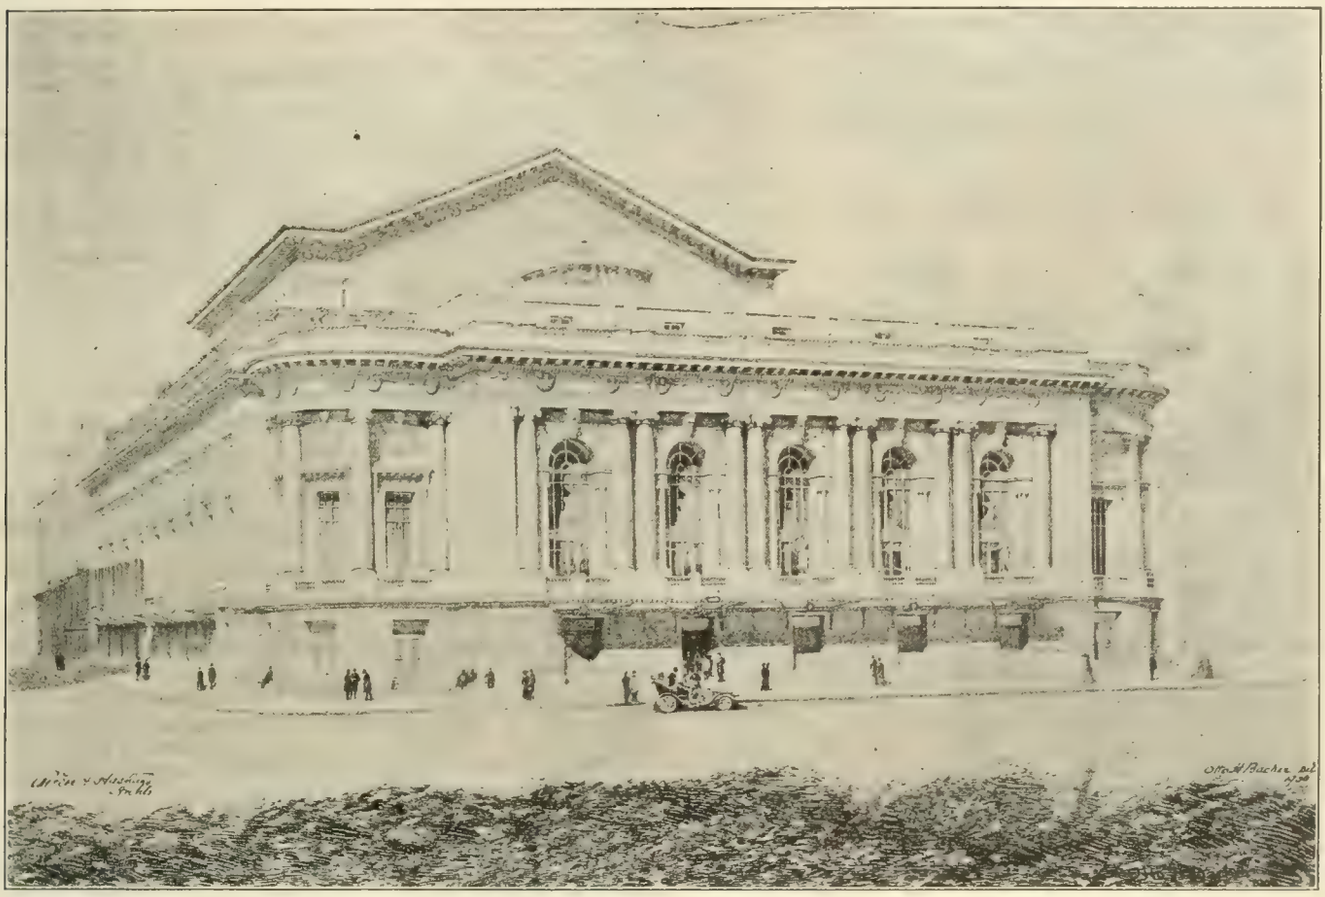
The new theatre has no commercial side. Externally it is impressive; it proclaims its office; it is constructed after classical precedents of noble materials; and in design it follows the Italian Renaissance. Internally, it is beautiful but not surprising. It was known that it would be like this if the best motives were allowed free course, the best examples followed. We have never had before in New York a real foyer, or a real grand staircase.

The main foyer will be decorated with beautiful paintings, largely through the beneficence of William K. Vanderbilt, who has already given three famous Baudry paintings from his own collections and a sum of money for the purchase of other works. The foyer is constructed of rich Siena marble and gold, and has at either end an orchestra platform which will be used by the orchestra during intermissions at dramatic performances.

At one end of the circulation on the foyer floor is a tea room, daintly done in a pale green and white Wedgwood effect. Here tea will be served between acts. At the other end of the circulation room is the women's retiring room, pleasingly decorated in a similar manner.

The circulations in the rear of the first and second balconies are commodious and intended to be used as promenades during intermissions. On one floor is the founders' room, splendidly fitted, and on the other the library. The former has been furnished by the founders themselves, and is remarkable for its taste and beauty. The library for the players, which adjoins the dressing rooms, is a model of its kind, and has oak bookcases rising from the floor to the ceiling.

The exterior is of Indiana limestone. There is a high base containing all the entrances, and a 2-sty colonnade. The foyer, extending through the height of two stories, accentuated by large arches extending the full height of the columns.



The grand staircases are masterpieces of masonry, but are principally white cement. It is a new thought in the possibilities of cement.

The auditorium is elliptical in shape, with the long axis parallel to the proscensium arch. There are twenty-three boxes, extending in a single row around the orchestra four feet above the main floor. Rising in a receding curved line above the boxes are the foyer stalls and the first and second balconies.

The color scheme is driftwood gray and gold, suggesting simplicity and a due regard for the traditions of theatre decoration.. Sometimes the gray is seen on a heavy gold background, and sometimes the gold is on a background of gray. The hangings of boxes and foyer stalls are cerise. The balustrades are a royal gold bronze elevated on a Breche violette marble base with marble dies. The proscenium arch is framed in greenish tinged Connemara marble, over which is the theatre's crest.

The auditorium is surrounded on each floor by a broad corridor, and all the aisles are unusually wide, the seats are low backed, the carpets, crimson Axminster.

The top floor of the theatre in the front is devoted to a picturesque roof garden, which sets back a bit from the terrace overlooking Central Park, and is partly roofed with glass. The doors, all of glass, lead to the walled terrace, which may be decorated with potted plants and vari-colored lanterns when the garden is opened to the public.

THE NEW THEATRE. Carrere & Hastings, Architects.

In no other theatre in the world are the accommodations for actors so elaborate and comfortable. The rooms rise tier upon tier from the stage floor on the 63d street side. Each is provided with a double wardrobe, containing interior electric lights, a marble topped make-up table with vari-colored lights, hot and cold water and comfortable lounging chairs. On each floor are baths and showers.

Another luxury is the greenroom. It is located on the ground floor, just off the stage, on the 63d street side. It will be luxuriously furnished. Here players will chat and entertain their friends, as in the days of Garrick.

The building covers a block front on Central Park West, and runs back 225 feet on 62d street and 200 feet on 63d street. It seats 2,318 persons. In the breast of every citizen the new playhouse must inspire feelings of pride, not alone in the building but also in the fact that there are men financially able and patriotically willing to come forward and erect a palace for the drama like this. Its good effect upon the community cannot be over-estimated.

The architects are Carrere & Hastings; general contractors, Marc Eidlitz & Son; sub-contractors for the stonework, B. A. & G. N. Williams; woodwork, Sloan & Moller.

—Does your floor squeak? It is caused by the boards rubbing together. A good way to stop it is to turn in screws through the cracks at housecleaning time. The screws will either spread the boards or hold them together so they will not squeak.

COMPOSITE CONCRETE AND BRICK BUILDINGS.

CONSIDERABLE interest has been shown in the so-called composite brick and concrete construction described in our issue of October 16. Joseph C. Schaeffler & Co., architects and engineers, New York and Boston, have sent the accompanying elevation showing the latest of a number of such buildings which have been designed by them.

The main difference between the composite design as practiced by them and Mr. Dean's, illustrated heretofore, is in the concrete frame. It will be noticed (see Record and Guide of October 16) that Mr. Dean's design shows the concrete floor slab resting on the brick walls. This calls for a heavy bearing wall and eliminates the reinforced concrete wall columns or pilasters. But these very pilasters in the design herewith illustrated, and also the reinforced concrete floor beams, are boldly shown on the exterior of the building, thereby denoting that the entire weight of the building is carried on the reinforced concrete frame and no weight whatever on the brick walls.

As a matter of fact, these brick curtain walls under the windows are only 8 inches thick all over the main building, and in the stair towers 12 inches. When such buildings are erected the entire frame and floor system is practically completed before any brickwork is undertaken. After that the brick walls and windows may be placed simultaneously on every floor of the building.

The owners of mill and factory buildings very often extend such buildings to provide for increased capacity, and here again the value of the method here illustrated becomes apparent. The addition may be erected without in any way interfering with the existing structure, until it becomes necessary to take down the brick wall between, and the facility with which this can be accomplished requires no explanation to the initiated. Where the floor slab rests on the brick wall, as in our previous illustration, shoring must be used before the load can be transferred from this wall to the new line of columns which must be erected.

Where it would be objectionable to have the wall columns and floor beams show, as in the present illustration, these can easily be covered with a veneer of brick or terra cotta.

The authors of this design state that they have found it to an advantage to have an organization comprising both architects and engineers. They are thereby enabled to design all classes of commercial buildings, complete, including all structural steel and concrete work, power plant, heating and ventilating apparatus, without recourse to outside assistance, and in this way affect considerable economy for the owner. Each man in charge of any part of the design is immediately notified when any change of design is made in another branch, and he then changes his own design accordingly. This tends to save time, and the entire work is always absolutely under the control of the chief draftsman.

It is claimed that buildings, like the one here illustrated, are absolutely fireproof, and that when carefully designed can be erected at a cost not exceeding that of slow-burning mill construction, and frequently, under favorable conditions, at a lower cost; and, further, that such buildings, except for their contents, require no insurance.

NOVELTIES.

NEW DEVICE FOR WASHING AIR.—A New York company is on the market with a new device for washing air in office buildings, factories and residences. It consists of a unique spray system that brings every atom of atmosphere into direct contact with water at pressure, thus completely charging it with health-giving properties seldom obtained even in the open country.

REFLECTED ILLUMINATION FOR HOMES.—An inventor is out with a simple plan for equalizing light distribution in rooms in dwellings. The incandescent gas or electric bulb or mantel is hidden from sight from all parts of the room by an inverted reflector which throws the rays upon the ceiling with great intensity, and from there it is diffused everywhere. All shadows are removed, thus giving a brilliant effect, without glare, in drawing or living rooms. It is also said to be satisfactory in offices as well as in large auditoriums.

SPANISH TILE MADE OF METAL.—In residence construction, it is frequently desirable to avoid great roof weights. Here is where pressed metal comes to the aid of the architect. The form of the Spanish terra cotta roof tile is followed, but in pressed tin that is said to be wind, weather, storm, fire and lightning proof. It is applied without the use of solder or special tools and by any mechanic. It is not expensive. An interlocking system permits free expansion and contraction, and thus a roof is provided that is self-adjusting to weather conditions.

WATERPROOFING THAT WITHSTANDS 70 POUNDS.—The trade heard, recently, of a German waterproofing invention that will withstand penetration of moisture or dampness up to 70 pounds per square inch. It comes in large-sized cans, and when mixed with water, either hot or cold, makes a composition of the consistency of butter. Its chief characteristic is that it is not mixed with mortar, but is dissolved in water with which the mortar is made. It is said to be equally applicable on brick, stone or concrete.

DOES AWAY WITH CEILING CARRYING BARS.—A system of slotted steel studding permits the erection of suspended ceilings without carrying bars, and, at the same time, gives stability and rigidity. When used for carrying the lath for suspended ceilings the architect is said to be sure of the proper placing and bracing of the channels.

A METAL WEATHER STRIP LINED WITH CLOTH.—For the purpose of making window casings absolutely airtight, a cloth-lined metal weather strip has been placed upon the market. It is mortised into the running face of the window sash, and is made of pressed steel or copper.

SOMETHING NEW IN FLOOR FINISHINGS.—A local company offers a secret composition for treating floors, the first cost of which is no greater than for shellac, and it is said costs less to maintain. In application it dries quickly, and expert work is not required.

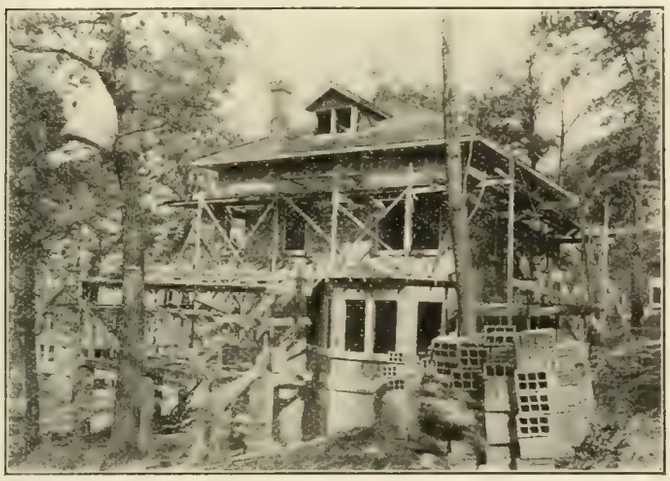
QUICKLY ADJUSTABLE MONKEYWRENCH.—The uses of the monkeywrench are varied, and when needed they are usually wanted in a hurry. If the radiator springs a leak and steam is injuring the walls, for instance, it is desirable to have one handy. In haste, there is nothing so annoying as having to stop to work over a stiff screw to make it "bite" the nut. A company has put on the market a simple device which is instantly adjustable by a slight push of the thumb when the slightest pressure on the nut locks the jaws in that position and keeps it from slipping. They are made in all sizes, and appeals strongly to plumbers and engineers.

ONE CLOCK GOVERNS ALL IN BUILDING.—To have perfect time in all parts of an office building, factory or home, at absolutely no cost in operation, is the claim made for a new clock system now being pushed in building circles. The system comprises a master clock, with automatic control of as many secondary clocks as desired, all controlled by air and gravity. There are no compressors, no motors, no batteries or any auxiliary apparatus of any kind. It may also be equipped with annunciator for giving required signals.

WALL COVERING OF ENAMELED CLOTH.—A novelty in wall covering that is attracting considerable attention from those who have seen it is being featured by a local concern. It is made on a heavy cloth backing, into which a special enamel is pressed at about 2,000 pounds per square inch. It is claimed for this material that it will not craize, crack, peel or chip, is steam, water and soil proof, and does not turn yellow with age. It can be applied by any good paperhanger.

—The number of homes that have been acquired through the building and loan associations of Essex, Hudson, Bergen, Passaic, Union and other counties of New Jersey is estimated at 15,000. There are at least three associations in these counties that have a million in assets each, a dozen or more steadily climbing to the million mark, and half a million assets in an association is not considered remarkable these days.

SPREAD OF THE FIREPROOF IDEA.



By CHAS. L. VAN FOSSEN.*

Hollow tile, which has been so largely used in the construction of floors and partitions of large office buildings and hotels, is now being very extensively employed in the erection of suburban homes, and the many advantages of this material are becoming so well known that it is likely to be adopted for every extensive use within the next few years.

The illustration on this page presents a suburban residence that is being erected in River View Manor at Hastings-on-Hudson for Mr. W. W. Burgess by John O. Berg, architect and builder, at Hastings-on-Hudson. The photograph shows the material in the walls, as well as out of the walls. In this particular house the floors are also of hollow tile and the roof is of asbestos shingles, thus making practically a fireproof house in every respect. The method of building houses with the hollow tile may be briefly described as follows:

The walls are usually 8x12x12 wall tile. This is a six-hole block with dovetail grooves on all four sides, which hold the stucco and binder. These tiles weigh about 38 pounds. The same form of tile is used very extensively in the construction of the foundation, simply using the footing concrete.

The blocks are laid with the holes running vertically and the joints are broken at every course. No corner block is necessary, as the size of the blocks 8x12x12 gives a four-inch bond at the corner. It is wise, however, in this construction with this size block to use a jamb block, which is manufactured especially for window openings, which insures a tight joint at that point and also gives a suitable reveal.

For small constructions, such as cottages, bungalows, etc., a 6x12x12 tile is manufactured and may be used very acceptably. This tile has three holes in it and weighs about twenty-five pounds. Another size for larger constructions is a 10x12x12, and it is advisable to use a special jamb block manufactured for this size with a four-inch reveal, as well as corner blocks, which are 10x12x16.

These blocks are constructed very smooth and it is not necessary to furr off the interior of the house, but the plastering is done directly on the tile. However, it is advisable to dampproof the exterior of the wall by one of the many methods now on the market.

The finishing of a hollow tile house is usually with a stucco exterior and much latitude is permitted in the type of architecture. The many advantages of this method of construction over frame are self-evident, there being no shrinkage, and no cracking in the stucco interior, as the blocks will neither expand nor contract as in the case of wood.

The cost of insurance is reduced to a minimum. Such a house is warmer in winter and cooler in summer by reason of the air spaces in the tile, and it is fireproof, dampproof, vermin-proof and soundproof. There is no depreciation in a house of this construction, and the cost of maintenance in future years is very small compared to frame. The relative cost of construction may be estimated at about two and one-half per cent. more than an ordinary frame dwelling. If fireproof floors are installed the cost will be from fifteen to twenty per cent. more than the frame, and this form of construction represents without question the highest type of building that can be erected to-day.

As an evidence of the growing popularity of this material it might be stated that in River View Manor alone, out of forty-eight houses which have been constructed within the past eight months, eighteen of these houses are of the above-described construction.

AN AUCTIONEER'S IDEA.

Bryan L. Kennelly's booklet for next Wednesday's sale at Fort Washington exemplifies a new idea. After telling where the lots are situated, and what the existing means of access are, he proceeds to give his opinion as to what the lots are adapted for. They are on Northern avenue, which, beginning at 181st st, runs north between Riverside Drive and Fort Washington av. Northern av is the same road on which Dr. Paterno, the Morningside Heights builder, has erected a beautiful marble castlelated residence, and where Messrs. W. W. Kingsley and James Harden have resided for some years. The lots are on the west side of the avenue, opposite these private residences.

In Mr. Kennelly's opinion, the lots, 35 in number, divided into 9 plots, are well adapted for villa sites, and also for elevator apartment houses, or an apartment hotel. The new idea consists in showing by illustration how to improve the plot without destroying its high elevation, and at the same time have an entrance for carriages and automobiles on grade. The illustration shows a 20-sty apartment hotel, set far back from the building line (because the greatest depth of the tract is 240 feet) and elevated fifteen or more feet above the curb. But there is an arched tunnel for vehicles extending from the building line at grade through the terrace to the interior court of the building As Northern av is only 60 feet wide, housekeeping apartments would be limited in height to 90 feet, or seven stories theoretically, and probably six stories practically; but hotels do not come under the operations of the Tenement House Law. A hotel so situated would have a beautiful outlook over the river. The idea of showing by a perspective drawing a type of building which it is thought would be suitable for the site is a new feature in an auctioneer's catalogue. There is also a map of the section, and a landscape drawing.

RESULTS COUNT.

We publish below a letter from a firm who are subscribers to the Record and Guide. It is one of several along the same line received by us recently. In every one reference is made to the excellent results obtained from following the leads published each week in the Record and Guide under the heading of "Where Building Materials Are Needed."

To the Record and Guide Co.:

It gives us pleasure to heartily recommend your publication as of great assistance to us in building up our business. We follow closely your leads as they appear each week in the Record and Guide under the heading of "Where Building Materials Are Needed," and have obtained fine results. We are able to trace several good jobs we have recently finished from information we got from your paper.

We feel that the Record and Guide is indispensable in our business.

LUNDIN & ZACHARIUS.

Messrs. Lundin & Zacharius have very largely increased their business since subscribing to the Record and Guide, and are now prepared to give estimates on construction work of any size.

THE NEW BROOKLYN SUBWAY.—As a business certainty, the 4th av subway for Brooklyn unquestionably will have a marked effect in time upon the Bay Ridge region. A large part of the benefit has been anticipated, but there is certain to be a continuation of the building movement there. At the present time the territory east of 3d av is being developed by solid rows of two-family brick houses, and the section west of the avenue has been reserved for detached frame houses. The hope is that the two kinds of development will be continued, and that the dividing line between them will continue to be as now. Between 3d av and the waterside there is a large suburban section, only partly developed with high-class residences, and it is in this part, and particularly along the Shore Road, that a building movement of which the city will be proud is expected. It will be interesting to note when, with reference to the completion of the subway, the real house-building movement will begin. In case of the Bronx division, the great land speculation did not set in until the subway was actually finished.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERS.—Two papers will be presented at the meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, to be held on November 9 in the Engineers' Building, New York, at 8.15 P. M. One by Professor Gaetano Lanza and Lawrence S. Smith, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, on "Reinforced Concrete Beams"; the other by Professor Walter Rautenstrauch, of Columbia University, on "Stresses in Curved Machine Members."

ADVANCE REPORTS.

Jacob & Youngs to Erect Vanderbilt Model Tenements.

77TH ST.—The general contract for the new sanitary, model, fireproof tenements, which Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Sr., as owners, are to erect in the north side of 77th st, through to the south side of 78th st, 173 ft. east of Av A, has been awarded to Messrs. Jacob & Youngs, of 1135 Broadway. As designed by Architect Henry Atterbury Smith, 1181 Broadway, the buildings will contain 6-stys each, and cover a total plot of 225x204 ft., affording quarters for between 350 and 400 families. The floors will be of reinforced concrete, with brick walls and fireproof partitions, but otherwise as economically constructed as possible. There will be steam heat from a central plant, gas ranges with an effective exhaust flue from hoods, drying-rooms, extra laundries in basement, and all the usual model tenement improvements. The plan provides for a maximum amount of fresh air, light and protection in a maximum degree against infectious diseases. It has four predominating features: (1) open stairs; (2) balconies; (3) the use of the roof for living purposes, and (4) the use of triple-hung windows from floor to ceiling. The buildings will be situated between school No. 158 and John Jay Park, between 77th and 78th sts, just south of the developments of the City and Suburban Homes Company. Messrs. Griggs & Holbrook, of 30 South William st, will be the steam and mechanical engineers.

W. & J. Sloane to Build on Fifth Ave.

5TH AV.—W. & J. Sloane (carpets), No. 884 Broadway, have leased for a long term of years the property at the northeast corner of 5th av and 47th st, owned by Commodore Eldridge T. Gerry, and fronting 100.5 ft. on 5th av and 280 ft in 47th st, adjoining the new Ritz-Carlton Hotel, for improvement in the early future with an 8-sty business structure entirely for the firm's own use. The 5th av frontage is at present covered by the "Windsor Arcade," a 4-sty building fronting 200.10 ft. on the avenue, and extending 280 ft. in both 46th and 47th sts. The proposed Sloane building, therefore, will have a plot large enough to warrant a building of only moderate height. At the office of Sloane Bros., on Friday a Record and Guide representative was informed that details regarding the plans had not yet been determined, and that the selection of an architect had not been made. It is said, however, that there is nothing to prevent the beginning of the Sloane building operation by next May. Nothing authentic could be gathered as to the future of the other half of the "Arcade" property, although it is regarded that it will also soon be replaced with a modern structure. In connection with the proposed 5th av project, announcement is made by the Sloanes of the immediate erection of a 10-sty fireproof warehouse and work rooms, on two plots, Nos. 306 to 310 11th av, and 557 to 561 West 29th st. These plans will be prepared by Architect James B. Baker, of 156 5th av. They will also erect a combination garage and stable at 541-547 West 29th st, but for this no plans have not yet been designed. The present officers of the company are: President, William Sloane; vice-president, George McNeir; treasurer, Henry T. Sloane; secretary, John Sloane. The other directors are William D. Sloane, W. W. Law, George Douglas Cooper, R. A. Kennedy, William Sloane Coffin and N. S. Clark.

The G. & W. Manufacturng Co. 26 Cortlandt st, New York, has taken the contract for the foundation piers and metal work of the Reedy Island Range light station, near Wilmington, Del.

The North Eastern Construction Company, of 225 5th av, is installing the electrical and mechanical equipment for all the Chelsea improvement piers on the North River, between 14th and 23d sts.

The electrical business is reported to be rapidly becoming normal. The General Electric Company and the Westinghouse Company are receiving orders at a rate close to 85 per cent. of the best previous year.

H. R. Reveley, of the brick commission firm of Reveley & Emmons, West 52d st, has been confined to his home at Cornwall-on-Hudson with a severe cold, but was able to be at his office toward the end of the week.

For the convenience of customers and to avoid delays in conducting their growing business, Messrs. William K. Hammond and Frank L. Holmes have had an additional telephone installed in their office, 628 West 52d st. The two telephone numbers now are: Columbus 2760 and Columbus 5106.

On November 5, 1909, the office of the Sackett Plaster Board Co. will be moved to 1170 Broadway, corner of 28th st, and the telephone number thereafter will be 5254 Madison Square. This move will amalgamate the Sackett sales department with that of the United States Gypsum Company, and thereafter all sales of Sackett plaster board will be made in their name and billed by them.

The two hundred and fortieth meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers will be held in the auditorium of the Engineers' Building, 33 West 39th st, New York, on Friday evening, November 12, 1909, at 8 o'clock. Dr. Cary T. Huntchinson, consulting engineer, of New York, will present a paper, entitled "The Electric System of the Great Northern Railway Company at Cascade Tunnel."

An enterprising druggist in Liberty st has unconsciously been advertising the Hammond brick. He placed three of them in his show window where thousands of New Jersey commuters pass every day, some of whom doubtless being present or future home builders. Over them he placed this sign: "If, after dinner, you feel as though you had eaten these, take ———'s pills." On one of the bricks the word "Hammond" looms up prominently. Verily the uses of the Hudson River common brick are legion.

The late Alfred R. Whitney, father of the president of the Whitney-Steen Building Company, did much to popularize the use of structural shapes in building construction. At first his connections in this line were with other makers, but for many years he was the metropolitan agent for the Carnegie Steel Company, and was taken into partnership a few years before his retirement from active business in 1900. Mr. Whitney constructed the old Greenwich Street elevated road, now a part of the 9th av system, and later he constructed the Second and Third avenue elevated roads and a large portion of the Sixth avenue elevated road.

Announcement is made of the retirement from the advertising firm of Albert Frank & Co., Incorporated, of No. 25 Broad st, of Collin Armstrong, formerly a director and treasurer of the corporation. Mr. Armstrong has transferred his entire interest to James Rascovar, president, who will herefater be the sole active manager of its financial and business affairs. The firm of Albert Frank & Co. has for years been one of the most prominent in the line of financial, steamship and railroad advertising. Mr. Rascovar became a partner in the concern years ago, when the senior member was his father-in-law, Albert Frank.

Mr. Foster Milliken, of New York City, formerly president of Milliken Brothers, Inc., has severed his connection as assistant to the receivers of Milliken Brothers, Inc. For the past twenty-seven years Mr. Milliken has been one of the foremost and best-known structural steel men in this country, and his work has also extended to nearly every foreign country in the world. Many of the present improvements in shop practice and design of structural steel work are due to his ingenuity. He is also the inventor of a number of patented articles that are used extensively. In 1902 he built the large bridge and structural plant at Staten Island, and in 1906 he designed and built the large open-hearth structural steel plant and rolling mills which bear his name. Mr. Milliken has no idea of giving up the very active career that he has followed for so many years, but he has not definitely decided on just what line of work he will engage for the future.

A New Type of Weather Strip.

The Noiseless and Draughtless Door and Window Cushion Co., formerly of 112 West 42d st, but now of 511 West 21st st, where it has combined its office and works, has put a new style of weather strip on the market recently that is attracting considerable attention from owners, architects and builders. The device known as the Paragon is neat and effective, and combines these virtues: makes windows tight, keeps out all dust, draughts and water, may be applied to any kind of window, is cheap, effective and durable and saves fuel by preventing leakage of warm air from rooms. It is mortised into the middle sash bars and prevents cold air from coming in and keeps the windows from rattling by making sashes tight.

This company has some important contracts on hand at present, among them being nearly all the new buildings at West Point, besides much important work in this city. Mr. W. E. Deering, the general manager, gives all installations his personal supervision.

Safe Gasoline Measuring Pumps.

The subject of garage equipment is not a minor one in the eyes of architects and builders, and new ideas find eager audiences in such offices. It is therefore interesting to note that the New York Tennis Racket Co., of 447 West 125th st, has several important improvements on the market. First of all is a long distance self-measuring pump that is made of the finest material obtainable and put together by the best workingmen in their respective trades. This device will measure up to one gallon and register up to 10,000. The outlet has a swing check valve that prevents drawback, and the nozzle is equipped with a pail hook. This device is used in some of the largest garages in the United States.

This company, which makes a specialty also of steam and hot water heating systems, makes tanks for gasoline and portable wheel tanks holding 54 gallons. Wheels are rubber tired and the small guide wheels in front are attached to the frame of the car, not to the tank, thus minimizing leakage and permitting repairs to be easily made. This is said to be the only wagon that has this feature. A call for Mr. S. M. Hodkinson, the manager, at Morningside, 5226, will bring detailed information of these specialties.

BUILDING MATERIAL AND EQUIPMENT

And News Regarding Source of Supply

Demand for Materials Less Urgent.

Taken as a whole, the building material market was weaker, due in part to the holiday, from which there was slow recovery in nearly all branches. Brick opened weak at $6 and closed fairly strong at $6.25. The cement situation continues to improve, due to large inroads upon surplus stock by new business in this district, comparatively little of which, however, is coming into this city. Iron contracts were fewer and inquiries were for smaller tonnages. Structural steel did not rally as sharply as had been expected, but there was a good buying movement at hand and inquiries began to improve on Wednesday. Lumber was not active, the sales being mostly in scattering sizes and in assorted quantities. There seemed to be no uniformity in purchases. Lumber continues its slow but steady improvement. The larger yards find that certain lines—spruce and long leaf yellow pine—are showing greater activity than others. Stone in wholesale lots is moving well, the cutters here in many instances being unable readily to absorb cargoes coming in. The retailers are not complaining with the business they have in hand or of prospects for the winter. In all lines of building material there is a healthy tone, the demand being for rapidly completing operations now in hand.

Brick Slow in Firming for Raise.

Because the holiday cut into the number of transactions at the West 52d st docks and hindered construction, and partly because of the rain on Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning retarded resumption of work, brick was slow in firming up for the scheduled advance of a quarter next Monday. While $6 to $6.25 was quoted this week, $6 ruled in the transactions until Wednesday, when $6.25 prevailed. This price was well sustained to the end of the week. The sales were normal despite the feeling among the retailers that there was no warrant as fixed by local demand for the advance. This was shown in the following statement of transactions for the week:

AGENTS STANDING BY MANUFACTURERS.

With the exception of one or two agents, the local commission men are standing firm with the manufacturers for the advance they have asked. The yard owners up the river are making a hard fight to hold to the prices they have set. While the usual number of barges are coming down at this time, the manufacturers are showing no disposition to force the market, for two reasons: first, to regulate the shipments so as to avoid an oversupply here, and second, to husband their stocks in anticipation of an early year. The brick that went out this week was taken quickly, excepting on Wednesday, the market being well able to take the supply now coming in, the headway of which is liable to continue until the close of navigation.

STEEL SHIPMENTS HELPING BRICK.

The fact that delays in deliveries of steel at numerous local operations are being eliminated, thus allowing operations that were scheduled to take brick early in the Fall to do so now, has helped the brick market this week. The trouble that certain builders have been experiencing in this line are not yet over, and in consequence there are informal inquiries afloat regarding the probable price of covered loads. While it is not possible to make any authoritative statement at this time, it is possible that the prices for "covered" will be somewhere around $7.50.

ALL BRICKYARDS NOW CLOSED.

To-day witnessed the final closing down of all the plants along the Hudson River. Most of the big ones stopped making two to three weeks ago, only the pallet yards remaining in operation. The Raritan River, yards, however, are still making. The bricks on hand are said to be not more than normal in quantity, while some, and these are by no means the least of the up-river establishments, have not manufactured for storage in anything like the usual quantities.

IMPROVEMENTS AT SOME YARDS.

While, as the Record and Guide has said, few yards will make extensive improvements this year, owing to the generally unsatisfactory condition of the market, some will make alterations. The Jova Brick Works at Roseton, N. Y., will install three Naylor machines with pallet system, and Daniel De Noyelles, of De Noyelles & Co., of Haverstraw, already has begun the laying of foundations for a trestle extending from the shore to a point some distance in the river for the purpose of having an emergency plant ready for instant operation should the dykes, keeping the Hudson out of the company's clay pits, give way.

TO GET CLAY FROM RIVER BED.

For about 20 years this company has been getting most of its clay from a huge pit that it has sunk far below the surface of the Hudson River at Haverstraw. This pit has been protected by a cofferdam. Originally it was planned to sink the pit only to the water level, but the deeper the pit was sunk the better and more plentiful became the supply of clay.

Mr. DeNoyelles this year became fearful lest the old dam give way, and by so doing cut off operations at his mill for almost an entire season. So extensive has the old pit become that it now requires a steam pump to handle the surface and spring water that surges into the mine. The trestle as soon as completed will be used as an auxiliary by a powerful scoop dredge which will take the clay from the river's bed and convey it to stacks where it will be allowed to "winter" before using. The Excelsior Company, one of the important brick manufacturing concerns along the river, has been successfully using the river clay for about five years.

Cement Holding Its Own.

Reports from the offices of various cement manufacturers' agents in this city show that a healthier condition is beginning to show itself. The great stocks of cement at the mills are being taken, a noticeable improvement in this being from the East-of-Pittsburgh district within the last fortnight. Comparatively little of this is coming into this city, however, but rather in the suburbs, where speculative dwelling and apartment house construction is in progress in large scales.

Many of the mills are making improvements in equipment. The Vulcanite Portland Cement Company is having several quarry locomotives made at the shops of the Central Railroad of New Jersey in Elizabethport.. One of these is ready for delivery. Extensive improvements are in progress at the Edison and Lehigh mills. Edison Portland cement is being used in the Brewster residence, one of the finest of its kind in the city, at Park av and 71st st, in which operation Chas. T. Wills, Inc., is builder.

Steel and Iron Markets Weaker.

Conditions in the iron and steel markets are not quite as satisfactory, iron being weaker and steel quieter. Wire products continue active, however, the orders received by the American Steel and Wire Company running considerably over 6,000 tons a day. Specifications and current orders bring this sum up considerably higher. Wire mesh reinforcement is having a tremendous demand, not only from this vicinity, but from other parts of the country, and from foreign offices. Fewer pig-iron contracts were in hand this week, although the business in this district is still active. Most of the sales are in small lots. A 5,000-ton order of medium and high grades, sold for shipment into Central Pennsylvania, the business going to northern makers. These shipments will begin this year and run over the first quarter of 1910.

The Melrose Construction Co. was the lowest bidder on 505 tons of cast-iron pipe, and 23 specials for Manhattan delivery for the New York Water Board. L. D. Gregory was the lowest bidder on 590 tons of pipe and 46 tons of specials. McAvoy, Grippo & Co. were low on 865 tons of pipe and 35 tons of specials, and H. E. Fox had lowest tender on 1,300 tons of pipe and 14 tons of specials all for Manhattan delivery. Contractors have not placed pipe orders.

The increased demand for German and British ore has reduced the available supply of foreign ore to American consumers.

IRON BAR DEMAND INCREASING.

The demand for iron bars increases. Sheet metal jobbers are having trouble in meeting the demand for this material from cornice makers, part of the trouble being due to the continued inability of the mills to make deliveries on schedule time.

A large part of the structural steel business just at present is coming to Manhattan, Brooklyn, Jersey City and Newark. Among local deliveries being made is to Gimbel Brothers' store, and to the train sheds of the Pennsylvania railroad station at 33d st and 7th av. About 3,000 tons of 100-lb. rail are stacked in the yards and more is constantly coming in. Fabrication for the Municipal Building is under way, and deliveries will begin in another month. Steel is also being delivered at the Bryant Building, Liberty and Nassau sts. In Jersey City steel is going in at the new Colgate administration building and at the Union Trust Company.

Lumber Continues to Improve.

Lumber authorities now state unequivocally that the situation in their part of the building material market is constantly improving. Better stocks are being carried by both retailers and wholesalers. The most important yards have good winter stocks on hand. The greater volume of buying is from suburban yards, which did not make heavy purchases during the year. This is attributed to the precaution of getting into shape for winter rather than extensive building operations in the country. Eastern spruce will soon cease coming in and the market is taking all that comes. Prices range fairly strong, with marked firmness in long leaf yellow pine and spruce. Spruce, by the way, will be much higher in the Spring than now because of curtailed supply. Hemlock is firm and the demand for cypress is improving. Good grade hardwood continues in demand, the manufacturers having trouble to meet it. Birch, chestnut and plain and quartered oak prices are stiff. Special activity is reported in the hardwood flooring market.

LUMBER.

These figures cover only wholesale prices to the trade on well manufactured graded stock, classified by the inspection rules now in operation. Because of terms of sale, etc., it is impracticable to quote retail prices.

Stone in Fair Demand.

Wholesalers reported a fair demand for building stone this week. Many of the cutters are taking work calling for deliveries way into the first quarter, and in one or two instances into the second quarter of 1910. This is a good sign and shows that business in the building line will begin early in the Spring. The quarries are working full time to meet the demand before heavy weather sets in. The marble men also find that business is improving with them. Some of them report that they have a great deal of work in the suburbs. They are figuring on some big work, but little of which, however, is for this city. Slate is strong and has a satisfying inquiry.

THE WEEK.

THE leading item of the week's news, and probably the most important of the removals to 5th av, north of 42d st, was the announcement made on Friday that the firm of W. & J. Sloane, who have been located at Broadway and 19th st since 1882, had leased the northerly half of the Windsor Arcade site for a long term of years.

The leasing of the plot to the Messrs. Sloane is likely to lead to the early improvement of the Gould residence at the northeast corner of 5th av and 47th st, as with this latest improvement the Gould residence will be the only one at that point not used for business.

In the 5th av real estate offices it is said that there has recently been a large number of inquiries by business concerns who desire to lease north of 42d st.

Although the terms of the lease have not been disclosed, a few figures of rentals in the section will be of interest. For the Lee corner, at the northwest corner of 5th av and 43d st, upon which a new building is being erected, $60,000 a year has been refused. No. 518 5th av, just north of 43d st, was rented in 1908 for twenty-one years at $20,000 a year, net; it has since been improved and sublet at a rental varying from $35,500 to $39,500 per annum. Nos. 550 and 552, between 45th and 46th sts, were rented in May of this year at $17,500 and $18,000 per year, net.

Of the fifty odd sales reported, ten were vacant plots or old buildings, suitable for improvement. Washington Heights contributed two sales of completed 5-sty apartments, and Morningside one of a 10-sty fireproof house.

With these exceptions, the trading was of the most commonplace order.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THERE were sales in the Vesey Street Salesroom on only three days this week, and all the parcels offered were by order of the court. Joseph P. Day offered four; James L. Wells Co., two; Bryan L. Kennelly, one; and Herbert A. Sherman, one. With one exception, they were all bought by the plaintiff.

Next week there are legal sales scheduled for every day, and on Tuesday Joseph P. Day will offer a dwelling at voluntary sale, and on Wednesday Bryan & Kennelly will sell four improved properties and a number of vacant lots and plots; among the improved properties to be offered is 14 and 16 Vesey st, now used as the Real Estate Auction Room.

BROOKLYN IN THE BOARD OF ESTIMATE

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I beg to enclose you a copy of an editorial which appeared in the Brooklyn "Daily Eagle" of November 3 (and which I hope you will think well enough of to reprint in your paper), regarding what might be expected to happen in the new Board of Estimate and Apportionment concerning the interests of Brooklyn.

It is well known that the interests of Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond are identical, and it must be expected that they will co-operate with a view of obtaining all possible appropriations from the city treasury.

The writer doubts that the residents of Manhattan are beginning to realize the results to Manhattan real estate of the recent election, and it should be the aim of all taxpayers in Manhattan and the Bronx to keep a constant scrutiny of all transactions pending in the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

Very truly yours,

F. R. HOUGHTON.

(From the Brooklyn "Eagle.")

"For the first time in the history of New York the Long Island boroughs have a clear majority in the Board of Estimate. . . . Ever since consolidation Brooklyn has failed to receive its just share of appropriations and improvements, because it has been overshadowed by Manhattan. It has suffered both from the traditional feeling of Manhattan men elected to office that that borough was the real city of New York, and from the far-sighted jealousy of Manhattan politicians, who foresaw in the growth of the Long Island boroughs the inevitable passing of their power. . . . When consolidation was planned Brooklyn was prefigured as 'the imperial borough.' That was her inevitable destiny, because here is the great bulk of the land within short reach of the City Hall. But inevitable destiny could be postponed by denying to this borough the transit facilities which would fill up its vacant lots. . . . Thus this election holds the seeds of the deliverance of Brooklyn and of the development of this borough to the dominance to which it is entitled by the high order of intelligence of its citizenship, and to which it will soon be entitled by the count of noses, from which there is no appeal."

A CHINESE PUZZLE.

What puzzled Wu Ting Fang? That, after such dreadful straining, the City Fathers should have widened the West street front to a fine levee of a couple of miles and then allowed it to be filled up again with piersheds! He desired to know if the Fifth avenue widening would be used similarly for automobile garages. He was referred to our three-headed candidacy for the mayoralty for a satisfactory (?) answer.

W. & J. SLOANE TO MOVE.

W. & J. Sloane have leased the northerly half of the Windsor Arcade site, at the southeast corner of 5th av and 47th st, for a long term of years, and will erect a modern 8-sty structure on the site, which has a frontage of 100.5 feet on 5th av and a depth on 47th st of 280 feet. The property is owned by Commodore Elbridge T. Gerry. The lease was negotiated by the Cruikshank Co.

In connection with the proposed removal to 5th av, it was also announced yesterday that W. & J. Sloane had bought, through Horace S. Ely & Co., two plots, one about 74x100 feet, at 306 to 310 11th av, and the other, of about 70 feet frontage, at 557 to 561 West 29th st, upon which they will erect immediately a 10-sty fireproof building for use as warehouse and workrooms. They have also purchased a plot, about 76x100 feet, at 541 to 547 West 29th st, upon which they will erect a combination garage and stable. The firm was founded in 1843 by William Sloane, who had come to New York from Scotland in 1834. Its first place of business was at 245 Broadway, opposite City Hall Park. In 1852, Mr. William Sloane's brother, John Sloane, was admitted to partnership, and the firm name became W. & J. Sloane. In 1855 the business was removed to 501 Broadway, where it remained six years. William Sloane's eldest son, John, became a partner in 1856. The next location was at 591 Broadway. In 1866 the firm purchased the land, 649 to 655 Broadway, and erected a building thereon. William Sloane died in May, 1879. The present building at Broadway and 19th st was erected in 1882. The present officers of the company are: President, William Sloane; Vice-President, George McNeir; Treasurer, Henry T. Sloane; Secretary, John Sloane. The other directors are William D. Sloane, W. W. Law, George Douglas Cooper, R. A. Kennedy, William Sloane Coffin, and N. S. Clark.

AQUEDUCT SECTION FINISHED.—The Stewart-Kerbaugh-Shanley Co. has completed the first section of tunnel work on the Catskill Aqueduct, and the event was celebrated by a dinner at High Falls. The completed section is known as the Peak Mountain Tunnel, and is 3,400 feet long. It is 18 feet high and 17 feet wide, and extends through solid rock, which has been blasted out by a force of 250 men who have worked continuously in eight-hour shifts since the work began on April 27. Lazarus White, of the engineering department of the Board of Water Supply, had general supervision of the tunnel work, and for the contractors. T. W. Gray had charge of the south tunnel, and Charles Dougherty had charge of the north tunnel.

REAL ESTATE NOTES

A. H. Dickinson, for several years a representative of F. R. Wood & Co., in the sale of investment properties, has resigned, to take a similar position with William A. White & Sons.

The Charles F. Noyes Company has been given the management of the 13-sty office building at 37-39 Liberty st, through to Maiden la. The building covers a plot 44x118. It was formerly occupied in part by the Lawyers' Title Insurance Company.

Frank Bailey, vice-president of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, addressed the members of the Bedford Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, in Brooklyn, last evening, on "The Relation of the Property Owners to the City Administration." The lecture was the first of the fourth season's course of lectures on real estate offered by this organization, this year's course consisting of thirty sessions, meeting weekly on Thursday evenings. Half of the sessions will be devoted to the subject of real estate fundamentals and practice, and the other half to the discussion of real estate law.

"WHO PAYS THE TAX?"

The following selection is from the book (published in 1907) entitled "The Burdens of Local Taxation and Who Bears Them," by Lawson Purdy, then Secretary of the New York Tax Reform Association, and now President-Commissioner of Taxes and Assessments for the City of New York. It is pertinent in view of the current public discussion upon the question of the effect of taxes on rents:

"To understand the effect of a tax upon real estate, it is necessary, first, to explain the incidence of a tax upon land and of a tax upon houses and other improvements upon land, for the operation of an ad valorem land tax is entirely different from an ad valorem tax upon improvements.

"To discover the effect of any tax, the rule already given must be applied, that price depends upon demand and supply. If demand increases without any increase in supply, price rises. If supply increases without any increase in demand, price falls. If there is a perfect monopoly of an article and a price is abritrarily fixed, a certain quantity of the article can be sold. If price is raised, a less quantity can be sold, and if price is reduced a larger quantity can be sold with the same expenditure of effort.

"The only way to affect price is through an increase or decrease of the demand or the supply.

"If the element of speculation in land is entirely disregarded, a tax upon land in proportion to its value has no effect upon the demand for land or upon the supply of land, and, consequently, such a tax has no effect upon the price of land expressed in rent. Disregarding speculation, so long as the tax is not more than the entire sum which can be obtained for the use of land, it makes no difference in rent whether the tax is high or low. As such a tax cannot affect demand or supply, and therefore does not affect rent, it falls wholly upon the owner."

NEWARK REAL ESTATE VALUES.—Newark business property on Broad st sold in 1894 for $61,500, resold in 1899 for $110,000, in 1901 for $150,000, present day value upwards of $200,000. Broad st property sold in 1899 for $127,500, in 1901 for $225,000. Property on Market st sold in 1892 for $55,000, in 1900 for $85,000, in 1904 for $110,000, in 1907 for $130,000. Market st property sold in 1896 for $128,000, in 1901 for $425,000; another Market st property sold in 1901 for $127,500, in 1909 for $200,000. Newark residence property, Forest Hill section, in 1900 sold for $20 to $30 per front foot, present day value $75 to $100 per front foot. Clinton Hill section in 1900 sold at from $25 to $50 per front foot, present day value $50 to $100. Weequahic Park section sold in 1900 at $1,000 to $1,500 per acre, present day value per city lot $500 to $800, acreage value $6,000 to $9,500.

PROFIT IN BERGEN TRACT.—The Bergen Improvement Company, of Jersey City, which is composed of Patrick T. Powers, James Billington and Leslie A. Brown, has cleared up $20,000 on its first real estate operation. They bought from the Francis Jenkins estate a plot between Fairmount av and Montgomery st, west of Hudson Boulevard, for $60,000. They have sold off $80,000 worth of lots, and have three lots left.

HUDSON CITY OWNERS WAITING FOR SUBWAY.—Real Estate Broker William C. Wallace reports that while there is some activity in the renting and sales of Hudson City property, he does not anticipate any great prosperity until the McAdoo subway is completed to Summit av.

STREET PAVEMENTS IN BERLIN.—The area of the street pavements exclusive of sidewalks, etc., of Berlin in March, 1908, was 7,754,065 square yards, of which seven-tenths were maintained by the city and three-tenths by contractors, street railway companies, etc. Of the total area 41.35 per cent. was paved with asphalt, 1.92 per cent. with wood, 51.63 per cent. with the larger grades of stones, 5.04 per cent. with the smaller grades of stones, and 0.06 per cent. with slag stones, cement, macadam and pebbles over concrete. The poorer classes of paving material—smaller grades of stones, etc.—are being replaced by asphalt pavement, which formed in 1898 only 25.26 per cent. of the total area of the pavement, while in 1908 it formed 41.35 per cent. Wood pavements are only used in the approaches to bridges where there is an incline, to prevent horses from slipping, as wood furnishes a better foothold than asphalt; besides wood stands the vibration of the bridges better than asphalt when heavy teams are crossing. Contracts for asphalt pavements are usually made for 20 years; for the first five years the cost of maintenance is paid by the contractor, and for the remaining 15 years the municipality pays the contractor annually a certain sum per sq. meter for keeping the pavement in repair.

OPPORTUNITIES IN THE BRONX.

By HARRY ROBITZEK.

(Portion of a paper read before the Taxpayers' Alliance of the Bronx.)

THERE is no advantage necessary for the successful operation of manufacturing industries that is not to be found in the Bronx. There is no facility lacking for the promotion of such an operation in any important respect. Mainly among the advantages and facilities is the well-established convenience for the receipt of goods to be used in the manufacture of articles of merchandise and for their transportation to consignees by rail or water. Surrounded as it is by a water boundary—with the exception of its northern line—the Borough of the Bronx certainly presents a rare topographical condition and advantageous location excelled by no other locality in the world.

Of the railroad facilities it can be truly said that no better can be found anywhere, with the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad on the south and west, the New York and Harlem and the New York and Putnam between the two great lines, the Harlem River and Portchester Railroad on the east doing suburban service for the New York, New Haven and Hartford. These railway thoroughfares are acknowledged to be the best equipped and the best managed of any in the country, and being such they are enabled at all times to render the best and most satisfactory service desired.

Goods can be shipped by them to any part of the United States without being subjected to the dilatory and often annoying disadvantages of transferring freight. The New York Central and the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad systems have passenger stations in the Bronx, while the Erie, Lehigh Valley, Pennsylvania and New Jersey Central Railroads each maintain ample docks and freight depots. The New York and Westchester Railroad is now in the course of construction. And these same excellent facilities of water and rail can be used in bringing in coal at a very low cost to the manufacturer located in the Bronx, so that the cost of power is less here than at any other place not so favorably situated.

Another valuable advantage is the Harlem Ship Canal, through which many of the raw products of the country are brought nearer to the Bronx Borough, saving time and distance, which are important factors in all manufacturing enterprises.

Among the inducements that are bringing manufacturers to the Borough of the Bronx is the consideration given by them to the fact that dealers throughout the country find it to their advantage to come to New York to make their purchases of stock. A large proportion of these have an eye to cheapness in making their bargains, whether the fabric they buy be of the costliest manufacture or of the commonest make.

Here they can inspect the goods before they have left the places of their manufacture, and have the advantages of obtaining them at first cost. And when we know that thousands of these purchasers make regular pilgrimages to New York for the purpose of buying goods for delivery to consumers, it surely will be most advantageous to them in every business way, financial as well as otherwise, to deal directly with the manufacturer, and save all the extra cost which attaches to dealing with the middle man. And this is one reason why men who look ahead predict for the Borough of the Bronx a great future as a manufacturing centre, the dawn of which seems to be almost at hand.

The several comptrollers of the City of New York have at several times asserted in public and in private, and the records of the Finance Department support the assertion, that in the fullest sense the Bronx is a self-sustaining borough. Instead of being a financial burden upon the city, this borough pays into the municipal treasury taxes approximately equal in amount to all the appropriations and expenditures for public works within the Bronx. From a statement of expenditures for public works prepared by the general bookkeeper of the Borough Finance Department, it appears that the total amount expended for public works and improvements of every kind from 1874 to March 31, 1909, aggregates $47,831,453.

The Borough of the Bronx since 1893 exhibits the following annual growth in assessed valuation of property subject to local and State taxation:

Year	Assessed Valuation.	Year.	Assessed Valuation.
1893	$58,612,268	1902	166,183,678
1894	62,595,458	1903	261,852,808
1895	68,885,155	1904	275,783,430
1896	84,580,009	1905	291,533,218
1897	85,714,526	1906	405,497,493
1898	93,652,223	1907	410,803,429
1899	130,508,918	1908	451,987,485
1900	146,508,491	1909	492,889,758
1901	155,993,160

The remarkable growth and prosperity of the borough is perhaps best attested by the number and cost of the buildings of every description constructed within the dozen years last past. No suburban section of any city in the world (not even in boom towns) can exhibit a similar record of progress and expansion. Official records show that since 1895, twenty-five thousand eight hundred and sixty-four buildings have been erected in the Bronx at an aggregate cost of $262,000,000.

A comparison of the average cost of each new building erected in the Bronx with the average cost of new buildings in the other outlying boroughs in Greater New York will conclusively show the substantial character of building operations in the Bronx beyond question.

PRINCIPAL MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES.

The Bronx contains seven hundred factories, each large enough to be subject to State supervision and inspection. They give employment to at least thirty-five thousand people. The piano industry of the United States has largely centered in the Bronx. More than thirty piano and organ factories are situated within the borough.

The Bronx possesses the largest and most perfect plant in the world for the making of ice machines and gas engines. The brewing industry is important and carpet and rug factories are numerous. During the past two years Hunts Point, the Port Morris section and the territory in easy and direct communication with the Harlem River and the New York Central and New York, New Haven and Hartford Railways have witnessed an industrial expansion beyond all precedent. The establishment at Hunts Point of a great plant of the American Bank Note Company is an instance of the opinion of experts as to the superior advantages of the Bronx as a manufacturing centre, especially for industrial enterprises of the highest order. Millions of dollars are being invested in modern factory buildings in every part of the Bronx.

In the words of ex-Borough President Haffen, on a recent occasion, the future of the Bronx is one of absolute certainty. The history of the borough will repeat itself. As rapidly as transit facilities are improved and increased, new population will rush to the Great North Side and accelerate its present tremendous ratio of growth. Yet we are only at the beginning. The City of New York is moving northward, and the Borough of the Bronx is destined to be the home of its resident population, and the centre of its industrial greatness.

It must not be forgotten that the business men of the Borough of the Bronx are noted for their energy and enterprise, and it is this fact if no other that will make this borough the greatest community in the world within a generation or two.

TAXPAYERS' ALLIANCE.

The regular monthly meeting of the Taxpayers' Alliance of the Bronx will be held on Wednesday, November 10, 1909, in the Bronx Masonic Temple, at No. 1931 Washington av. A committee will be appointed at this meeting to attend the hearings to be held before the Public Service Commission on October 17, 1909, at 2.30 P. M., when the N. Y. C. R. R. Co., the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Co. will be asked why they cannot stop at all stations in the Bronx and also carry passengers for a five-cent fare within the city limits.

The Hon. James A. Goulden, Congressman from the Bronx, will attend the meeting and arrange for a public examination of candidates for admission to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

UNITED REAL ESTATE OWNERS.

The annual election of the United Real Estate Owners' Association will be held in Parlor A, Grand Union Hotel, 42d st and Park av, on Tuesday, November 9, 1909.

HASBROUCK HEIGHTS.—The Duross Company has just sold 45 acres at Hasbrouk Heights, N. J., on Terrace av, between Washington and La Salle sts, for the Hasbrouk Heights Building Company to Minnesota capitalists for $2,000 an acre.

THE BAY RIDGE PARKWAY.

Property in That Section Expects a Large Benefit From the Fourth Avenue Subway.

THE Fourth Avenue Subway, in Brooklyn, from being a prospect has become a certainty. A large and particularly desirable residence territory will be on the market, attended by circumstances advantageous for the public. The territory referred to includes Bay Ridge, and, to some extent, Bath Beach, Bensonhurst and Dyker Heights. The southern terminus of the great four-track improvement will be at Fort Hamilton, where the Shore Road ends. The authorizing of the subway will probably lead the real estate interests all over the city to examine the country along the shore of the Lower Bay, and particularly the Shore Road itself, the focus of all the region's attractions, with the idea of participating in its development by the erection of either detached villas or apartment houses, according to the locality.

Since the entire water front became the property of the County of Kings, in the year 1894, the Shore Road has been officially known as the "Bay Ridge Parkway." It extends for a distance of two and a half miles—from 66th street to Fort Hamilton. It was obtained for an oceanside park at a cost to Kings County of $4,000,000. The city now has the title, and its ownership extends from the houseline on the east side of the road to the pierline on the opposite side.

The same legislative act which granted authority for acquiring the Shore Road and the littoral strip at the same time provides for the improvement and parking of the property, and the work has been proceeding from time to time after the designs of Frederick Law Olmstead, the landscape architect and engineer. The execution of this work will add seven or eight million dollars to the original cost, for the plans are on a large scale.

At the present time the work is progressing under the latest appropriation of $1,875,000, and it is believed that, with the city treasury established on a new basis with reference to the debt limit, some additional sum can be procured in season to keep the work going and bring it to an earlier completion than had been hoped for.

LOT VALUES.

For the information of the investor, the following information has been obtained. There are in all about 375 city lots, each of a width of 20 feet, fronting the Shore Road, many of which are now permanently occupied by wealthy people and cannot be bought; but a certain number are in the market, at prices ranging from $5,000 to $7,000 per lot, according to location, with the abutting rear lots priced at $2,000 per lot.

Owing to the long uncertainty in regard to when, if ever, the Fourth Avenue Subway would be built, there have been few sales. As some owners will withdraw their offerings when they see the market turning in their favor, it is difficult to say how much land is actually for sale.

The most recent sale reported was of a parcel of 183 feet front, bought by Louis Gold, of the Abels, Gold Realty Company, adjacent to the well-known residence of Max Kurzrok, at the southeast corner of the Shore Road and 99th street, a parcel most desirably located, being near both the present car line and the subway line.

GOOD STANDARDS.

Naturally, the Shore Road already has a considerable number of homes, some of them stately; for example, the residence of the Van Brunts; of Mr. Nils Paulson, head of the Hecla Iron Works; and of Messrs. Bergen, Bowne, Clearly, Robinson, Carlin, Farrell, Mackay, and others, besides the Crescent Club, which is a great attraction. Dr. George Weber is building a superb residence, now almost completed, an exceptionally handsome piece of architecture, than which there is hardly a handsomer anywhere in Brooklyn, and which is bound to have a good influence on future building plans.

THE OUTLOOK.

In looking at the problem of the future of the Shore Road, it may be well to bear in mind that the city's investment will exceed thirty million dollars—for the benefit of these 375 lots, one might say. At any rate, with the inducements here offered to investors, it seems certain that a great and permanent advance in the value of this property on the Shore Road and the whole territory. Frontages on Riverside Drive, in Manhattan, where values have not anticipated the subway construction, are assessed for five or six times the market price of those on the Shore Drive. The subway will bring passengers from Manhattan to Fort Hamilton in about half an hour.

A BIG MERCHANT'S OPINION.

The work of widening and improving the driveway has been proceeding for several years, and when the drive is in its final state, it will, high authorities affirm, be the finest in all the world, not even second to Riverside Drive. Mr. Abraham, head of the firm of Abraham & Straus, remarked, a few days ago: "This subway means the building up of the most beautiful residential district in Greater New York—the region bordering the magnificent shore driveway, and along and between the great parkways that are planned or completed, in a system of drives that will be world-famed."

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1909.

9th.—T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

Oct 29, 30, Nov 1, 3 and 4.

Vol. LXXXIV. NOVEMBER 13, 1909. No. 2174

THERE CAN BE NO DOUBT that until recently the volume of the real estate business developed during the Fall was disappointing. Both in the aggregate number of sales reported each week in the Record and Guide, and in the aggregate number of recorded conveyances there was a falling off from the totals of the corresponding periods last year. The same statement is true in respect to the mortgages recorded and the amount they involved. Even the building plans filed during October carried with them a much smaller expenditure, at least so far as Manhattan was concerned, than did the plans filed during October, 1908. Hence, it looked as if, during a period in which general business was rapidly expanding, the real estate business was becoming less active than it was during a previous year, when it was embarrassed by the turmoil of a Presidential election. The situation was not, however, wholly discouraging. Even if the volume of business was not very great, its quality was unexceptionable. A certain number of substantial investment purchases appeared constantly in the returns. Wherever building was active, as on Washington Heights, or in the new wholesale district, a steady demand could be remarked for available building sites. A number of large operations were put through, involving the leasing of valuable corners by business men who proposed to improve their acquisition with modern buildings. There were evidences, consequently, of a wholesome demand, in all parts of the city, in which values were established; and the inference naturally was that the smaller volume of activity was due rather to a stiffening of prices rather than to a lack of demand. And such, indeed, has undoubtedly been the case. From October, 1907, until the present Fall a man who wished to sell real estate in New York was usually obliged to do so, if not at a sacrifice, at least at a price that did not represent his idea of the full value of his property. Of course, there were exceptions to this rule in certain favored streets and avenues, such as Fourth avenue and West 27th street; but on the whole it was none the less true. This Fall, however, sellers began to feel that they could increase their demands, and naturally the first result of this attitude was a diminished volume of trading. But to judge from the reports of the past week, would-be purchasers are beginning to realize that property in active speculative districts is worth all that is being asked for it. Within a few days there changed hands two large plots on Fifth avenue, one each in Fourth and Madison avenues, and four large parcels near the Pennsylvania Station. All these operations affected property in the heart of Manhattan, and it looks from this sample that the volume of buying in the district between 23rd and 50th streets, Seventh and Fourth avenues, would obtain during the current year unprecedented dimensions and momentum.

ONE OF THE MOST INTERESTING and significant developments in real estate methods in Manhattan of late years has been the increasing practice of securing desirable plots by long leases other than by purchase. Until recently the leasehold has never been a popular manner of giving or getting possession of real estate in New York; and there used to be a tendency to attribute the rapid process of building reconstruction in Manhattan to the fact that very little desirable ground was tied up on leases which left the owner unable and the tenant unwilling to erect thoroughly modern buildings. Of course there were Astor, Snug-Harbor and other leaseholds, but they were usually referred to as examples to avoid rather than to imitate. Of late years, however, the popularity of leaseholds has suddenly and remarkably increased—particularly in the heart of the new wholesale, retail and amusement district; and the reason for this change of method is worth some consideration. Neither is this reason very far to seek. It is dependent on the fact that speculators or business men wish to secure for a long period peculiarly desirable or valuable plots without putting up the capital required by their purchase. Until recently neither conditions nor values in the middle section of Manhattan were such as to make leaseholds desirable. Excellent corners could still be bought at comparatively modest prices and retailers had not understood the necessity of anticipating the movement of trade and of securing in advance some desirable strategic advantage in the future battle for retail trade. When they did wake up to the fact that a retail business of a high grade could not get along without a permanent and central location in the new district, speculators and certain particularly shrewd business men had already been aroused to the opportunity and the real facts of the situation and had forced prices up to a very high level. Not only had many peculiarly desirable corners already been captured, but many more, like the old Hotel Bristol, at Forty-second street and Fifth avenue had been appropriated under long leases by speculators and taken out of the market. What, then, was to be done? None but the most opulent retail or wholesale merchant can afford to take anywhere from $500,000 to $1,500,000 out of his capital in order to purchase a site required by his business, and the ordinary business man had, consequently, a strong inducement to obtain the property he needed if possible under a long lease—in which case the only capital required to be invested in the operation would be a part of the cost of the new building. Such are the motives that are responsible for all leases similar to the one recently secured by W. & J. Sloane on part of the Windsor Court block.

A SITUATION PRECISELY SIMILAR to that described above had never been created in the only other section of the city in which values had reached anything like the same level over so large an area—that is, in the financial district. Of course, in that district the same necessity had existed for certain banks, insurance companies and corporations absolutely to secure for themselves one of a few desirable sites near the junction of Wall and Broad streets, but the difference was that the banks and insurance companies could afford to pay any price they pleased for a peculiarly desirable site. It made no essential difference to them whether they had one or several million dollars invested in their office building, provided the investment really paid. The consequence was that the peculiarly desirable corners in the financial district have for the most part been purchased outright by the business men or companies who needed them. But a retail or wholesale merchant can rarely control resources large enough for similar purchases; and when the needs of his business demand that he acquire possession of real estate worth anywhere from $125 to $250 a square foot, he must contrive to do so without paying for it in cash. The leasehold is thus very advantageous for him, in that it does not strain his resources, while at the same time it constitutes a peculiarly desirable form of security for the owner of the property. The owner obtains an income estimated usually at five per cent. on a liberal appraisal of the property at the time of the lease, and this income is secured by the value of the modern building which will be erected thereon. Considering the nature of the security, and the subsequent irresponsibility of the lessor, the income should apparently be estimated on less than a five per cent. basis; but it must be remembered that the owner is surrendering possession of his property for at least twenty-one years, often without any increase of rental during that period; and his five per cent. means in part an anticipation of an increase value during the first period covered by the lease. It may be added that these transactions are usually consummated among people who thereafter keep their property out of the market. The owner has a larger income on a better security than he can obtain in any other way, and the tenant has a site which he needs for purposes essential to his business. Thus the property is permanently sequestrated, and such is the case even though the tenant is a speculative operator rather than the actual user of the property. There are already scores of operators in New York who are drawing substantial incomes from property which they have leased and altered, and which offers too good a chance of a subsequent increase of income to tempt them to dispose of the lease.

THE LATEST SUGGESTION which has been advanced towards Manhattan transit improvement consists in the proposed construction of a moving platform along Broadway from Fourteenth and Forty-second streets. This appeals to the Record and Guide as a thoroughly good suggestion—assuming, of course, that the moving platform is a mechanically safe and unobjectionable device. It has always seemed to the Record and Guide that the space immediately under the surface of Broadway should be reserved for local rather than through traffic. The local traffic of Broadway is of enormous volume and is capable of still further development. A continuous transit service from Fourteenth to Forty-second street along Broadway would be of the utmost utility to the many people who wish to travel short distances along that thoroughfare with the utmost possible celerity. What would be still better, however, would be the construction of a moving platform along the stretch of Broadway from the Post Office to Forty-second street, and we believe that something of the kind would eventually be done were it not for the stupid and wasteful Broadway-Lexington avenue route upon which the Public Service Commission has insisted. On the other hand, in case a moving platform should be built from Fourteenth to Forty-second Street, what a tribute it would be to the ingenious general planning of the Public Service Commission—which would have managed to split the one diagonal thoroughfare possessed by Manhattan into three compartments, each managed by a different company and serving a different function in the transit system of the whole borough.

EFFECT OF TAXES ON RENTS.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Mr. Edward Polak admits that my criticism of his article on the effect of increased taxation on rents would be true, were it not that I had entirely overlooked the effect of such taxation in reducing the selling price of land.

I have not overlooked this factor in the determination of this interesting question. I do believe, however, that writers of Mr. Polak's school greatly exaggerate its importance. Waiving, for the sake of argument, any criticism of the prevailing economic doctrine that no part of a tax on land-value can be shifted by the owner, the question narrows itself, as suggested by Mr. A. C. Pleydell in his interesting letter on this subject, to a discussion of which of two countervailing influences is the stronger, i. e., the tendency of high taxation to reduce values of vacant land, bringing more of it into the market and offering better inducements to builders, or the tendency of such taxation on buildings—which admittedly can be shifted—to increase rents.

In New York City, the proportion which the assessed value of taxable land bears to total taxable value (with improvements) is 62.6 per cent. This is a very high percentage as compared with the figures of other cities. But the causes are obvious and are two-fold: first, the enormous land values of business property in the Borough of Manhattan, and secondly, the great areas of wholly undeveloped land—farm land, much of it—in the Boroughs of Queens, Richmond and the Bronx. In the Borough of Brooklyn, which closely resembles the average city, the assessed value of the improvements exceeds that of the taxable land.

Now, what led to this whole discussion was the truth or falsity of the campaign arguments used prior to the late election, as to the burden of taxation falling upon the rent-payer. Obviously, the home-dweller, the flat or tenement-dweller, was in mind; not the lessee of a store on 5th av, or the tenant of a Broadway office building—for many such reside in New Jersey. As to stores and office buildings, where the relation of taxable land value to improvement value is frequently as three or four to one,—it may be admitted that the burden of increased taxation must be borne chiefly by the landlord. But to the typical rentpayer,—let us say, the dweller in a 4-sty Brooklyn flat costing $20,000, erected on land worth $4,000 or $5,000—THE INCREASE IN TAXATION INEVITABLY MEANS INCREASED RENTS.

When one comes to consider the second of the two enumerated causes—the enormous areas of vacant land in the outlying boroughs—a situation is developed which does not altogether square with Mr. Polak's theories. In the first place, much of the land in Queens and Richmond is quite unavailable for urban improvement. If it were to be offered to builders as a free gift, they would not accept it with an undertaking to improve. The ownership of such and within city limits is looked upon by single-taxers as almost a crime; but the lot of the owner paying taxes for years, based on speculative values, is not altogether roseate. He might be taxed into forfeiting his ownership; but that would not mean the improvement of the property. In the second place, the builder contemplating the erection of new buildings for housing accommodations must do more than consider whether increased taxation has cheapened the selling price of lots. If the cost of his projected improvement is four or five times the cost of his land, he must feel assured of getting back the net additional annual charge by increased rents or he will not build. In such a case, the cheapening of land value becomes almost a negligible factor.

All of this may seem to some like an argument for the single tax; but that, as Kipling would say, is another story. Taking our tax laws as they are, I cannot see how any reasonable argument can be made that higher taxes do not affect rents.

EDGAR J. LEVEY.

WHAT IS THE FUTURE OF THE FIVE-STORY HOUSE?

Reginald Pelham Bolton, the engineer, has discovered that New York City apartment houses rent better at the top than they do at the bottom, even in non-elevator houses.

"People will walk five stories high and still pay more for the privilege of getting up there, says Mr. Bolton. He told the Detroit convention of business managers and owners this, and added, as reported by the secretary in the official proceedings printed in "Building Management."

"I refer to this matter because a very important article has recently appeared in the Record and Guide of New York City pointing out the fact that we have reached a stage in apartment house construction of a very serious nature to a large number of people. To my knowledge, no less than $35,000,000 have been spent in six-story elevator houses within the past three or four years. WHAT IS GOING TO BECOME OF THE FIVE-STORY HOUSE AND WHAT IS TO BECOME OF THE OWNER OF THAT APARTMENT HOUSE? I have some statistics in my hand here of a very carefully managed non-elevator, five-story house in a good part of Manhattan, managed by a first class firm of real estate dealers, who carefully maintain that house in excellent condition, do their level best to keep it full, and succeed within ten per cent.

"These statistics are in detail, giving the entire cost of repair, decorations and the various fixed charges. The total rental of that house now is $7,350 a year. It has descended from $8,400 a year in two years and half, owing to the competition with this other class of buildings. The operating cost with the utmost economy remains practically the same. The fixed charges include taxation. I saw some figures on taxation in connection with buildings in the West which made me envious and I am sure would make others envious. Our taxes in New York City are nearly 10 per cent. of our rentals.

"After paying these taxes, interest on mortgage, collection charges of 3 per cent., it leaves a net return from the $7,000 rental of $952. So, based upon the assumption that the house is worth ten times the rental, that is a return of 3¼ per cent. That is a very bad condition of affairs, which is shared not only by the owners of this property, but by, I am safe to say, thousands of people who are up against the same proposition.

"It is hardly possible to put an elevator into one of these houses and operate it, although in connection with that matter it may interest you to know that the operating charges for an elevator in a six-story apartemnt house are very much less than is commonly supposed to be the case. I have the actual statistics of the cost of operating an elevator in a six-story building, fifty feet wide, and having thirty-six families in it. I find that it only amounted to about ten to fifteen dollars a month. That shows that there is not a very large amount of money spent in operating it, and it only cost about $2,800 to install. If any solution could be found by way of improving that class of building it would appeal to a very, very large clientele in New York City."

THE STRANGER IN OUR GATES at the recent "Hudson-Ful-ishness," as some will persist in dubbing our recent civic display, was much impressed with the Court of Honor and the recent 5th av widening, making an almost continuous boulevard of noble width from Washington Arch to 47th st. "But why not have continued it from one Park to the other, and have it perfect?" was his "untutored" exclamation. The reply that it was not expected that business requirements would extend beyond 47th st, or stores invade the hitherto sacred precincts of the Upperdendom residences, clubs, and cathedral churches buttressed there, did not seem to satisfy his country-nurtured sense of art. Cogent, however, as this argument has been with the City Fathers hitherto, the coming break-in of the Sloanes on the avenue, at the 47th st corner, may lead to a telescopic extension of the big joint that will bring Central Park into relation yet as the "objective."

DESTINY.—The buyers of the old Lotus club house, on the west side of 5th av, 25.5 south of 46th st, will probably not build themselves, but sooner or later somebody will take the site for the purpose of building a commercial house thereon, for this is 5th aveune's destiny.

CONSTRUCTION.

RIVAL MIDTOWN BUILDING MOVEMENTS

Considered as a Prophecy of a Wider Distribution of Commercial Work in the Future—Business Spreading More Rapidly into Residential Districts.

ABOUT seventy-five per cent. of the buildings in the district immediately north of 23d st, between 6th av and Broadway, are reported to be rented, and rentals are said to average higher in the section north of 23d st than in the section below 23d st. A floor, 50x100 ft., in the section north of 23d st, will fetch about $3,500 annually, while in the section below 23d st a floor of similar size will bring $3,000. The trades which are migrating to the upper section include the fur trade, as well as the cloak and suit trade and the underwear trade. Into the corresponding 4th av section the silk, woolen and white goods trades are migrating.

Down-town owners, worried over the development of the new loft sections, are known to be making concessions to hold old tenants. Vacant space is still rather plentiful in the new sections, but it takes time to fully populate new buildings. Some authorities allege that construction has run ahead of the demand, but this is a saying that accompanies most building movements. Construction must necessarily lead, and the population can only follow.

Most opinions favor the proposition that the 4th av development will draw the larger concerns, and, because of the side-street space ready for development, that it will have the larger development. And possibly it may be helped later on by a transformation of Madison av, south of 34th st. At present there are only large plots available for improvement on 4th av, but there are known to be many plans for smaller buildings in contemplation, not yet announced, but which will begin to appear next year.

A firm like the American Woolen Company and others that could be named have many followers among smaller houses, and these, too, will want locations either on the avenue or in the side streets. It is because so many firms that are "leaders" in their line are coming to 4th av that builders are predicting a large amount of building in the side streets, as well as on the avenue.

BUSINESS CONSTRUCTION SPREADING OUT AGAIN.

For many years commercial construction had not been spreading into the residential sections with the rapidity true of previous eras. This was because of the change in the style and nature of construction, from the solid masonry construction which in practice limited the height of a building, to steel skyscraper construction, with no limitations at all. Instead of blocks of five and six-story business buildings, we began to erect twenty-story buildings which made the land so much more valuable that a large part of the territory which had been built over before, was once again available for improvement, without breaking any farther into the tenement or private residential districts.

Instead of building farther northward, the New York financial, manufacturing and wholesale trades began to build higher. This was the general direction of expansion for at least ten years—ten solid years, not counting a few years before and since the decade when conditions were changing. There being no limit to height, the giant steel building was preferred, for one reason because it permitted firms in allied lines to concentrate in the same locality, as in the Wall Street neighborhood; and, in the second place, because by means of these new skyscrapers, firms that had been situated for many years within reach of the old Brooklyn and Jersey ferries, and for reasons of accessibility desired to stay there, could by the new style of building be accommodated.

Had there continued to be a mechanical limit to the height of a building, instead of the steel skyscrapers many thousands more of small, all-brick-and-stone loft and office buildings, such as they still have down on the lower west and east sides of the Island, would be in existence to-day, and the business districts would extend much farther around than they do.

WHEN THE MIGRATION WAS RESUMED.

But transportation terminals are no longer mainly at the southern extremity of the Island, and it is getting to be just as easy to reach the Long Island trains and the New Jersey trains from the middle of the Island as from its lower end. A few years ago leading firms in various lines of business started the northward movement again. Macy, Altman, Tiffany, to mention no more names, moved uptown; and what a train has followed! When the "buyers" move the sellers follow.

Without any legal limitation being put to the building height, to prevent further congestion in that part of the borough lying below Fulton st, something happened, the effect of which was to reduce the amount of skyscraper building in that section and to spread business construction northward again. What happened?

The present building movement got its impetus from the Act which consolidated the five boroughs into one greater city. From that sprang the wonderful new system of bridges, subways and tunnels, the construction of which was initiated by the city and supplemented by the Pennsylvania, McAdoo and Belmont interests, constituting a distinct and separate era of expansion. The probabilities are that the present movement for loft and office building construction in midtown sections, having started in the neighborhood of 14th st and crossed 23d st, will continue on past 33d st and into the 42d st neighborhood, leaving out the Murray Hill section.

WHAT "FIFTH AVENUE" WILL MEAN.

"Fifth Avenue," like "Wall Street," will be a name for a section of the city, instead of merely the name of one street. "Fifth Avenue" will be in a truer sense than it is to-day the high-class shopping center of America. It will include the lateral adjacent streets, and probably it will also mean a portion of Madison av. Many business buildings of moderate size, such as Redfern contemplates, will be erected in the lateral streets, where there is less traffic of a general nature and, consequently, more room for the prized carriage trade.

For builders, this new expansion will mean a more general distribution of work. The units will be smaller, but more numerous than for some years past, so far as commercial work is concerned; and the units for apartment house work on Manhattan Island are likely to grow larger, though until the law is changed the construction of very large houses will be restricted to the avenues, boulevards, squares and a few wide streets. While this restriction on the height of apartment houses lasts, the city will spread rapidly until the Island is covered to Spuyten Duyvil, and then there will be strong pressure brought to bear to raise the restriction by some process of selection that will not interfere with the fundamental objects of the Tenement House law.

Many people have the idea that it is only a question of time when the old five-story non-fireproof flat houses on the lateral streets of the West Side will give place to 12-story fireproof elevator apartment houses of the first class. This is an erroneous idea, as the height of tenement houses must, under the law, be in accordance with the width of the street. A 60-ft. street lawfully permits of a 7-story apartment, but here another set of restrictions comes into play and dictates fireproof construction.

Otherwise, the big apartment house might dispute the progress of the business building with some success. But residential construction of any kind has rarely been able to stand off business construction under natural conditions, and even when the residences have been aided by legal restrictions in the deeds that run with the land on which they stand, they have had to give way sometimes when the character of the surroundings have "changed" in the course of time.

LEARN FROM FOURTH AVENUE.

There is a great object-lesson unfolding for young builders in the 4th av section. They had, to start with, a very old avenue on which were several important institutional buildings of comparatively recent construction and but few large commercial buildings. Mostly, the old thoroughfare was lined by small stores, with craftsmen of various kinds occupying the upper floors. Suddenly a change comes: a number of corners and block fronts are bought for improvement by leading manufacturing, publishing and commercial houses. Thereupon far-sighted speculative builders appear and buy other sites, until now, with the building operations that are actually visible and the projects already announced, 4th av has become a remarkable example of sectional transformation within a brief period. As the movement has only begun, there is still much to be observed, and by taking note of all the aspects of the development the young builder and real estate man will have a good line on every similar building movement in the future—and there will be others.

THE COST OF STEAM HEAT.

Reginald Pelham Bolton, C. E., has collected statistics concerning the heating of some of the large office buildings of New York. He found that in a certain office building known as the "Century" the amount of steam required cost at the rate of $1.57 per thousand feet for the season. The season in New York is only 157 net days, for an office building. Or, at the rate of 30 cents per thousand feet per month. In another building, the National City Bank, which is a large building with an open area in it, and which has some indirect heating and ventilating apparatus in it, the figures were somewhat different. It cost, per thousand feet per month, 41.1 cents.

At the convention of building managers in Detroit Mr. Bolton read statistics of one of the largest office buildings downtown, New York, the "Bowling Green Building," which are made public in the report of the secretary of the convention, Mr. C. A. Paterson, whose report can be found in "Building Management" for October.

"The building is a 15-story building, a large building about 14 years old; it has an occupied area of 225,000 square feet. The total rents average only the rate of $1.64 per square foot per annum, due to the existence of old leases, some of which have a number of years yet to run, at the rate of $1.40. It brings in a gross income of $386,783 per annum. The total cost of operation, including taxation and some extraordinary repairs to windows, which were necessary, was $157,577, or about 40 per cent. That includes taxes. That building, I might mention, has a heating plant and a power plant for the elevators, but does not do its own lighting. The lighting is purchased from the Edison Company. That is an interesting observation from actual practice.

"I want to return to the subject that I spoke about yesterday, apartment houses. Mr. Coley has referred to it in his last remarks. This building is a modern building, built under the new tenement house law, only five years old, built by a reputable builder, with the usual defects, but nothing extraordinary. It has been maintained in excellent style. It is in first-class shape today. It is in the hands of one of the firms of the best standing, similar to the firm with which Mr. Coley is connected, and every effort is made to maintain its character, and it is renting up to the full capacity. The figures upon the operation are as follows: It may be of interest to compare the figures which Mr. Coley has given us. On the gross basis of the rentals, that is, upon the results received, the following figures are percentages: Interest upon the first mortgage is 3.6 per cent. That is the usual first mortgage, about 65 per cent. of the ostensible value of the building. Taxes were 11.6 per cent.; interest, 1.1 per cent. Water cost 1.8 per cent. Vacancies were 10.2 per cent., average for two years.

"This class of building is not quite the same class as that which Mr. Coley has described as being rented to workingmen and mechanics, but the class just between them and the high class of apartment in which people pay an annual rental. This is the monthly rented apartment house of a little above the cheap character of tenement, and is rented to city officials and storekeepers, and people of that class. The cost of heating, hot water being supplied, is 10½ per cent. The cost of janitor service is 3.2 per cent.; for supplies, nine-tenths of one per cent. The repairs to the building. This item has been separated to show the amount spent for redecorating, which is a serious item in itself.

"As an illustration of the care exercised in the management of this building, I will say that the decorating alone is maintained at 7.42 per cent. That is for redecorating after tenants move out and before new tenants come in. There is a practice followed in this house which I believe to be a good one in connection with this class of building, and that is to place no paper on the walls of small bedrooms, but painting those walls so that they can be repainted and kept free from insects and dirt. The actual repairs to the building were 3.8 per cent. That includes plumber's repairs, which is one of the most serious items. Advertising is six-tenths of one per cent.

"I would like to know whether that, in the judgment of other managers of buildings, represents anything like an adequate amount to be spent upon a building in which the vacancies amount to 10 per cent. Collections are the usual 3 per cent. Sundries, four-tenths of one per cent., being a total of 37.1 per cent., leaving a balance for profit of 12.9 per cent. That is 12.9 per cent. of the collected rents, that is, the total rents. That represents upon the equity of the building only 3¼ per cent."

—Some families who are not equal to tiled walls in the kitchen are using oilcloth of a tiled pattern in fitting up the kitchens of their private suburban homes, in conjunction with linoleum as a floor covering. This gives a result something like the tiled kitchen, in appearance, and also admits of frequent washing down.

—If one cannot have porcelain or enameled iron sinks in the kitchen, slate makes a very desirable sink, and is easily kept clean.

MAKING BIG DOMES OF CONCRETE.

The uses of reinforced concrete seem to be constantly widening. Among the latest novelties in this type of construction is that of the Linden Baptist Church at 9th and Linden sts, Camden, N. J., of which A. Truscott and Arnold Moses, were architects and Turner & Stewart, builders and general contractors. The dome, of which exterior and interior views are given, had a diameter of 73 ft. and 8 in. and a height of 28 ft., 2 in. Just 416 plates, averaging 4x2 ft. x1½ in. reinforced with No. 29 gauge mesh expanded metal, were used. Of this number 208 plates were 5 ft. long, and from 17 to 22 inches wide, with lips were used. The mixture was 1-2-3, cement, sand and grit. About 200 barrels of Edison Portland Cement were used. The walls are built of brick, in arch and pilaster design, wide at the base and gradually narrowing to the top, where they are capped with cement stone. It is said to be the first application of this type of dome construction in New Jersey.

Some other odd uses to which Portland cement has recently been put are a concrete fireproof safe in which musical instruments are kept in George H. Wilson's Philadelphia conservatory of music. Even the door of this safe is made of reinforced concrete. Mr. Wilson, an enthusiast in the use of this building material, has used it almost exclusively in fitting up his studios, giving the whole the appearance of a summer garden. He finds that it adds to the accoustic qualities of his auditorium. He has imitated Pueblo architecture in an artistic roof garden by use of concrete for fountains, flower pots, seats, pedestals and standards for climbing vines.

Another estate owner used Edison Portland cement for making fish tanks for his private aquarium near this city. He has made the side slabs 1½ inches thick, the bottom 2 inches thick, all with 3-in. No. 16 gauge expanded metal reinforcement. Each tank holds 250 gallons. He waterproofed them all with Edison's waterproofing paint. His proportions were 1-2-3 cement, sand and grit.

CONSTRUCTION RATE IN OTHER CITIES.—Bradstreet's, November 13, will say: Reports from 100 cities of the United States show a total estimated value of construction of $63,650,196 as against $60,577,849 in September and $62,595,284 in October a year ago. There is here indicated a gain of 5 per cent. over the month of September, but of only 1.6 per cent. over October, 1908. This latter increase is the smallest percentage of gain reported since September, 1908, but it of course needs to be borne in mind that the advance of the season tends to limit activity in new building enterprises, and, furthermore, comparisons now are with large totals a year ago, which precludes any heavy gains being shown in the current monthly returns.

LONDON'S NEWEST DEPARTMENT STORE.

THE famous "American store" in London (Selfridges) was designed by American architects, D. H. Burnham & Co., of Chicago, and has a particular interest for Americans. The Otis Elevator Company installed the elevators, and the monthly "Indicator," published by this company contains an illustration and a description of the building.

The building is 250 feet long, 175 feet wide, and the height from foundations to top of the parapet is about 150 feet. The general impression of the building is unquestionably one of beauty combined with great strength and suitable planning for a retail shop.

From the engineers' and architects' point of view this building is of great interest as it is practically the first building erected in London under the New London Building Act, which permits of each compartment between brick walls being 450,000 cubic feet; also of the introduction of large openings in party walls, namely 12 feet by 12 feet; thus affording from one end of the building to the other an unobstructed view.

The engineering part of the design is of great importance, considering that 3,000 tons of steel work were used in the construction, and that the entire building is supported upon steel girders and stanchions. The floors are all constructed of concrete reinforced with steel bars and have a minimum thickness of 6½ inches, in addition to which there is a concrete filling on top of the reinforced construction, of about 5 inches. All the steelwork is protected by at least 2 inches of concrete, and where necessary it is anchored to the steelwork by means of rods, wire or netting.

A retaining wall was built for upholding the earth on the Somerset Street side extending 60 feet below the street level—probably the greatest retaining wall yet built of reinforced concrete and executed under great difficulties. The adjoining buildings were underpinned to a depth of about 50 feet below the street level.

The elevator installation comprises the following: 9 electric passenger elevators; 2 electric freight elevators; 1 electric kitchen elevator; 1 electric dumbwaiter. A Gravity Package Conveyor has also been installed by the Otis Company, extending practically the entire height of the building, taking in at all upper floors and delivering to receiving table at the basement mezzanine, where packages are stored and then sent by means of shorter incline chutes to the despatch dock.

The architects were D. H. Burnham & Company, of Chicago, Ill., U. S. A., and Frank Atkinson, Esq., F. R. I. B. A., London. The contractors were Messrs. Waring & White (1906) Ltd., Managing Director, R. A. Denell.

BOND ON CLAY AND CEMENT BRICK.

In connection with the use of cement for clay brick in the construction of their new mill, the Plymouth Cordage Co., of North Plymouth, Mass., made many interesting comparisons between brick made of the two materials. Bond was recognized as an essential feature in any method of construction, and in this respect cement bricks appear to great advantage.

Clay bricks with one pallet side show a better bond than clay brick with both sides perfectly plain. It might be argued that cement brick with plain bed and build would furnish an inferior bond with the mortar. The fact is, however, that the cement brick is perfectly in bond with the mortar, to such a degree that the resulting wall is practically monolithic.

Owing to the bond, attempts by the Plymouth Cordage Co. to make cleanly cut openings in old work were a failure, unless great care was taken to first cut out the joints. If this was not done, the wall was defaced. Holes drilled through the wall would split out on the other side a space oftentimes over a foot square, especially when drilled from the inside. If mortar was left on the brick in laying, it was impossible to clean it off with any reasonable amount of water and acid, and it could not be scraped off without defacing the wall.

The cutting of the cement bricks was found to be one of the most valuable features. It is possible to do almost anything with them. Cuts have been made half an inch thick, for the full length and width of the brick; ¼-in. cut from the full bed of a brick (except ½-in. from the face) to lay over and hide the edge of a casting. These are things which it is impossible to do with the ordinary clay brick.

REMINISCENCES OF A PLUMBER.

THE head of a sanitary plumbing supply house was tempted into some reminiscences by a remark that the best plumbing improvements have come within the last thirty years. He could recollect how meager the plumbing arrangements once were in the average American city, and how indistinct the plumbing trade was as a separate business.

In most interior towns before the Civil War the plumbing, tinware and stove lines were joined together in one business, and the journeymen who had put on the tin roof and made the tin leader for your house also installed your plumbing apparatus, and afterward made and fitted your register boxes and heating pipes, and likewise made tin wash boilers, basins, dippers, pans and any other tinware a family needed for housekeeping.

Historically, a plumber is one who works in lead. Lead pipe has been used since the earliest times. But the old pan closet, which most persons of middle age must remember, together with lead trap, cast iron trunk and porcelain bowl, was practically the first modern water closet. Then came the all-porcelain bowl and trap combined.

From the old boxed-in cast-iron sinks we have come to the porcelain and enameled supported on brackets of the same material. From the wooden box drain we have come to the tile and cast iron. In some of our larger buildings, where the extra cost was not a consideration, wrought iron screw jointed pipe is used. Once there was but one trap for water closet, basin and bath, and one waste connection to soil pipe for all three fixtures was all that was considered necessary. Now, we have a separate trap for each fixture.

Formerly it was considered the better plan to have all plumbing fixtures covered, or cased in. Even the kitchen sink was put in a closet, extending from the floor to the ceiling. Nowadays all plumbing fixtures are exposed. If modern and first-class, they are of handsome appearance, as well as sanitary. The snow-white modern kitchen and bathroom have become beautiful rooms. In "Alwyn Court," at 7th av and 58th st, the bathroom walls and ceilings are all paneled with mirrors.

Modern times have increased the vogue of the plumber. He has developed into a specialist and is now protected in his calling by a certificate from the State. The heating trade has also become a specialty, and cornice making and some other "stunts" once done in the "tin shop," have been specialized and taken away. Tinware is now almost altogether factory made. Fifty years ago it was all hand made.

In other days the principal "shops" in the average town were, first, the carpenter shop, and then, but not in the order of relative importance, the "tin shop," the foundry and machine shop, the shipyard, the brickyard, the printing office, the wagon maker's, the tanyard, the stoneyard, the harnessmaker's, the shoemaker's, the tailor's, the watchmaker's, the silversmith's, the furniture maker's the brushmaker's, the cooperage, and others, not counting the purely commercial "stores." Only a very few of the old time "shops" have been able to thrive since the modern development of "manufacturing" by wholesale. The "tin shop" survives, but its sphere of activity has been lessened. Every young man, whatever his trade or calling, should take notice of the changes made in most lines by the flight of years, and be not so wedded to one that he cannot if necessary in after years adapt himself to its successor, or quite a different one.

A WAY TO SPOIL GOOD ENGINEERS.—Clarence T. Coley, M. E., head of the engineering department of Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown & Co., says that some of the best engineers and janitors are spoiled by allowing them to purchase their own supplies. In the course of a discussion at the Detroit convention of building managers and owners, Mr. Coley said that these men start off conscientiously to be honest. "The salesman comes in and he buys the engineer a cigar. Then the engineer takes a lunch, and he probably takes a dress for his wife, and so on until he is absolutely influenced by the salesman's arguments toward his material. So as far as it is possible in our business the purchasing agent buys everything. Of course we do encourage to a great extent the engineers, superintendents and janitors making recommendation. We encourage this to keep up the interest of the engineer or janitor in his particular work."

—Your ideal modern business man never thinks of himself as "spending" anything; he merely "invests" and reinvests. He never "retires" from business; it would be death to do so. He never "has enough"—for he is not thinking of possessions, but of accomplishments.—Charles Ferguson in the "American."

MORE DWELLINGS FOR LONG BEACH.

Long Beach Estates Will Build 25, to be Ready for Spring Delivery.

ANOTHER building operation, comprising 25 detached houses, of various designs, is about to be begun at Long Beach, L. I., by the Long Beach Estates. The houses will be completed next April and ready for spring delivery.

All of the houses will be 2½ stories in height, with stucco exteriors, and all of them will have cellars, while the foundations will be of concrete. The roofs will be of vitrified tile.

CONCRETE LONG BEACH RESIDENCE.

In the upper floor of each house will be servants' rooms and a bath for their use, while a rear stairway will lead to the kitchen.

Parquet floors will cover all of the first stories and the floor of the upper halls. The houses will be finished in hardwood, will have a hot water heating system, open fireplaces in the sitting rooms and coal ranges in the kitchens.

About one-third of the number of houses will contain three baths each, including a fresh and sea water system. The remainder will contain one bath exclusive of the servants' bath.

The houses will average ten rooms each, will cost from $12,000 to $35,000 each and will be on plots varying from three to eight lots in size.

Most of these dwellings will be built in streets to the south and west of the wealthy colony known as Sandringham Park, that skirts the one thousand foot wide channel in Hempstead Bay.

Work on the west part of the channel has progressed finely, but considerable work on its east part is under way.

Kirby, Petit & Green, 103 Park av, Manhattan, are the architects of the new houses.

PALATIAL LONG BEACH RESIDENCE.

"THE RENSSELAER."

Cathedral Heights.

This is one of the smaller new houses in the apartment house section now having the choicest development—Cathedral Heights. It is situated in 113th st, between Broadway and Amsterdam av. The vestibule, entrance-hall and reception-room are trimmed with polished marble, relieved by panels of onyx. The principal rooms are finished in white enamel and mahogany. Bay windows that give tenants a pleasant outlook, considering that the site is in the middle of the block, are the determining feature of the front of the house.

ANXIETY FOR WASHINGTON HULL, the architect, is widespread. The theory on which hopes are yet based is that his sloop yacht met with some misfortune, but that Mr. Hull and the two sailors who were with him in the "Commodore" may have been rescued by an outward-bound vessel, which has not yet made her port in some foreign country. Each passing day weakens the theory, but Mr. Hull's friends are not ready to number him among the dead. As he ranked among the best known architects of the East, his misfortune has been the subject of wide attention. He had set out from Lawrence Beach, L. I., to lay up his sloop yacht at some shipyard for the winter. It was to be his last cruise for the season. Mr. Hull was the son of the late John H. Hull, a Brooklyn lawyer, and he lived in South Portland st, Brooklyn. His office was at 16 East 23d st, Madison square. He was a graduate of Columbia University and a member of its 'varsity crew. In the year 1894 he became a partner in the firm of Lord, Hewlett & Hull, and the partnership continued for a long period. Among the notable works of the firm was the planning of Senator Clark's residence on 5th av. In 1903 his design for the great Municipal Building was accepted. The outcome of Mr. Hull's relations with the city, over the municipal building plans, will long be remembered in the courts of the State. Martin W. Littleton, then the borough president, raised objections to the plans on Feb. 6, 1904, and a long controversy followed. In the end the city paid Mr. Hull $15,000 for the rejected plans. Mr. Hull was a member of the last Building Code Commission.

—Dennis McLaughlin, the largest owner of tenement houses in the State of New Jersey, who finished four 5-sty fifteen-family tenements about two months ago at Willow av, Hoboken, bet 11th and 12th sts, is now finishing five more on the same block, after plans drawn by Architect Charles Fall, 100 14th st. They are each 32 by 66 feet in size and cost $21,000 each, so that the total cost aggregate $189,000. They are renting fairly well and will pay well on the investment.

—The Pittsburgh Civic Commission has retained Bion J. Arnold of Chicago, John R. Freeman of Providence and Frederick Law Olmsted of Boston to study the needs of the city, especially in the way of city planning in its broadest sense, and to recommend such further action as they believe should be undertaken by the commission. The commission in organizing apponted fourteen committees, covering such important subjects as accounting, public health, schools and rapid transit, etc. These committees are studying the conditions there and in other cities, and on their conclusion and the advice of specialists, such as those just named, the commission will formulate plans for necessary improvement.

INSTALLING A FURNACE HEATING PLANT.

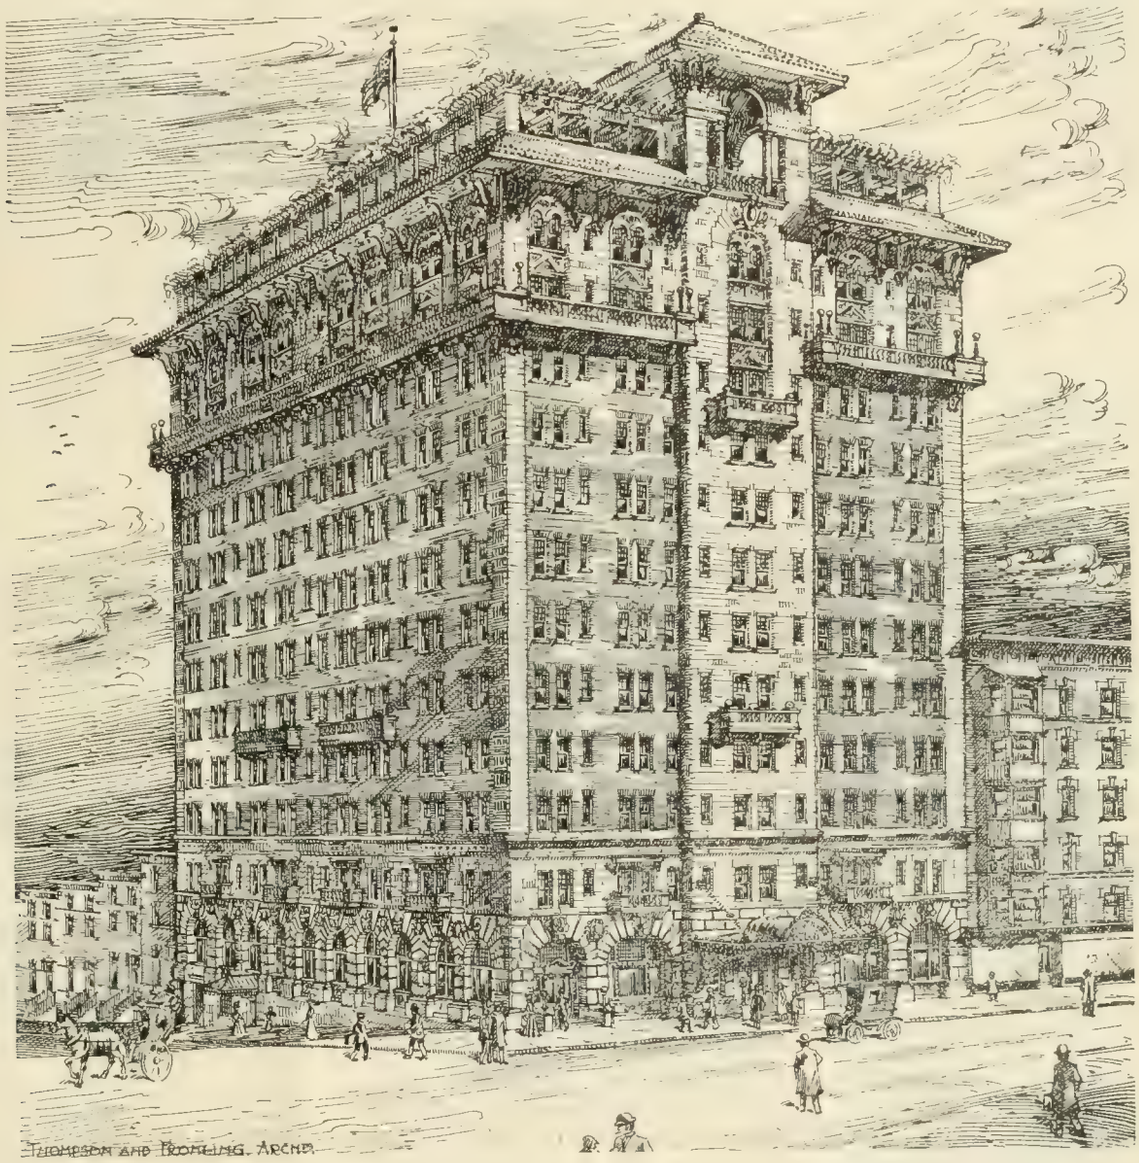
FURNACE MEN say there is no money in the competitive cheap job. They say that a furnace job properly installed costs from one-half to one-third more than the average contract price which is made by the inexperienced furnace installer. Hence there is a great temptation even on the part of those who know better to use this crude plan of installing because by so doing they are able to compete with the competitor.

Mr. W. J. Heald explains the situation in the columns of the current Metal Worker, saying that many lose sight of the fact that in order to put a furnace in the basement and heat the rooms above it is just as important to have a good circulation of air for the furnace as it is to have good circulation of water to heat it with hot water.

"The difference between the hot water plant and the hot air furnace is that in case the circulation of either is not secured, that the hot water plant will not work at all, while the hot air furnace will work to a disadvantage and in an incomplete way. So installation of the hot water plant must be on a fairly good basis, while it is not so with the furnace, because it can heat in a way with poor installation. He adds:

IMPORTANT TECHNICAL DETAILS.

"In the first place, be sure that the furnace is of ample capacity for the building which it is intended for. See that the pipes are of proper size for the rooms to be heated and that the furnace is centrally located.



"Last, but not of least importance, is to see that the cold air supplies from the inside of the building, back to the furnace, are so located that all the rooms on the first floor have easy access to the outlet, and that the combined area of them is equal to the combined area of all the hot air pipes.

"There is nothing complicated or mysterious about this, nothing but what an ordinary intelligent man can follow. If these three things are observed the success of the hot air heating job would be greatly improved over the average common way of installing.

"There are other things, of course, to be considered that will help to make up a complete and perfect job, one of which is that both the hot air and cold air registers should be so located in the house that there will be as little friction and as short a distance from the furnace as is possible for them to be to reach the rooms which are to be heated. This applies to the cold air outlet as well as the hot air. Do not go to the unnecessary expense of placing the cold air outlet on the opposite side of the room from the hot air, as that is unnecessary, and, in fact, is not as good a practice as placing it at the nearest point possible to the furnace."

ACTION OF SEA-WATER ON CONCRETE.

Late in 1908 it was generally reported that tests had been undertaken by the Aberthaw Construction Co., Boston, Mass., in co-operation with the Navy Department at the Navy Yard, Charlestown, Mass, to determine by exposure over a long period what effect sea-water might have upon concrete. The specimens were made of various grades of cement in widely differing proportions, and were so placed that the lower portion of the surface of each would be continually exposed to water, while the upper portion was always exposed to air, and the middle portion alternately exposed to each. At the end of six months of actual exposure, which was recently terminated, a critical examination was made. Although the specimens had been exposed to freezing temperature during several months of the winter, and to the variable conditions of midsummer, this examination failed to disclose any visible change in the surface of any of the specimens. It is independently stated by the cement chemist, Mr. H. L. Sherman, of Boston, that all cements are behaving in a perfectly normal manner and the tests to date appear to be perfectly satisfactory. It is his opinion that a considerable time must elapse before any results will be obtained which will tend to throw any additional light on the effect of the water on concrete, or on the effect of various compositions of cements.

DESIGN FOR AN APARTMENT HOTEL TO BE ERECTED ON WASHINGTON HEIGHTS.
Broadway and 145th Street., Thompson & Frohling, Architects.

—Tenants in apartment houses are "crazy" for vacuum cleaning and they seem to be willing to pay for it, just as they pay for steam heat. When a building is in course of erection, and it is contemplated to install a vacuum cleaning system a certain fixed sum can be added to the rental rate to cover the cost of vacuum cleaning once a month.

ADVANCE REPORTS.

First Department Hotel for Washington Heights.

BROADWAY.—Messrs. Thompson & Frohling, of 114 East 28th street, have plans on the boards for the first apartment hotel to be erected on Washington Heights. The announcement of these plans marks an epoch in the remarkably brilliant history of the Broadway section of Washington Heights. The street is now lined with 6-sty elevator apartment houses, but no 12-sty house has yet been erected there. A number of apartment houses have been converted into boarding houses, so to speak, and because of a widespread desire to reside in the section they have been successfully operated. The new apartment house here referred to will take high rank, and will bear comparison with some of the best downtown. It will have a frontage of 100 ft. on Broadway and 150 in 145th—the northwest corner—and a height of 12 stories. The total estimated cost is $1,000,000. The owner is the Dow Construction Company, of No. 1 Madison av., and the general contract has been awarded to the Bunting & Bull Company, at the same address.

Plans will be completed about November 22. The design is in the style of the Italian Renaissance, as pictured on another page, and materials and construction will be first class. A vacuum cleaning system will be among the conveniences. There will be a restaurant on the first floor, conducted on the European plan, and a general dining-room, on the American plan, on the 12th floor. A cafe for gentlemen on the first floor will be a beautiful and spacious room with marble wainscoting, pilasters and columns, and it will have a beamed ceiling effect. Similarly the main lobby will be trimmed with marble, and it will have gilded cornices. The ladies' parlor will be in white enamel and gold leaf. There will also be a writing, reading and lounging room combined, which will be very attractive. In the basement will be a garage for the use of the guests of the hotel exclusively, the entrance to which will be on the 145th street side at grade, the street having a steep incline. On the roof there will be a garden on the river side of the house, and a promenade all around the building. All the bedrooms in the house will be in white enamel and the living rooms in the Mission and other styles. All the bathrooms will be in white enamel, with tiled floors and wainscoting. The apartments will be arranged in suites of two and three rooms, each with either one or two baths.

Has Plans for Fifteen Churches.

BROOKLYN.—A. F. Leicht, the architect of 9 East 42d st, who drew the plans for the remodelling of Hanson Place Baptist Church, corner of South Portland st, Brooklyn, has the erection of fifteen churches in hand at the present time. This is an evidence of the genuineness of the present building activity, because it is a generally accredited rule that the churches are the last to feel the evidences of returning prosperity. Some of the recent awards are of interest, the very latest being recorded is elsewhere in this issue. The Brooklyn improvement will cost between $20,000 and $22,000. The gymnasium and drill room will be remodelled, a Hope-Jones pipe organ will be installed in the church in which the interior decoration will be changed entirely and a new steam heating plant put in. Another operation that Mr. Leicht has in charge is for the new Sunday school building of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Millville, N. J., which will cost about $25,000. An additional $10,000 will be spent in making alterations to the church. Working drawings on this operation are about to be started. The Rev. Mr. Mason is the pastor. The new building will be of brick and iron construction. The new Second Dutch Reformed Church at Summit st and Hutton av, Jersey City, plans for which Mr. Leicht drew, will be completed about December 15. The building is of white granite with interior decoration of oak. The cost was about $60,000. The new Parmly Memorial Church at Fairmount av and Boulevard, Jersey City, plans for which were drawn by Mr. Leicht, is rapidly going ahead. This structure will cost about $60,000, will be of stone and iron truss construction with hardwood floor and red oak trim. The other churches which Mr. Leicht has in charge, besides his other work, are in various stages of completion.

Large Operation in High-Grade Duplex Houses.

FLATBUSH.—Shampan & Shampan, architects, 772 Broadway, Williamsburgh, are preparing plans for ten 4-sty, high-class duplex 2-family residences to be erected on the west side of East 15th st, 60 ft. north of Foster av, Brooklyn, for the Abels-Gold Realty Co., 44 Court st, Brooklyn, as owners. The buildings will be constructed of brick, 20x40 ft., with an extension on the first floor 8.6x16 ft. The ten buildings will be composed of five different styles of houses, all being designed with attractive features. The exteriors will be finished in Tapestry brick laid up in Flemish bond with ½-in. color raked joint to harmonize with the styles of architecture, which are to be respectively Colonial, Classic, Elizabethian, etc. The interior will be finished in hardwood, such as bird's-eye maple, birch and oak, each room to be finished in different style. The buildings will be set back from building line 10 ft., which will allow for an ornament terrace with urns, flowers, etc. The plumbing fixtures will comprise Roman tubs, syphon jet water closets, pedestal wash basins and shower baths. The houses will be heated by steam heat. Shampan & Shampan are also preparing plans for 5-sty and basement building, 50x100 ft., on South 2d st, near Hooper st, Brooklyn. Owner's name withheld for the present.

Architect for the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church.

46TH ST.—Architect W. W. Bosworth, of 527 5th av, has been selected to draw plans for the new church for the Fifth Avenue Baptist congregation, at 8 East 46th st. The purchase by the trustees of abutting property was recently announced. The estimated cost of the new work is $600,000. Rev. Dr. C. F. Aked is pastor; Edgar L. Marston, 25 Broad st, is chairman. It was decided to use the site of the parsonage and also of the chapel, and so make an area 100x100 ft. The plans adopted this week provide for an edifice that will cover this entire plot. Construction will be unique in that the parlors for social purposes and the hall for the meeting of the Rockefeller Bible class will be placed above the main auditorium. Both on the west and the east front corners will be vestibules, staircases and elevators, so that the upper rooms may be reached with little difficulty. The upper part will have a ceiling 24 ft. high. The main auditorium will have a dome, lighted from above, with a ceiling 70 ft. high. There will be galleries and a pulpit platform that will approach much nearer the conventional chancel than in most Baptist churches. The work of building will be commenced in the spring. The church will seat 1,400 persons.

Ready for Figures on Church.

BROOKLYN.—Figures will be taken early next week by Brown, McAghon & Strassle, architects, of 31 East 27th st, for material for the Ridley Memorial M. E. Church, to be erected on Ocean Parkway and Foster av, Brooklyn. Contracts will probably be awarded by Saturday or the first of the week following. The structure will cost $50,000 and has been designed to seat 1,600. It will be constructed of brick and stone, probably limestone. Excavations were completed this week.

Other churches which Messrs. Brown, McAghon & Strassle have on the boards now are the First M. E. Church at State College, Pa., which will cost $30,000. The Rev. J. McK. Reilly is pastor. The structure, which will be built of brick and stone, will have a seating capacity of 900. Working drawings have just been started, but actual construction will not begin until spring. No contracts have been awarded.

At Rome, N. Y., this firm of architects is building a parish house for the First M. E. Church there which will cost $25,000 and will be constructed of brick. No contracts have been let, the drawings now being underway. The pastor is the Rev. Edward B. Topping.

OUR Engineering department will co-operate with architects and engineers in the planning and executing of difficult foundations, dock work, etc.

Plans for the Fort William Henry Hotel.

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y.—The new Fort William Henry Hotel, for which Ludlow & Peabody, 12 West 31st st, are preparing plans, will cost approximately $250,000. It will be fireproof throughout, and the construction will be of steel, concrete and possibly brick. The decision as to the exact materials to be used has not been made. The building will be on the site of the burned hotel. The scheme will be Italian, and it will be most attractive, with a grace and beauty in keeping with its surroundings. The house, as now planned, will have a capacity of about 300, but the dining-room and lobby will be constructed with a view of substantial enlargement later. The present plans call for a 4-sty building in shape somewhat like the main portion of the old hotel. It will be so arranged that later two large wings may be added to provide extra sleeping apartments, so that ultimately the building will resemble a huge letter U. It is reported at Lake George that extensive improvements will be made along the lake front, such as a new pier and bathhouse, possibly a new railway station and other changes. C. S. Sims, of Albany, N. Y., is the general manager of the hotel.

Contract for the Bergen County Court-House.

HACKENSACK, N. J.—The County Building Committee awarded the general contract this week to the John T. Brady & Co., of 103 Park av, for the construction of the new court house and jail to be built on Court House square in Haskensack. The Brady Company's figures will make the total cost of the buildings $827,672.25. The court house is to be built of marble with a granite base. The marble construction will start with the executive or administration floor. W. H. Fissel & Co., when the original bids were received last month, were low, but the specifications stated forty-six items which might or might not be included. Brady & Co. bid $564,840 in the original bid, but with the forty-six items added their figures went up to $827,672.25, while Fissel's figures with the forty-six items added went up to $867,000. There will be three floors to the building and spacious chambers for the court sessions and the various county officials. The Court House Commission which awarded the contract consists of James M. Gulnac, of Englewood, Sheriff Geo. M. Brewster, of Alpine, and Walter Christie, of Bergenfield. J. Reily Gordon, of 402 5th av, is architect. Bond issues will meet the cost of the structure.

Possibly a Hotel Opposite the Pennsylvania Depot.

7TH AV.—Efforts to substantiate a rumor that a skyscraper hotel will be built by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, or some allied interest, on 7th av, opposite the depot, in the open place between 32d and 33d sts, have not been successful. There are two or three facts to remember in this connection. First, anyone getting a contract from the Pennsylvania Company in connection with the construction of the station is pledged to give out no information. Second, the Pennsylvania is a railroad company, and as such is restricted by the terms of its charter to a transportation business. If a hotel be built on the site, it would be done in all likelihood under the terms of a lease by some other party. Beneath the plaza are the tracks of the railroad company, but the tracks are so far below the street level that they would not interfere with plans for any building which it might be desired to erect above them. McKim, Mead & White are the architects of the new depot building.

Bids Invited for an Aqueduct Contract.

WATER WORKS.—Bids will be received by the Board of Water Supply, Wednesday, Nov. 24 (Contract No. 10), for the construction of the headworks of the Catskill Aqueduct, including the structure, for controlling, regulating and aerating the water leaving the Ashokan reservoir, the principal of which are a lower gate-chamber, a screen chamber, an aerator, special and standard aqueducts in open cut, aggregating three-quarters of a mile in length; waste-weirs, a waste-channel, a concrete Venturi meter and other appurtenances. The work is located near Browns Station, in the Town of Olive, Ulster County, N. Y. An approximate statement of the quantities of the various classes of work and further information, are given in the Information for Bidders. Two or more bonds, the aggregate amount of which shall be $280,000, will be required for the faithful performance of the contract.

A Hollow Tile Club House.

LONG BRANCH.—The new home of the Rumson Country Club, which is being built in the Borough of Rumson at a cost of $125,000, will probably be ready in time for the summer season of 1910. A feature of interest about the club building is that it will be constructed of terra cotta hollow tile throughout—walls, doors and partitions. The destruction of the Baltusrol Club by fire may have had something to do with the determination of the members to build against fire. Besides the main club building there will be laundry building, garage, boiler house, boat house, caddie master's house and juvenile club house. These smaller annexes are not started yet. The architectural treatment is Elizabethan. Freeman & Hasselman, of Rumson, N. J., are the architects. Edward D. Adams, 71 Broadway, Manhattan, is president of the club, and can give further particulars.

Another Operation Held for Spring.

25TH ST.—The Twenty-Fifth Construction Co., which recently completed the 12-sty office and loft building at 151, 153 and 155 West 25th st, announces that it will not go ahead with the improvement of the site Nos. 24 and 26 West 25th st, purchased this week through M. & L. Hess for the Realty Holding Co., until March 1. The two 4-sty and basement buildings now standing on the 50x98.9 plot will be razed to make way for a 12-sty store and loft building. It will be a high class structure throughout. The architect has not been formally selected. Three elevators will be installed and possibly mail chutes. It will have a steam-heating plant. The materials used will be stone, terra cotta and brick.

Improvement for a New Section of the Drive.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE.—The Dacorn Realty Company's next operation will be a 10-sty fireproof brick, stone and steel apartment house, 100x125 ft., on the south corner of Riverside Drive and 145th st. L. Blum, care John L. Davis, president of the Dacorn Realty Co., 180th st and Ft. Washington av, is preparing plans. The owners will be general contractors. No sub-contracts have been let. The investment will represent about $700,000. The site was purchased from the State Realty & Mortgage Co. through John R. and Oscar Foley.

Taking Bids for the Whitehall Annex.

WEST AND WASHINGTON STS.—Messrs. Clinton & Russell, of 32 Nassau st, are taking bids for the construction of the addition to the Whitehall Building, fronting on Battery pl. BUILDING MATERIAL AND EQUIPMENT

And News Regarding Source of Supply

Material in Languid Market.

While the undertone in the building material market is good, the demand was languid during the week. Dealers and contractors bought according to daily needs, most of them being too busy finishing up jobs now in hand to give thought to laying in Winter supplies. Brick had a moderate demand. Enamel brick still has an upward tendency. Few big cement contracts were closed, although small ones are numerous. Lime is an exception to the general market condition, because it maintains the activity uniform all through the Fall. Competition is keen and prices firm. Lumber was firm, with a steady demand for Spruce and Long Leaf Yellow Pine, which have had the call since September. Pig iron was less active, but there was a better inquiry for sheet metals, the prices for which are firm. Structural and bar concrete reinforcements are active. Stone is normal, with an undertone strengthening for a price advance at the first of the year. Linseed oil is still high. Hardware interests are optimistic for a good Winter.

Brick in Moderate Demand.

The situation in brick remains practically unchanged from that of last week. Prices for Hudson River common hards remain firm at $6.25 and $6.50. Sales are quick with inquiry only sufficient to cover daily needs. Transactions for last week show normal shipments for this time of the year and a moderate demand, indicating that distributors are not taking any more than actually required. The statistics follow: Holdovers, Oct. 30, 7; arrivals, 82; total, 89; sold, 77; leaving 12 on hand Monday, Nov. 8. Retailers report a quieting influence at work in this city within the last two weeks. Enamels are moving up.

CAPT. ROSE GETS BARTLETT YARDS.

The properties of the Bartlett Brick Company, of Roseton and Hudson, N. Y., were sold on Tuesday at the county court house, Newburgh, by the receivers, to Captain John B. Rose. Capt. Rose says he is not yet ready to announce his plans for the conduct of the yards in the future, but it is current opinion that he will improve them and add them to his already extensive brick properties along the Hudson River.

SAYRE & FISHER CO. STOP MAKING.

The Sayre & Fisher Co. shut down the manufacturing end of their plant along the Raritan River at Sayreville, N. J., last week after one of the busiest summer and falls it has had in many years. Even now, sales continue good in small quantities, all the company's boats being in service making deliveries in this city and vicinity. Newark has taken on a spurt for Raritan brick, for residential and apartment house operations there. A good demand is reported from Jersey City and Hoboken. The company does not plan extensive improvements at its plant this winter. Modern machinery was installed three years ago and only general renovations will take place this year.

ENAMEL BRICK HIGH AND FIRM.

The demand for enamel brick remains strong, even at the high price now quoted for this material. Business is being taken only for first and second quarters, and all are going to jobs direct from kilns. All grades seem to be in demand, according to Carter, Black & Ayres and Sayre & Fisher Co., two of the prominent distributors of this kind of brick. Advancing prices may be expected before the end of January.

The capacity of the works of the American Enamel Brick and Tile Co. is being taxed to fill orders. New prices follow:

Few Big Cement Contracts.

While there is unquestionably an improvement in the cement situation in this city and vicinity, most of this business is in small quantities. Big contracts are the exception rather than the rule because large operations are not coming out. Builders seem to be waiting for more tangible evidence of a big building season before placing specifications for next year's supplies. Contracts recently signed still carry only from sixty to ninety days. This conservatism is undoubtedly wearing upon the producers, who find that the great stocks at the mills are dwindling only slowly.

But if the signs of the times are to be trusted, better prices will rule next year. Some of the licensees confidently believe that the next advance will be a decisive one, while here and there the statement is made that, agreement or no agreement, cement will jump 20 cents a bbl.

American Portland cement quotations as of November 1st to 15th are $1.43 to $1.58 delivered alongside New York City, within free lighterage limits in 250-bbl. lots. The ruling price to-day to dealers and contractors is $1.43, but the actual net price per bbl., after dealer's commission is paid, is $1.38. Cement going out on specified contracts of long standing and running well into the future is selling at five and ten cents below these figures.

GERMAN ALSEN SLIGHTLY LOWER.

German Alsen Portland cement (45 Broadway, this city) is quoted three cents lower, the present price being now $2.40. Dyckerhoff German Portland cement, (E. Thiele, importer, 99 John st,) still remains at $2.43.

Less Activity in Pig Iron.

Pig iron interests here are experiencing a lull in demand, which they believe will extend to a more or less degree over a period of three months. It is approaching the time when mills and furnaces take their inventories and the general policy is to carry as low stocks as possible at that time. Conditions will be better than usual for this time of the year, however, because of the heretofore unprecedented call for pig iron. The standard now maintained is expected to hold until after January.

The big sale last week of 15,000 tons to the United States Cast Iron Pipe Co. was the crowning one of the season and went into Upper New York state from Buffalo furnaces for shipment into the last part of the first quarter and the second. Buffalo is taking only first half business and Pennsylvania is taking nothing behind first quarter. The big sale to the pipe interests closes out the lower grades and has the effect of keeping prices firm, during the present lull. Basic is selling at $19 delivered at Eastern Pennsylvania points. The independent concerns are buying steel-making iron heavily, which proceeding, if it continues, will have the effect of making it more profitable to produce steel-making iron than foundry grades. The report is general that the two furnaces of the steel corporation on ferro-manganese are to be used in the production of pig iron to relieve the pressure for crude steel.

BETTER INQUIRY FOR STEEL.

There is an increased inquiry for sheets, the prices for which are very firm. An advance was expected this week, but it was not announced. Steel mills are sold out for first quarter business and sales as a rule are stronger in anticipation of the prospective jump.

One of the largest heating companies in this country informed a local jobber this week that his company has more business in prospect and in hand for the remainder of this Fall and Winter than at any time in the last five years. A general contractor informed the same person that it was fairly swamped with business that will be ready to come out early in the Spring.

GOOD DEMAND FOR STEEL.

A good demand for concrete reinforcement bars has developed within the last fortnight and was reported to be in excess of that for other kinds of structural steel. General shapes have not been in a satisfactory condition for some time, which has aided the mills in catching up with deliveries to some extent. Jobbers are ordering far in advance by anticipating their wants from four to five months ahead. This necessitates carrying heavy tonnage on the books, and should a large amount of this come in unexpectedly it would place them in a difficult position. Stocks carried by jobbers are of good size and normal assortment, and from present indications of trade there probbaly will be no further advance before January 1.

TENDING TOWARD NORMAL PRICES.

Contrary to general opinion, structural mills never have regained the prices prevailing prior to the panic, when its bars were quoted at $1.60 Pittsburgh. To-day they are bringing $1.50, while at one time this year they were as low as $1.10. The next advance is expected to put the prices at the old figure.

Hardware Interests Optimistic.

Hardware interests report an improvement in business and contracts in hand in many instances run well into the Summer. The outlook for better prices after Jan. 1 is good as is the case with nearly all departments of building. The American Steel and Wire Co. reports a tremendous rush in nails of all sizes excepting shingle; while the concrete reinforcement department reported that business is showing a slight improvement over that of October, among the recent orders being 75,000 sq. ft. for sewer construction work in Bordentown, N. J., and 200,000 sq. ft., for the new postoffice and custom house, Chicago, Ill.

Lumber Firm—Demand Steady.

The week was a satisfactory one with the retail and wholesale lumber men. Retailers reported a good inquiry and many sales were quite large for this season of the year, due to the activity in concrete construction in this city. The wholesalers found Spruce and Long-Leaf Yellow Pine still strong with Oak and Maple close second. Prices are firm. There is an undertone in the trade calling for advancing prices in Spruce which is likely to affect Long-Leaf Yellow Pine and Hemlock, although the latter is not in as great demand. The car shortage is still an annoying factor that the wholesalers are contending with but it is not as serious as several weeks ago.

LUMBER.

These figures cover only wholesale prices to the trade on well manufactured graded stock, classified by the inspection rules now in operation. Because of terms of sale, etc., it is impracticable to quote retail prices.

Stone Cutters Fairly Busy.

Judging by the business coming into the wholesalers within the last fortnight, the stone-cutters are fairly busy. Most of the new business is in limestone and in numerous small quantities, yet in the aggregate they represent good prospects for winter and early spring. The marble men say that there is still no improvement in the number of sizeable contracts for outside work, although they are kept encouraged by the constant call on the part of cutters for rough material. The situation, according to one wholesaler, seems to be shaping itself for better prices next year.

Hydrated Lime as a Waterproofer.

A comparatively new field seems to be opening up for hydrated lime as a waterproofing material. The Rockland-Rockport Lime Co., Fuller Building, this city, is pushing this material, which it calls "Pine Cone Hydrated Lime." It was used in waterproofing the 2,000,000-gallon concrete reservoir at Waltham, Mass. The diameter of this huge tank is 100 ft.; its height is 43 ft. and walls are 18 ins. thick at the bottom and 12 ins. at the top. The engineer was Bertram Brewer, and the contractors Simpson Brothers.

It is said that this material is equally efficient in waterproofing dams, subways, cellar floors, foundations and exposed walls, building blocks, and that its application is cheap and easy. It makes impervious the exterior, as well as the interior, of the concrete and prevents craizing, cracking or crumbling by making seepage impossible. It is said to have the added virtue of requiring no extra labor, as the lime is included when the concrete is mixed. For the benefit of those who desire to try this material for themselves this formula is given:

For 1-2-4 cement, sand, stone, add 8% (32 lbs.) Pine Cone Hydrated Lime.

For 1-2½-4½ cement, sand, stone, add 12% (48 lbs.) Pine Cone Hydrated Lime.

For 1-3-5 cement, sand, stone, add 16% (64 lbs.) Pine Cone Hydrated Lime.

Green Brick.

The Warren B. Ferris Company, Columbus, O., erected a new factory at Mapleton, and the new brick from that plant are now on exhibition at the salesrooms of the company. The brick are a fine green in color and it is believed that there will be a large sale for them. They have stood all tests and the company's officers expect to make the brick from the new plant famous in building circles.

Shipments of Mexican Onyx.

Shipments of Mexican onyx from the Lower California district during 1909 will exceed in value those of any previous year. For the nine months ending September 30, onyx to the declared value of $85,000 was exported to the United States, against only $66,647 for the full year 1908.

New Metal Lath.

The Bostwick Steel Lath Company, Niles, O., has put on the market a metal lath of a truss-loop pattern. The company claims that it is adapted to concrete or stucco exteriors, owing to the fact that it is self-furring.

THE WEEK.

NOT alone was there a very active brokerage market this week, but the transactions were well distributed and involved all kinds of property from almost the Battery to the upper end of the Bronx.

Vacant lots and old buildings represent about twenty-five per cent. of the business, there being nine plots sold representing sixty-four lots, the most important of these being the purchase by R. E. Dowling of Evans block at Broadway, West End avenue, 89th to 90th street. While Mr. Dowling will probably not improve this block himself, it undoubtedly means either one large or several moderate sized building operations in the near future. Equally as interesting is the announcement that the buyer of the plot at the northwest corner of Broadway and 145th street will effect an apartment hotel; the project will be watched with interest, as there are many who think Washington Heights is still too far away from 42d street to make a hotel profitable.

Fifth avenue furnished another interesting deal in the sale of the Lotus Club property at 556 & 558 just south of 46th street. It was sold in 1906 for $750,000 to a real estate operator, the transaction, however, winding up in a law suit. The sale of the large plot owned by the Hoffman estate at 118 and 120 West 32d street, extending through to 31st street, is the first recent sale of any size on this street between 6th and 7th avenues. The plot contains 9875 square feet, and the price reported, $450,000, would be at the rate of $45.68 a square foot, a fairly good price under present conditions, although some people are predicting $100 and that in the near future.

THE AUCTION MARKET

The chief interest in the Auction Market this week centered in the sale on Wednesday, of the holdings offered by the executor of the estate of Joseph W. Meeks, Bryan L. Kennelly being the auctioneer. The first parcel offered was the 14-16 Vesey street. The bidding was started by Max Marx at $250,000 and after twenty one bids was knocked down to William J. Van Pelt, of Geo. R. Read & Co., representing William Waldorf Astor, for $307,500. At a sale held last year this property was bid in at $315,000. The other parcel offered was 28-30 Vesey street, northeast corner of Church street; it is 52.5x75 and was bought by Samuel H. Stone and Heilner & Wolf, for $206,000. This parcel was offered last year and was bid in at $297,500 in 1901, 26, 28 and 30, a plot 76.7x75, were offered and bid in at $238,500. The opposite northwest corner of Vesey and Church sts, 50x100, was recently bought by Charles M. Russell for $296,000. In 1905 the lot 25x100 at 22 Vesey street sold for $95,000 and No. 24 a similar parcel adjoining, sold in 1906 for $126,000. Mr. Astor seems to have paid about all that the plot was worth. The legal sales were either adjourned or bought by the parties in interest.

RECORD BROKEN FOR RECORD AND GUIDE QUARTERLY.

The Quarterly number of the Record and Guide for July, August and September is now ready for delivery. This copy was off the press within three weeks from the date of the last record which it contains. This is a record for shortness of time. It is the ambition of the publishers of this book and the other services designed for the benefit of real estate men to give the very best possible service commensurate with a fair profit. The greater the number of subscribers to each service the greater the possibilities are for the maximum efficiency. It can be asserted safely that never before have the records placed in the office of the real estate men in New York been of such high grade, so accurate and comprehensive as they are to-day. All that is needed is the entire co-operation of real estate men in New York to give a service which in accuracy and efficiency will mean the saving of thousands of dollars in every office. Every real estate man who is not a subscriber to the services or publications of the Record and Guide is depriving himself of the advantage of a co-operative work which is as valuable in his business as the telephone has proven to be. Its absence in an office means a terrible handicap being given to competitors who have it.

This Quarterly number contains all conveyances, mortgages, projected buildings, alterations and leases filed in the Borough of Manhattan for the months of July, August and September, arranged in the most scientific manner. It is a recognized fact that when records are easy to examine, they are used frequently. Where it is difficult to reach them they are used seldom. A real estate office that has not the Quarterly would not use their records one-tenth as often as a subscriber to the Quarterly, and thus would lose the advantage of being thoroughly posted on the details of their business.

TAXPAYERS' ALLIANCE.

The Taxpayers' Alliance of the Bronx, held a regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, November 10, at the Bronx Masonic Temple, 1781 Washington avenue. President Hottenroth was in the chair. Secretary Robitzek read the reply of the N. Y. C. & H. R. R. to the complaint of the Alliance regarding the reduction of fares, on their lines in the Bronx. The answer contains over seven thousand words. The railroads principal defense is that the Interstate Commerce Commission has sole jurisdiction in the matter because their road runs beyond the state lines and also carries mail.

The hearing before the Public Service Commission will be held at 2.30 P. M. on Wednesday, November 17, 09, in the Commission's offices in the Tribune Building.

The committee on Rapid Transit has obtained the report of the Interboro Company, to the Public Service Commission in regard to the proposed subway up Madison avenue and the Sixth avenue L extension up Jerome avenue.

With Seventh avenue running to the Battery, instead of ending at a brick wall, the value of every lot in the district would be increased, and a substantial building movement started in Greenwich Village. The proposition is on the Calendar of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for November 19, and at the present time there seems to be every

AN UNUSUAL DRUG STORE LEASE.

The terms of a lease filed this week between the American Real Estate Co. and William B. Riker & Sons, the druggists, for 21 years from Jan. 1, 1910, are of interest because of the unusual conditions surrounding them.

The American Real Estate Co. recently erected a building at the northwest corner of 149th street and Melrose avenue, the Bronx. Across the street the Corporation of B. Hegeman & Co., of 200 Broadway, has a drug store. The crossing is an important one and upon the supposition that the trade there would be sufficient to support two establishments of that kind, Messrs. Riker signed for 7 per cent. of gross receipts per year derived from sales on premises until such shall equal or exceed $15,000 per annum and thereafter at a rate of $15,000 per annum.

HE KNOWS THE BRONX.

Cyrus C. Miller, the Borough President-elect of the Bronx, has been making loans and buying and selling properties in the Bronx for twenty years. Says Mr. Miller:

"When a man lends the money of his clients and his own money, that man will do his best to understand the business conditions of that section where his business lies, and my business has been largely in the Bronx. I feel that I know the Bronx from the money point of view, and I didn't get my information second hand, either. I know pretty well what is doing out there, because I have had to look out for taxes and assessments and things like that from the standpoint of an investment.

"The Bronx has a wonderful future—from standpoint of buildings and investments. It is a place of homes and little businesses and things of that sort.

"A plain business administration—without any frills—will suit us very well out there. It is all we require and that is what I hope to give them—with a balance sheet at the end of the next four years so that I can show what has been accomplished."

R. E. OWNERS' PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION.

The annual election of the Real Estate Owner's Protective Association, of the 12th and 22d Wards, was held at Colonial Hall, 101st street and Columbus avenue, on Monday, November 2, 1909. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year; Joseph S. Schwab, President, 206 Broadway; Philip G. Dux, 1st Vice-President, 772 Ninth avenue; George Grolz, 2d Vice-President, 173 West 102d street; Leo. Strauss, Secretary, 137 West 104th street; Henry Ruschmeyer, Treasurer, 257 Broadway; Ira J. Ettinger, Counsel, 257 Broadway; William C. Pratt, Recorder, 51 West 106th street.

After the regular business of the evening, Asst. Corporation Counsel, John P. O'Brien, made an address. His subject was the Corporation Counsel's office and its relation to property owners; and on the subject of mandatory legislation controlling the same. The next regular meeting will be held on Monday, December 6.

WEST SIDE TAXPAYERS.

The regular monthly meeting and annual installation of officers of the West Side Taxpayers Association will be held at 267 West 34th street, on Friday, November 19, 1909. The installation will be followed by a banquet and speeches.

United Real Estate Owners' Association's Election.

At the annual meeting held on Nov. 9 at the Grand Union Hotel the following officers and directors were elected:

Becker; Financial Secretary, Henry Ruschmeyer; Corresponding Secretary, Chas. H. Schnelle; Board of Counsel, Adolph Bloch, Ira J. Ettinger, John J. Pheelan; Finance Committee, Charles Lutz, J. Fred Boss, Chas. A. Schrag, William Capleas, Heiman M. Kaplan, Henry J. Flicker.

The directors elected to represent the following organizations were: For the 12th and 19th Wards, John Volz, Chas. H. Schnelle, P. M. Clear, Adolph Bloch, Charles Sayer, J. Fred. Boss; the 10th, 11th and 17th Wards, Thomas Krekeler, John Becker, Dr. H. G. Wenzel, Charles Lutz; the West Side Taxpayers, Dr. Philip G. Becker, Dr. George Wenner, Frank DeMuth, Louis Schrag; the 12th and 22d Ward, Henry Ruschmeyer, Joseph S. Schwab, Ira J. Ettinger; the Harlem Property Owners' Association, Dr. Abraham Korn, John Rosenzweig, Joseph L. O'Brien; and for the 18th and 21st Ward, Chas. J. F. Bohlen.

LARGER CONDEMNATION.—Newark is considering a proposition that the city shall acquire some 4,000 acres of unimproved land on its outskirts in order to benefit by the rise in value anticipated from extensive dock improvements which the city proposes to undertake upon the tract. The plan was suggested by the Mayor, and has been approved by the Board of Public Works. Essentially, it seems to be similar to the method of condemnation proceedings which was once proposed here in New York, and fully discussed by eminent authorities in the columns of the Record and Guide, in connection with the selection of a new site for the county court house. In order that the county might derive a portion of the profit from the rise in the value of the land that would follow from the building of a new court house in another part of the city, it was recommended (by the Municipal Art Society, for one) that an area of far larger size than the county would need for the building alone be condemned, at the same moment, and the resulting increment from land values be secured to the city by a subsequent sale of the excess properties to the highest bidder. It was a theory which counted on the utmost economy in condemnation proceedings, in order that the expected profit to the municipality might not be wasted in excessive fees and through exaggerated appraisements. Many thought it assumed for its success theoretical conditions impossible in practice in New York City, if not in most other places, and they feared the making of a trial in a case where so many millions of dollars would be at stake. High authorities could be cited in favor of the speculative plan which Newark is considering; but the main question is: Can the wolves be kept off?

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1909.

9th.—T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

Nov. 5, 6, 8, 9, 10 and 11.

THERE is every reason why the Board of Estimate should act at an early date and in a favorable sense upon the proposal, now before it, to extend Seventh avenue to Varick street and to widen Varick street to a junction with Broadway. Of all the street improvements proposed for Manhattan this project offers the most seductive advantage of small expense combined with great public benefit. The expense would be small, because that part of Greenwich Village through which the line of the proposed improvement runs remains almost entirely undeveloped. Real estate values are low and there are no modern buildings to be bought and torn down. The purpose of the project is not to relieve any existing congestion of traffic, but to develop business by opening up a now neglected district. Greenwich Village has been neglected in the march of improvement, partly because its street system cuts it off from the important centers of business in Manhattan; and the object of the proposed improvement is that of providing a new thoroughfare through the heart of the district, directly connected with Broadway and Canal street on the south and Broadway and Forty-second street on the north. Not only, consequently, would the expense be comparatively small, but the city would be reimbursed for its share thereof, by a rapid increase of taxable values in the neighborhood. If a certain part of any city remains dead in spite of the fact that it enjoys the same advantages of accessibility as other parts of the city, the local government is under no obligation to spend money on its resuscitation, but Greenwich Village has been killed by the defects of the street plan, and the improvement thereof is not merely a matter of expediency, but of Justice. The property owners in the vicinity are absolutely united in favor of the plan, and now that the city has money to spare for the purpose, there is no reason to delay its authorization and execution.

NOT only are there no valid reasons for delaying the authorization of the Seventh avenue extension, but there are certain urgent reasons why its execution should be hastened. The cutting of a continuation of Seventh avenue through to Varick street and the widening of Varick street would be of great assistance to the city in the laying out of a lower West Side rapid transit route. One of the difficulties connected with a Seventh avenue subway has always consisted in the lack of a really satisfactory extension of Seventh avenue south of Eleventh street, and this difficulty would be removed by the proposed improvement. The new subway would then have the benefit of an inevitable and straight route as far south as Canal street or thereabouts, and this would accelerate the running time of the trains, cheapen construction, and enable it to serve its purpose in every way more effluently. Express trains could be run all the way from the Pennsylvania station to Cortlandt street without a single stop, and by so doing bring a most important centre of business down town within about five minutes of the most important centre of business in the middle district, and the advantage which the extension would be to a West Side Subway affords an indication of the advantage which the whole street system of Manhattan would derive from a new longitudinal thoroughfare. Such a thoroughfare would relieve the pressure of traffic on Broadway and other parallel avenues; and it would serve this function with peculiar efficiency, because Seventh avenue would then start from a central point and virtually end at a central point. It would leave Broadway in the vicinity of Canal street and rejoin it at Forty-second street, and from Twenty-third street north, it would run within striking distance of the busiest part of the middle district. The Hudson street-Eighth-avenue thoroughfare serves no similar purpose, because it starts at an inconvenient place, and does not reach a really central point until it runs into Columbus Circle. Thus, a Seventh avenue thoroughfare would constitute a peculiarly valuable addition to the general street system of Manhattan. There are other considerations also which should have weight with the Board of Estimate. Seventh avenue from Fourteenth street to Thirty-fourth street is destined to be used hereafter for comparatively important business purposes. At the present time a considerable number of twelve-story loft buildings are being constructed between Sixth avenue and Seventh avenues, and this number will be doubled during the coming year. Within five years a similar process of business improvement will be taking place between Seventh and Eighth avenues. Seventh avenue itself is destined to become an active centre either of wholesale or of retail trade. All this will mean a considerable growth of local traffic and will increase the desirability of providing some better means of reaching and leaving the district from the south. In fact, the business development of the whole part of the middle West Side is fore-shadowed as one of the certainties of the next ten years. If Seventh avenue is extended now this necessary process of business development will be encouraged at a very small expense to the city. If on the other hand it is delayed, the district will be retarded without being prevented, and when the extension is finally made as ultimately it must be made, the expense to the city will be considerably increased.

ALTHOUGH the total vote has not been finally and satisfactorily counted, it is certain that the proposal to amend the constitution for the purpose of allowing the city, if necessary, to build self supporting subways, has been accepted by the electorate, and the city is to be congratulated on this result. Its immediate effect will be to increase the city's borrowing capacity by the equivalent of the cost of the existing subway and certain docks. But that is its least desirable effect, because, the subway question apart, the city is already able to borrow as much money as it really needs for other purposes. But its ultimate effect will be to enable the City to extend its subway system as fast as the expansion of business and population warrants. It is to be hoped, however, that city stock will not be issued for subway construction, provided private capital can be obtained on fair terms. No doubt the legislature will impose conditions on the issue of new subway municipal securities that will effectively guarantee their employment on remunerative enterprises, but the plain fact is that the security market has for the last ten years been deluged with a much larger supply of city stock than it could absorb with economy. It is desirable, consequently, that the issue of new stock should be kept at the lowest possible point until the city's credit has in some measure recovered. Undoubtedly it would be more economical to pay even more than four per cent. for borrowed money, rather than lease subway privileges on unfair terms, because in that event the loss on the subway contract would balance any gain that might accrue to the city from its ability to borrow at a lower rate of interest. But there is no reason in the world why the city's credit should be used, provided new subways, over which the city obtains effective control, can be built with the credit of a private company. And according to indications, at least two private companies are willing to build new subways with their own money. A formal offer is in existence, which obligates certain capitalists to construct the new Broadway-Lexington avenue route under the fair conditions laid down in the new Rapid Transit Act; and there are good reasons for believing that the New Haven R. R. Co. stands behind this offer. Only last week President Mellen of that company stated to a Massachusetts commission that the suburban traffic of his railroad made it necessary to secure an entrance by subway into the heart of Manhattan. In the same way the Interborough Company stands ready to build with its money extensions along Madison avenue north of Forty-second street and along Seventh avenue south of Forty-second street, and the progressive improvement in the credit of that corporation will doubtless make it still more willing to continue the same policy hereafter. It is to be hoped consequently that the additional power, enjoyed by the city to borrow money for subway purposes, will be held in reserve rather than actually used, and indications of the policy to be adopted in this respect by the new administration will be awaited with interest.

BROADWAY, west of Central Park has shown evidence of renewed activity. Several important sales have taken place, all of which will probably mean new buildings during the coming Spring; and several interesting leases have been secured by retail houses on that part of the thoroughfare. The price of real estate on this part of Broadway has increased considerably since the subway was opened for traffic; but, there is room for a still greater increase. A great many lots in the Eighties and the Nineties remain vacant, or else are improved only with taxpayers or antiquated buildings. The only available type of new building for these lots consist of twelve-story apartment houses with shops on the ground floor, and with the increase of such structures and a greater density of the local population the business value of Broadway property will become greater. Higher prices for real estate along this part of Broadway depend upon the ability of landlords to secure more money for the shops on the ground floor, and this in turn depends in part on the increase in the motor-car business and in the growth of the well-to-do local population. What other sources an expansion of values would come from is not apparent. The rentals of apartments in fire-proof buildings can hardly be expected to increase; and general business will not push up Broadway very far north of Columbus Circle. Central Park has been a great boon to the West Side and has helped to make it the important residential district it is, but its situation and bulk condemn the territory both to the east and west thereof to comparatively local and insignificant business development. Whatever local retail business there is on the West Side will be concentrated on Broadway, and together with the motor-car trade it will be sufficient to make Broadway lots more valuable than they are. But there will be a limit to the possible increase. In the meantime Broadway property owners have the advantage, shared by property owners on very few avenues in New York, of being able to rent their ground floors for stores, without destroying the availability of their upper floors for expensive suites of apartments.

THIS MAY YET BE A RECORD YEAR in Manhattan and the Bronx for building, notwithstanding that the plans filed each week for several months past have seemed comparatively few. The estimated value of the projects for new buildings which have been reported so far this year is still ahead of the record made for the corresponding time in both the year 1906 and the year 1905, as well as last year, in these two boroughs; but in Brooklyn this year's record, so far as it has been made, is below the records of the corresponding portions of the years 1905 and 1906. Manhattan and the Bronx together are still about five million dollars ahead of the best previous record for an equivalent period (which was the record made in the year 1905), but Brooklyn is about eighteen million behind the record made by the borough in 1905, and seven million behind the record of 1906. It will be recalled that the filings in Brooklyn during the year 1905 were phenomenal. The three principal boroughs, considered together, have fallen behind their best record, but Manhattan and the Bronx, and also Queens, are individually ahead of their best previous records, and the expectation is that they will maintain their lead to the end of the year. As to the state of employment, it continues good in all trades except bricklaying. The falling-off in brick-building cannot altogether be accounted for without taking into consideration the rise of concrete construction. It is now believed that the large amount of cement work being done has had some effect in reducing the amount of brickwork offering, but the falling-off in 5-sty tenement house work is also responsible. Several trades are reported from official sources to have more work at the present moment than they can well attend to, and among these trades are the structural steel and iron erectors and the cement masons. It has been a good year for mechanics, on the whole, but at the same time the prices of building materials have ruled comparatively low. One of the signs of the times is the number of 12-sty apartment houses that are being erected and planned. Never before were there so many. More high-class loft buildings also are building or projected than ever before. The quality of the construction averages very high. Riverside Drive and Morningside Heights for large apartment houses, and the midtown business sections for loft buildings, are centres of interest at the present time. There will be few vacant sites on the Drive when the present movement ends. There are also signs of a new activity on Broadway, in the Eighties and Nineties. Some of the "high board fronts" will be missing before long.

THE PENNSYLVANIA TUNNELS.—Make a note of this.—The first train carrying passengers made a successful trip through the new tunnels of the Pennsylvania Railroad from Harrison, N. J., to the Sunnyside railroad yards in Long Island City on Thursday. Aboard the train was James McCrea, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, together with other officials of the road and engineers interested in the great tunnel work.

THE FUTURE OF THE FIVE-STORY HOUSE.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

It is surely your intention in publishing articles to give your readers value received, and you surely intend that any article you publish will be truthful as well as valuable information. I would refer you to a report in Saturday's issue entitled: "What is the future of the 5-sty. house?" In the second paragraph, the speaker is reported as saying that "people will walk five stories high and will pay more for the privilege of getting up there," I will give you a few facts. In one 5-sty, apartment building in West 91st st., the owners get $65 for the second and third floors, $60 for the fourth and $55 for the fifth. In another building on this street they get $55 for second, $50 for the third, $47.50 for the fourth and $45 for the fifth. In still another building on this street and in three on 94th st., they get $47.50 for the first floor, $50 each for the second and third, $47.50 for the fourth and $45 for the fifth. You will find in most of the 5-sty. apartment buildings that the fifth floor rents for less than any other floor with a possible exception in some cases of the first floor. I think these apartments are built on 20 ft. lots. There are a great many smaller apartments that rent from $25 to $35 each where three are built on 50 ft. lots. Of course, the value of real estate being so enormously high makes the net income less than it was a few years ago. But in this same article there is another question that is very ridiculous. It is as follows: "I have the actual statistics of the cost of operating an elevator in a 6-sty. building, 50 ft. wide and having 36 familes in it. I find that it only amounts to about $10 or $15 a month." An expert that claims to be educating the people and giving them actual facts on which to base their conclusions, who will state without further explanation, that it costs only "about $10 or $15 a month" to operate an elevator in a 6-sty. building, and in the same clause says that he has "the actual statistics" needs to be investigated at least. He must know that $10 or $15 a month will scarcely buy the raw material to board a man, or even a boy, for a month, in order to operate an elevator, to say nothing about any other costs. D. M. QUAY.

1125 Broadway.

THIS EXPLAINS IT.

To the Editor of the Real Estate Record and Guide:

The quotation in your issue of the 13th of part of my remarks at the recent convention of Building Managers at Detroit, does not quite fully report my statements, and in view of the interest attaching to this subject, I beg leave to make the following addition:

My discussion related to the type of apartment coming between the cold-water tenement and the 6-sty. elevator house, in the latter of which the use of the elevator has established a demand for the benefits of outlook, light and air of upper floors, which is even extending to the non-elevator house, where such advantages are obtainable on the upper floors.

This being the case, the question arose whether the commonly accepted view as to the impracticability of the installation of elevators in 5-sty. buildings, may not be now modified.

If the elevator would so improve the general rental returns as to more than cover the cost of its operation, it might not be difficult to provide for its installation in a large number of such houses, especially as the work which has to be done by elevators in apartments is now found to involve less expense than was at one time thought to be probable.

The cost of electric current, which I gave, is that of the public supply at regular rates, and to this would have to be added the up-keep of the appliance and interest and depreciation on same, together with wages of operator who would also act, as is now usual, as the hall attendant.

527 5th av. REGINALD PELHAM BOLTON.

THE ASTOR HOUSE plot, at Broadway and Vesey st., which was enlarged last week by the purchase by the Astors of No. 14 Vesey st., will no doubt sometime be taken for a comprehensive rebuilding operation, but it is understood that no immediate change is contemplated, as the lease of the hotel was but recently renewed for five years. The "improvement" of this splendid site, when it comes, is expected to be in the form of a larger hotel building. A question in real estate science nowadays relates to the economic length of life of the average hotel. Some say it is as short as ten years. In other words, at the expiration of that period the site is regarded as susceptible to an improvement that will return a larger rate of income, even if the original building represented at the time of its erection the maximum of economic possibility. The site on which the Astor House stands is probably not yielding the maximum net revenue which it could be made to produce, but it is nevertheless a good investment as it stands. And, by the way, has it occurred to any investing or building corporation that since the general migration of hotels from the lower to the middle sections of the island an opportunity has developed for the erection of other really good hotels for business men in the same part of town as that in which the Astor House is situated? Several eating-houses of fine architectural distinction and large proportions have recently been erected there, but no good lodging-place in many years.

CONSTRUCTION.

FLAT-HOUSE OPERATION ON A NEW PLAN.

Apartment Houses Resembling Semi-Detached Residences to be Erected in Norwood, Long Island City, by the Rickert-Finlay Co.

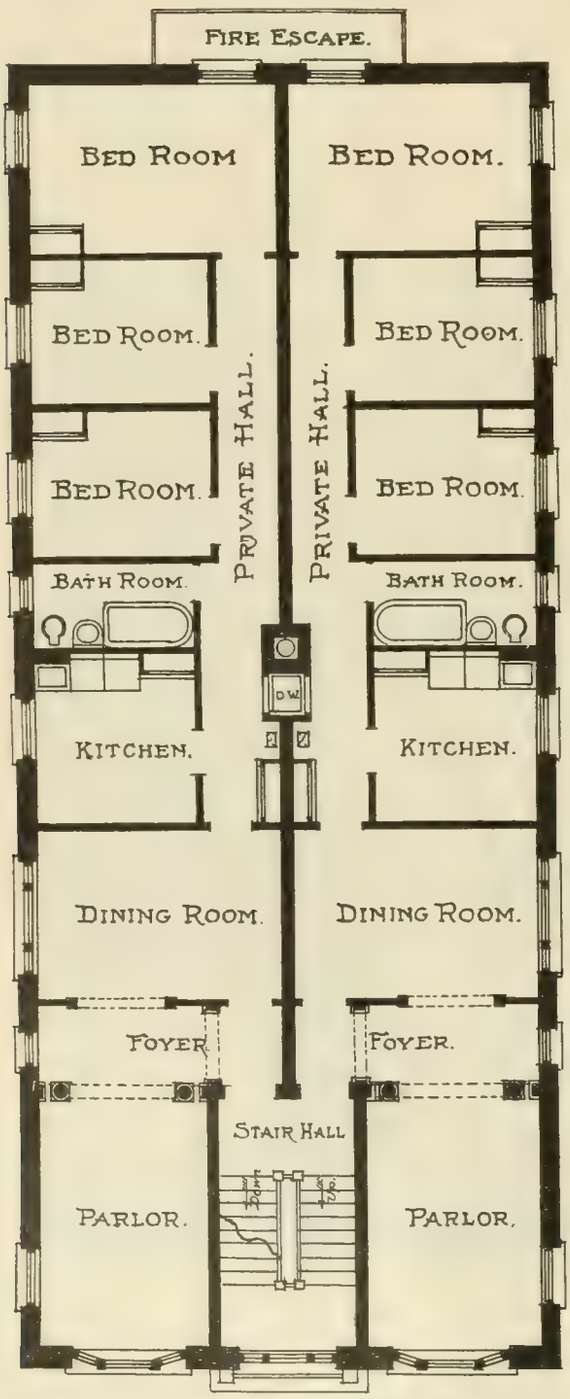
A GREAT DEAL of attention has been paid, in the last few years, to improving housing conditions of flat-dwellers. Model tenements have been erected with this especial object in view, and without the first consideration being the revenue they would bring. It would seem, however, as if one of the most practical solutions of the question was in a new type of flats, designed on a strictly business basis, but which seem to meet the situation better than most of the model tenements erected on a semi-philanthropic basis.

The Rickert-Finlay Realty Co. has filed plans by J. Warner Allen, architect, for two 4-sty Indiana limestone and brick flats, to be erected in "Norwood," Long Island City, which are entirely different from the usual kind, in that they have a court on each side of the building and across the rear, and by this means giving direct light and air on all sides. There are two apartments of six rooms and a bath on each floor, so that each apartment has all the advantages, with respect to air and light, of a semi-detached residence. In place of the usual dark hall in the interior of the building, there is a square hall in the front which has the same dimensions all the way to the roof, thus giving the hall direct light and ventilation on each floor. The flats will have all modern improvements, and in addition a playground on the roof and a roof-garden.

The ordinary type of flat in Manhattan usually covers 70 per cent. of the lot area, and in some cases the law permits an even greater percentage to be built upon. On account of the high land values in Manhattan, it is necessary, in order to get a fair revenue, to use every foot the law allows; but in Long Island City, on account of the lower land values, the same necessity does not exist, and the flats to be erected in "Norwood" will cover only 50 per cent. of the lot area, or 20 per cent. less than in Manhattan.

If we take $25,000 as the average value of a lot in Manhattan on which flats are erected, and 40 feet front were given to each building of this new type, this extra 20 per cent. in courts would represent, in Manhattan, a land value of $8,000, whereas, in Long Island City, based on an average valuation of $2,500 per lot, it would represent a land value of only $1,000. It is thus quite evident that a building having a court all around is not practically feasible on land with Manhattan values. It would seem, however, that they would be profitable on land up to $5,000 per lot, and possibly as high as $10,000, for the increased rental on account of light and air should pay a good revenue on the land value of the court.

NEW TYPE APARTMENT HOUSES TO BE ERECTED ON SIXTH AVENUE, IN NORWOOD, LONG ISLAND CITY.
Rickert-Finlay Company, Owner. J. Warner Allen, Architect.



Permits have been taken out by the Rickert-Finlay Realty Co. for two buildings which will be begun at once, and it is intended to have at least ten buildings, with eighty apartments, completed by the time the Pennsylvania tunnels are open in the Spring. Norwood, which has a street frontage of about two miles in the heart of Long Island City, opposite East 81st st, is only five minutes from the Queensboro Bridge, and about the same distance from the Pennsylvania terminals. The new buildings are to be erected with a special view of accommodating the better class among the large population which will follow the transfer of the entire operating forces of the Pennsylvania system from Newark and Jersey City to Long Island City.

MINOR MISTAKES OF INSTALLATION DURING CONSTRUCTION.

By J. E. RANDELL.*

A few things improperly installed make no end of trouble and expense during the subsequent operation of an office building. One of the things which, in my humble judgment, should be made obligatory on architects is the use of galvanized pipes for all plumbing. The inside of a waste pipe soon becomes coated with a slimy protection which prevents corrosion, but dampness collects on the outside, especially during the summer months and causes heavy rust, and it is only a matter of time until a leak will be discovered and then the tearing up and the consequent expense commences. Vent pipes rust on the inside and become clogged with scales.

The urinals are usually arranged in the same location on each floor, and are often cross connected with the janitor's slop sinks, so that the water supply to either cannot be shut off without shutting off both. There is no object in having the urinals flush every six or seven minutes during the night, and for a man to climb up and shut off the supply to each urinal tank in the building at night and to turn them on again each morning would prove entirely too expensive.

The urinals should have independent runs of their own with a shut-off valve in the attic as well as at each tank, so that a man can turn one valve and stop the water waste in less time than it takes to tell it. The separate run will pay for itself in six months in the saving of water. See that the architect locates the water and waste outlets for washbowls on the column along the corridor walls, and not at right angles to the columns, where they obstruct the space and from which position you will be obliged to move them in dividing space for tenants.

A HEAVY BURDEN.

A central toilet room in a large building becomes a heavy burden on the elevators on account of the necessary inter-flooring traffic occasioned thereby. The installation of a small toilet space on alternate floors proves of great benefit to the service because the majority of persons will walk up or down one story rather than take an elevator. The cost of installation is heavier than that occasioned by a central toilet, but the subseqeuent results, when the building becomes filled, will be most gratifying. I took account of the number of people traveling in my elevators a short time ago, and we are carrying 24,230 people a day. That included all that inter-floor traffic, because we have a central toilet room on the eleventh floor. People go to and from there. The population of the building is not over 3,000. I know it is easy to guess at the population. I have had people guess 15,000. But by the actual census in the building the population is about 3,000.

SPACE UTILIZATION.

For years I have been a pronounced opponent of office space which cannot be naturally lighted. There are two cardinal points which can either make or break a building. The first is light, the second is location. I heard a Chicago architect argue that the more rentable floor area there is in a building, the greater the revenue will be, and this sounds logical, but in the years I have spent in connection with office buildings I have found this statement to be absolutely disproved. The fact is that THE MORE NATURALLY LIGHTED RENTABLE FLOOR SPACE THERE IS IN A BUILDING THE GREATER THE REVENUE WILL BE, but who is foolish enough to lease dark space which it is necessary to light artificially if naturally lighted space is available?

It is against reason because a tenant is then assuming the expense of a lighting bill in addition to his rental. It has been argued that the light is furnished in some buildings without charge to the tenant so that he does not feel this extra expense. In that case the building feels the extra expense in its coal bill. To illustrate this point, let us consider a building on a corner facing two streets and constructed so that it has two wings with a 60-ft. court between. The office facing the streets will naturally have good light provided they are not over 25 ft. in depth; the court offices, however, depend entirely on the width of the court for their light. If the offices facing this court are made deep, say thirty-two feet, how will the ten feet farthest from the windows be lighted, on the floors below the center line of the building?

In order to get two private offices and a reception room, a tenant must take least twenty-feet frontage, or 640 sq. ft., and in order to make up for the deep reception space, which it is necessary to light and furnish, the rental must be reduced rather than allow the space to lie idle. How much better would it have been to have made THE LIGHT COURT WIDER AND THE COURT OFFICES NOT SO DEEP, say twenty-two feet. The same price would be obtained for the two private offices and the reception room without question and the rate per sq. ft. increased accordingly. Why, then, is it necessary to build the extra ten feet of depth across the entire length of each wing? The original investment would have been perhaps $100,000 smaller and the returns would have remained the same. You may ask how do I know the same price could be obtained for the shallow office. My only answer is that during the years I have spent at this work in connection with a number of buildings of both kinds, this has been my experience, and for that reason I am convinced.

In these days good service in a good building is expected and furnished, but good, NATURAL LIGHT IS THE MOLASSES WHICH CATCHES THE TENANT. Natural light means satisfaction for, and better work from, his employees and a minimum expense for artificial illumination. It keeps the tenants praising the light offices and so advertising the fact to others who may subsequently become tenants.

EDISONIAN PHILOSOPHY.—When a man gets $100,000, he figures how he can keep that and get more. It's the hog in us. The people who are fortunate and happy have incomes of $25 to $30 a week, enough to be comfortable and not enough to worry them. Strictly speaking, neither Rockefeller nor any other man has wealth. He can't get more than so much out of his money. He just has a lot of titles to property. —THOMAS A. EDISON.

THE LAST STAGE IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE PANAMA CANAL.

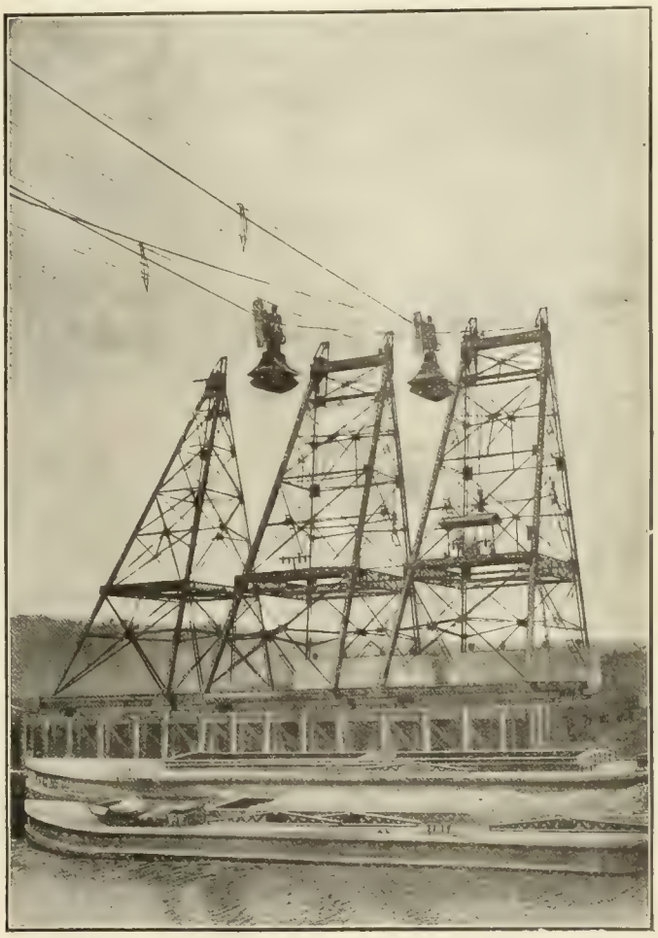
THE building of the Panama Canal is now in its fourth and final stage. The first stage was the sanitation of the Canal Zone; the second, the re-building of the Panama Railroad so as to supply facilities for transporting the soil from the excavations to the dumps; the third, the excavation of the canal, the fourth, and last stage, the building of the Gatun dam and locks, and the locks at Miraflores and San Miguel. On August 1st of this year, the excavation (182,000,000 cu. yds., of which 40,000,000 cu. yds. available had been done by the French) had advanced to a point where only 101,000,000 cu. yds. remained to be done, which, as officially stated by Col. Goethals, can be finished by August 1st, 1911. The remaining excavation is proceeding at the rate of about 3,000,000 cu. yds. per month.

Keeping pace with the speed of excavation are the construction operations in connection with the Gatun dam and locks. The most important part of the mechanical equipment are the thirteen Lidgerwood high speed cableways, which were especially designed and installed for building the Gatun locks. Upon five of these, known as the unloader cableways, will fall the brunt of the work, and upon the ability of these five to handle the amount guaranteed, or more, must depend the question of whether the canal will be finished and in operation on January 1st, 1915, or earlier. These cableways have exceeded their guaranteed capacity by such a large percentage that the engineers in charge of this section of the work are confident that it can be finished at a much earlier date. They are recognized unofficially by Col. Goethals as "that 1913 crowd."

THE LOCKS.

The work of these five cableways is to handle the broken stone and sand which will be required for the walls and floors of the locks. There are six locks, each 1,000 ft. long in the clear and 110 ft. wide. They lie side by side in flights of three, making a total length of more than 3,000 ft. Together they provide a total lift of 85 ft., with some to spare for changes in the initial water level. In these locks there will be used 2,000,000 cu. yds. of broken stone, 1,000,000 cu. yds. of sand and 2,200,000 barrels of cement. The stone and sand arrive in barges on a branch of the old French Canal. The unloader cableway takes it out of the barges with great grab buckets and delivers it 600 ft. or more away in heaps in the storage yard.

From here it is taken by the cars of an automatically operated electric railway to the mixers, and from the mixers the concrete is taken in other electric cars to where the second set of eight cableways can put it in place in the forms for the walls and floor. Four cableways arranged in pairs on two sets of towers handle the broken stone, and a single cableway with independent towers unloads the sand from the barges and deposits it on a storage pile. Each cableway has a span of 800 ft. In the duplex cableways the cables are 18 ft. apart. This corresponds with the distance apart of the transverse bulkheads in the barges. The cableways are all mounted on steel towers 85 ft. high. The towers are mounted on trucks and travel on tracks,



The five high-speed cableways, which are handling, from barges to the storage heaps, the 2,000,000 cu. yds. of broken stone and 1,000,000 cu. yds. of sand required to build the Gatun locks.

so that each cableway performs the function of a traveling crane. The unloader cableways travel the length of the storage yard. Those for building the locks travel more than 3,000 ft.

They are moved electrically, each pair in unison. From the carriage of each of the five unloader cableways there is suspended an improved special 70 cu. ft. iron-ore type of excavating bucket. Each bucket grabs an average load of 54 cu. ft. The load is hoisted 85 ft., conveyed about 600 ft., dumped on the storage pile, and the carriage and bucket returned. This round trip has been made in 1 minute and 8 seconds. The cableways were guaranteed to handle 50 cu. yds. an hour each. They have carried 90 cu. yds. in an hour and the average operation up to date is 60 cu. yds. per hour. This ought to be materially increased with practice. The present record is declared to be double that of any cableway previously employed anywhere.

The high speed and consequent increase in the capacity of the cableways is due to the ease with which the operation of the cableways is controlled; the rope-lead that simultaneously raises and traverses the bucket; the high-speed chock-absorber with which the fall-rope carrier is equipped, and a new type of button-stop.

The hoisting and conveying machinery in the head tower is controlled by an operator in the tall tower stationed on an elevated platform commanding a clear view of the bucket at all times and in all positions. He controls two 150-hp. motors by master controllers of the New York subway type, and the air brakes by two levers operating magnet valves 800 ft. away. The physical effort of operation is so easy that the operator can comfortably maintain the high speed. In all previous cableways this effort was so fatiguing that, although it was possible to attain a speed of 35 round trips per hour with mechanical levers, this could not be sustained for any length of time.

STUDIO BUILDING IN GRAMERCY PARK.—Henry Bradford Simmons has named his new operation in Gramercy Park the "Stuyvesant Studios." There are two buildings, one of which is the old mansion at the southeast corner of Irving Place that was at one period occupied by Stuyvesant Fish, and the other is a new addition thereto, consisting of a four-story building in the rear. The parlor floor in the main house has been retained in its original state, as it was handsomely decorated and could not be improved upon. But with the assistance of George M. McCabe, 96 Fifth Avenue, as architect, Mr. Simmons, as owner, has designed a series of suites that are artistic and comfortable looking and in harmony with the feeling in the neighborhood. The general scheme of the decorations is English; the dominant color tone green. Green is having a remarkable vogue not only in New York but also in Europe. Mr. Simmons says it is hard to get architects to leave the beaten paths. Most often this is the criticism laid by architects upon owners. Mr. Simmons has introduced a tea room in the annex that has appointments similar to the "Van Winkle," in West 40th street, around the corner from Fifth avenue, and it also reminds one of the "Colonia," in West 33d street, both of which he also designed.

CLAIMS FURTHER STRENGTHENED.

Below is a copy of a letter, just received which further demonstrates the possibilities of the Record and Guide as a means of producing business for the wide-awake man:

CITY AND SUBURBAN WINDOW-SHADE CO.
Prompt Attention Given to Real Estate Men and Property Owners.
Suburban Dwellings Fitted.
3630 Broadway.
New York, November 15, 1909.

Record and Guide Co.,
11 East 24th Street, City.

Gentlemen—In the last few issues of the Record and Guide, I have noticed you published letters received from your subscribers who claim to have gotten good results from following the leads you publish each week under the heading of "Where Building Materials are Needed." We thought you might like to know of our success in getting business from the list of conveyances published by you. We have been subscribers to the Record and Guide for a long time, and can trace a number of good jobs we have finished to information obtained from the list of conveyances.

We feel that the amount we have paid for subscription has already been returned us many times over, and we intend to go in for the business this season harder and more systematically than ever. We consider the assistance we get from the Record and Guide of great value to us in obtaining new business and holding the same.

Yours very truly,
CITY AND SUBURBAN WINDOW-SHADE CO.,
Leo Oestreicher, General Manager.

Mr. Leo Oestreicher, general manager, informs us that the business has grown to such proportions by reason of his aggressive methods in connection with the use of the information he gets from the Record and Guide that he expects shortly to increase his selling force in order that he may be properly equipped to follow up the leads he finds in the Record and Guide each week.

LITTLE ESTATES.—Much thought is being given now by city business men to estates in the country. Now arises Bolton Hall to proclaim what can be done with very little land in the way of providing support for a home. Mr. Hall's new book, "The Garden Yard" (published by David McKay), shows both methods and results. If a man can have his own little place, where by a little attention and not too much manual labor he can raise enough vegetables, fruit and other products to provide for his table most of the year, he surely is a more independent man than one who has no other source of income than the wages he earns. This is a time of centralization of industry, but it looks as though the tide might be turning. The extensive distribution of electrical power, the better facilities of travel, and the easier means of communication have some tendency to restore the small industries. Among these small industries the most important, and the one best worth restoring, as well as the easiest to restore, is the intensive use of the land. In "The Garden Yard" Mr. Hall aims to show the small worker of every kind as well as the professional farmer, how the most profit, and the most enjoyment, too, for the matter of that, can be gotten out of the Little Land. As to the new discoveries and new methods it is exhaustive, and, at the same time, bears the ear marks of the practical, experimental teacher.

CHARLES F. McKIM.—Fourteen societies of arts and letters will unite in a memorial meeting in honor of the late Charles F. McKim, to be held in the auditorium of the New Theatre on next Tuesday afternoon at half-past two o'clock. The societies referred to are the Architectural League, the Society of Beaux Arts Architects, the National Society of Mural Painters, the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, the Faculty of Fine Arts of Columbia University, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the National Academy of Design, the American Academy in Rome, the American Academy of Arts and Letters, the National Institute of Arts and Letters, the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, the Municipal Art Society, the McDowell Association and the National Sculpture Society.

WORLD'S BIGGEST SINGLE FOUNDATION.—Few persons in the building profession know that The Foundation Company, 115 Broadway, is doing the greatest work of its kind ever done in the world, in laying the foundations of the new Municipal Building at the Manhattan approach of the Brooklyn Bridge. According to an official of this company, it is the biggest contract for any single building ever let. The caisson work alone will cost $1,500,000 and over 70,000 barrels of Lehigh Portland cement will be required in sinking the great pneumatic shafts to a depth 100 ft. below the level of the street. The borings so far made indicate about an average of 30 ft. of top soil, then quicksand, gravel and hardpan. So far the presence of shist has not been discovered.

October was the third highest month in the value of new building begun in East Orange this year, reaching the sum of $323,331. There were fifty-eight permits issued in all. May was the banner month of the year and of the history of the city, as well, aggregating $408,186, while March was second with $363,699. Last month's figures bring the total value of building in the city for ten months to $2,524,612.

RISE OF THE TUNGSTEN LAMP.

The wholesale flower and feather firm of Berlinger, Brown & Meyer, of 696 Broadway, have discarded its entire equipment of about thirty enclosed arc lamps and replaced it by one hundred and twenty sixty-watt tungsten lamps, that way reducing their current consumption to less than half without any sacrifice as to the efficiency, effectiveness and quality of the installation.

The Edison Monthly speaks of the change as worthy of record, because it marks a further advance in the supremacy of the tungsten lamp and tungsten lamp features, and we note the following description:

Especially interesting and remarkable is the illumination of the main store, where always four sixty-watt tungsten lamps are combined into one specially designed fixture of great attraction and efficiency. Seventeen of these fixtures are installed, each taking the place of one of the discarded arc lamps. As to appearance, the fixtures remind one of an arc lamp; in fact, the original stems of the arc lamp were adhered to, only the light bearing being renewed. The latter consists of a combination of specially designed mirror reflectors which distribute the light of the four tungsten lamps in a particularly specified manner, practically the total light-giving power of the lamps being used for downward illumination. In order to avoid the glare from the brilliant filament and from the highly illuminated reflector panels, a special enclosing globe or bowl is employed which, though absorbing a good deal, about thirty per cent, of the very strong light of the fixture, not only improves the appearance considerably, but is also imperative from the hygienic point of view.

The opinion is expressed that the goods displayed in the store are more brightly illuminated than before. The illumination plans and fixtures were designed by Alfred A. Wohlauer, Consulting Engineer, 546 5th av., the fixtures manufactured by I. P. Frink, 551 Pearl st. The wiring contractors were Mautner & Freund, 5 East 13th st.

ELECTRIC SIGN ADVERTISING.—A number of new electric signs of striking beauty and brilliancy now attract attention in the theater district. But for the electric lights in these signs "Broadway" would not be the Great White Way." The signs cost a great deal of money and presumably they pay, for they are increasing in number and size. One of the pleasant features of a sail across the Hudson in the evening is the electric sign advertising. "As these signs come into view, one after another," says the Edison Monthly," the evident interest of the passengers changes from the beauties of the Manhattan shore to the signs of New Jersey. Can anyone question rightly the efficiency of such advertising? Can anyone doubt the value of an interest so secured, or the lasting effect of such advertising, upon the thought and memory of those passing to whom it is intended to convey these various messages."

GIFT TO ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS.—A most valuable addition to the library of the Institute of Electrical Engineers has been received from the Western Electric Company. The gift is a patent specification library, and is the largest and most valuable accession since the gift of the Latimer Clark collection by Dr. Schupler Skaats Wheeler. The library just acquired consists of 461 leather-bound volumes, containing approximately 100,000 specifications. These specifications date back to May 30, 1871, and cover the entire period to December, 1908. They embody the telephone, the electric light, electric railways, and the electric motor. From May 30, 1871, up to and including the year 1887, the volumes are complete, and contain all the specifications, certified, issued by the U. S. Patent Department.

RIDLEY MEMORIAL M. E. CHURCH.
Ocean Parkway and Foster Ave., Brooklyn.
Brown, McAghon & Strassle, Architects.

The edifice pictured here will have a site in one of the most preferred parts of Flatbush. The architects have been taking bids this week for its construction, and contracts may be awarded next week. The estimated cost is $50,000 and the materials will be brick and limestone.

STAINING AND FINISHING HARDWOODS.

Answering a correspondent as to which kinds of hardwoods require staining and filling, and which are best finished in the natural and without filling, also the best kinds of filler to be used and the manner in which to do the work, a recent issue of the Painters' Magazine has the following information concerning modern practice, which builders can compare with their own ideas:

The hardwoods requiring filler comprise ash, oak, cherry, mahogany, walnut, rosewood, ebony, birch and redwood. Maple, sycamore and cypress are best filled with shellac varnish, while the open grained hardwoods referred to above should be filled with mineral fillers, the so-called paste fillers offered to the trade by paint manufacturers. These fillers are offered in light shade or natural; also in oak color and dark or walnut, and in mahogany and ebony. Or the consumer may purchase the filler in the natural and color it to match the wood or the stain. Whenever the wood is to be enriched by staining or one wood is to be stained to imitate another, as in the case of birch to imitate mahogany, or of cherry to imitate walnut, the filler must be colored to match the stain. When the wood has been prepared by scraping, sandpapering, etc., and dusted, and requires staining, this operation is always performed before filling, and if the work in hand is interior wood finishing oil stains are best for the work in point of durability. They make the best foundation for the filler, and by using them thinned sufficiently with turps or benzine can be made to stain fairly deep and dry within reasonable time.

The stains being dry and hard, the paste filler is thinned with turpentine to the consistency of thin varnish and applied in the same manner with a short, heavy brush, crossed and recrossed, so that the grain and pores may be filled. The filler is allowed to set, but not permitted to become hard; then the surface is rubbed across the grain with tow, excelsior or shavings to remove the excess of filler and pack the pores. This done, the surface is rubbed over with a piece of soft cloth and from 24 to 48 hours allowed for thorough drying. On very open grained wood a second coat of filler is often required for good work.

When the wood has been filled to the satisfaction of the operator, the surface should be smooth sandpapered and carefully dusted before applying the first coat of varnish. It has been suggested that a good job of hardwood finishing cannot be had without applying a coat of shellac varnish on top of the filler, but we do not favor this because with a fair grade of interior varnish shellacking is not required.

As to imitating walnut on cherry, the stain is best made from Vandyke brown and burnt umber ground in oil, thinned with turps and japan drier.

GEORGE F. JOHNSON JR.'S LATEST OPERATION.

The excavating of the plot at the northwest corner of 113th st and Broadway was finished this week, and the foundations will be started right away for a 12-sty apartment house. The builders are the "Broadway and 113th Street Company," of which Mr. George F. Johnson, Jr., is president. Mr. Johnson is already interested in both the "Chatsworth" and the "Hendrik Hudson," and his experience with those houses shows that there is NO ABATEMENT IN THE DEMAND for that type of high-class apartment houses, the Chatsworth" having only one vacancy out of 88 apartments, and "Hendrik Hudson" one out of 72 apartments. The large number of apartments allows the owner to furnish all conveniences and high efficiency of service to the tenants.

This house will follow in the lines established by the "Chatsworth" and "Hendrik Hudson," where no trouble is spared to please the tenants. It will stand on a plot 175 ft. on Broadway and 100 ft. in 113th st. There will be 68 suites of 6, 7, 8, and 9 rooms, with large foyers. The rent will average from $1,400 to $2,400. The rooms are planned exceptionally large. In the 8 and 9-room apartments the dining-rooms measure 17x22 ft., the parlors 15x22 ft., and the other rooms in proportion. These apartments will have three bathrooms, and the others will have two.

All the apartments are of equal class, and all front on either the street or avenue, with southern and eastern exposure, insuring plenty of sunlight. All the apartments on Broadway have an unobstructed view of the Columbia University Stadium, which makes the view specially interesting. The 113th st front and the rear of the house give a fine view of the Hudson.

Some of the special features are, a servants' elevator with a special vestibule, in addition to the passenger and freight elevators. In the dining-rooms of the 8 and 9-room apartments are panoramic bays overlooking the Hudson, and in all the apartments are bay windows giving a view up and down Broadway.

The facade is of limestone, terra cotta, and brick, with a rich copper cornice of good proportion. The cornice projects 7 ft. and is 7 ft. high. The bay windows, which give a series of strong vertical lines, will also be of copper with ornamental panels. The stores on Broadway, instead of detracting from the looks, will add interest to the facade.

A RIVAL FOR THE "HENDRIK HUDSON."

This great house, which is estimated to cost $1,500,000, will be erected on Morningside Heights by a company headed by George F. Johnson, Jr. Broadway and 113th Street. George and Edward Blum, Architects.

Sobriety in the use of material was looked for, and as an instance the terra cotta and the brick are a perfect match in color, these materials being closely allied.

The entrance will be on 113th st, through the court, and will be simple and dignified. The hall and all the finish, plumbing, etc., will be up to the standard set by Mr. Johnson on all his former buildings.

The architects are George and Edward Blum, and they are assisted by Mr. Frank Worthington as structural engineer and Mr. Percival R. Moses as electrical and sanitary engineer.

W. S. MALLORY MAY HEAD CEMENT ASSOCIATION.—The executive committee of the American Portland Cement Association has settled upon William S. Mallory, vice-president of the Edison Portland Cement Co., for president of the association, to succeed Mr. John B. Lober, who has held that office by annual re-election for over half a decade. Because of ill-health Mr. Loeber feels that he would like to retire from that office, and the election will be held at the Hotel Astor, in this city, on December 13, 14 and 15. The association has sixty members, all of whom are manufacturers of Portland cement in practically every State in the union. Delegates will attend the conference from as far West as California and from points in the extreme South. This organization has nothing to do with price adjustment, that being a subject within the jurisdiction of the North American Portland Cement Co., of 30 Broad st. The conference may possibly informally discuss the situation as it exists to-day in the east of Pittsburgh district.

TEN MILLION FOR NEW SCHOOLS.—The Washington Irving High School, which has been held up for a long time, gets $600,000 to its account in an appropriation just made by the Board of Estimate. The site, in Irving Place, near Gramercy Park, is excavated and boarded up, and has been in this condition since early in the summer. In the last month, the Board of Education, has been allowed approximately $10,000,000 for new schools.

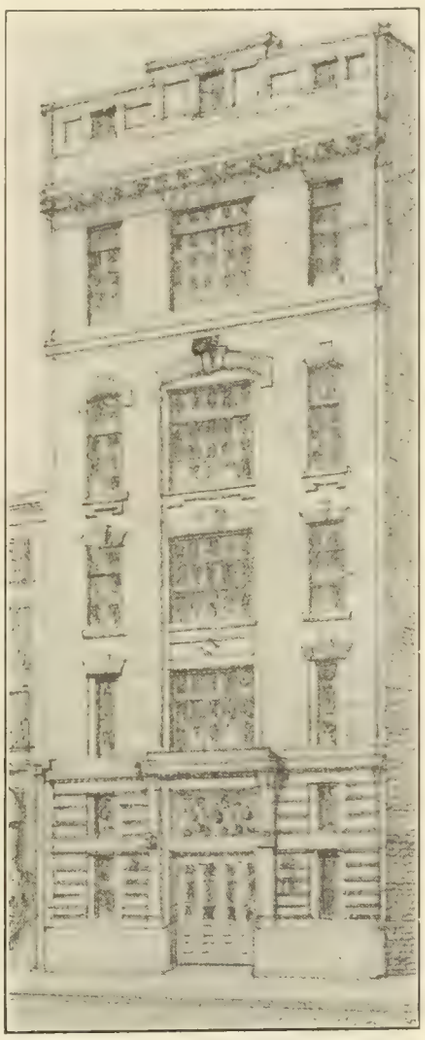
ADVANCE REPORTS.

Fast Work on a Theatre.



47TH ST.—The Columbia Theatre and 10-sty office building now being erected by the Thompson-Starrett Company at the corner of 47th st and 7th av, was closed this week, and the work of completing the interior is now being pushed to the limit. Should the structure be wholly completed before the end of December, as planned, it would mean that the old buildings had been demolished and the new buildings erected in a period of seven months. The contract calls for completion seven months after possession of the site is taken over by the contractor, and although a month was lost, owing to delay in steel deliveries, the Thompson-Starrett Company expects to make up this delay, and even anticipate the contract date for completion by turning the finished building over to the owners, Weber & Rush, in time to enable them to open the theatre to the public during Christmas week, when it is planned to make a production that will be a welcome contribution to the season's festivities.

ventilating blower system. The exterior will be faced with red brick, with granite base and doorway and terra cotta trimmings at windows and main cornice. Provision will be be made for installing eight rotary converters on the main floor. The interior of the rotary room will be faced with a light colored buff brick, and a cast and wrought iron stairway will give access to all the floors and roof. During the month ending Oct. 20, 1909, there was placed on the Olive Bridge Dam 33,142 cu. yds. of cyclopean masonry and 2,117 cu. yds. of concrete blocks, a total of 35,259 cu. yds. The contract is held by the joint firm of MacArthur Bros. Co. and Winston & Co., and the general superintendent is Mr. M. J. Look.

We are officially informed that Geo. Dillon, Inc., 329 East 116th st, would like to receive proposals on marble work that is required in the new post office and court house to be build at Council Bluffs, Ia. Plans can be seen at the building or at the Washington office of the P. O. Department. Bids wanted not later than Nov. 24.

M. & L. Hess have secured a loan from The Title Insurance Company of New York, of $250,000 in the form of a building loan for the Twenty-fifth Construction Company, for the erection of a 12-story loft building by them on Nos. 24 & 26 West 25th st. The plans are now being drawn by F. C. Zobel, of the "West 28th st Arcade" building. The Title Insurance Company is lending the same builders $180,000 on 25th st, between 6th and 7th avs, and a 12-sty loft building is also to be erected on these premises.

And News Regarding Source of Supply

Prices Shift for Many Materials.

Building material found a normal market this week with prices advancing in many lines, although Hudson River common brick is reported lower. Contractors are pushing work in anticipation of an early winter, and haste has been made in every operation to top off before snowfall. A market summary follows:

BRICK—Supply exceeds demand.
CEMENT—Nervous in sluggish market.
LIME—Active. Competition keen.
LUMBER—Soft wood prices low.
PIG IRON—Demand moderate.
SLATE—No. 1 Bangor higher.
STEEL—Sheets and structural up.
STONE—Market quiet. Prices steady.

Brick Prices Shifted Downward.

Hudson River hard brick dropped downward a quarter to a half this week owing in part to over-supply. The cut is said to be only temporary and better things are looked for within a fortnight. The sales this week were normal, seventeen cargoes having gone out on Monday, evidencing an average week. The transactions in cargoes for last week are: Holdovers, Monday, Nov. 8, 12; arrivals, 96; sales, 84; and holdovers, Monday, Nov. 15, 24.

It will be noticed that the arrivals were in excess of almost any week this season, while the sales were about normal. It is also of interest to note that the leftovers for this week were exceptionally numerous. These conditions have a natural temporary effect upon prices. Raritans bring $5.75 to $6.25.

DEALERS BEARS IN MARKET.

The dealers have found that their requirements are not so heavy as they had expected them to be, and in consequence, while the wholesale market was fair, they could not absorb all that was supplied to them. Their offerings were generally at $5.75 for Hudson Commons, with light hards at $4.50 and pales at $3.50. This was four shillings below the low figure set by the manufacturers. Finally the market cracked and then broke to $5.50 and $6.00, with three-quarters ruling yesterday.

Cement in Sluggish Market.

The slight rally in cement reported a week ago has not been maintained, the demand being a little below normal for this time of the year. Dyckerhoff German Portland cement seems to be an exception to the above case, 700 barrels having arrived on the Zeeland, of the Red Star line this week, all being sold before the boat unloaded. Another cargo of 500 bbls. will leave for this port next week, part of which has been disposed of. The ruling price for this material is $2.43, and it is said that orders placed by E. Thiele, the importer, are averaging larger quantities than formerly.

BIG CONTRACT FOR LEHIGH.

Conspicuous among this year's contracts for local work is that of the Lehigh Portland Cement Co. Hiram Snyder & Co., agents. This is for upwards of 70,000 bbls. for use in the caissons to be sunk in the Municipal Building opposite the Manhattan entrance of the Brooklyn Bridge.

Moderate Demand for Pig Iron.

Pig iron was in moderate demand almost the entire week. Prices held stationary in all grades. The inquiries were fair and volume of business was fluctuating. One sale was for 1,000 tons northern foundry for shipment into New Jersey, which for this time of the year is conspicuous. Word was received in the local market this week that the McGunzie furnace in the Pennsylvania field would blow in about January 1. The demand for steel making iron during the last two weeks, has been heavier in the West than here, structural and rail billets standing about even. Steel works were in the market for moderate tonnages of basic iron for this year's delivery. The price tendency is undoubtedly up, but no change is expected for about thirty days.

Steel Prices Shift.

The advance in sheets and structural steel referred to in last week's issue was announced as of Monday. Soft steel sheets went up ten cents, as did blue annealed, one pass cold rolled, and cleaned American. Galvanized went up fifteen cents. Tin plate advanced ten cents a case box, while Taggers iron was quoted twenty cents higher. The revised prices are given below.

The market analysis for the week gives an upward tendency to prices, even over those quoted. This is particularly true of bar iron, such as is used for fire-escape work, etc. In steel no change is expected prior to the first of the year, however. The Carnegie Steel Co. will not contract ahead, as the mills are "loaded." The situation is such as to indicate a firm support of the new prices and to point to support of still higher prices even at this early date.

As far as steel and sheet metals are concerned, the winter business will be brisk and quite up to expectations. The fabricators are trying to get all the material they can, although beams and channels, angles and tees, are up ten cents, mill, and zees five cents, mill. The new store prices are given below:

Lime Market Satisfactory.

Leading lime companies are finding conditions changing somewhat and in many instances are preparing to meet them. As an instance of this, it has been rumored in the trade for some time that Clifford L. Miller & Co., of 110 East 23rd st., have been talking of manufacturing hydrated lime, which is today a strong competitor with finishing lime. The present market supply is fair and the demand easy. The kilns are busy especially in New England where they are reported to have all the business they can handle.

Lumber Conditions Unchanged.

The attempt on the part of manufacturers and sellers to force market conditions, according to some authorities in the trade, is responsible for the low prices now being generally maintained in the soft woods and building lumber. The sales reported by the wholesalers are fair in volume, competition being still keen. The wholesalers are beginning to report scarcity in certain kinds of hardwoods, and in consequence advancing prices are almost sure to follow.

LUMBER.

These figures cover only wholesale prices to the trade on well manufactured graded stock, classified by the inspection rules now in operation. Because of terms of sale, etc., it is impracticable to quote retail prices.

Linseed Oil Still High.

No improvement is noted in the paints and oil situation, and there probably will be none, until the price of linseed oil drops from its present high level. Second hards continue to offer parcels on prompt delivery, but futures are at a standstill pending more normal conditions in flaxseed. City raw, American seed in 5 bbls. or more is selling at 63 and 64 cents; city single boiled, American seed in same quantities bring 64 and 65 cents. City double boiled, American, brings 65 and 66 cents, while Western raw is quoted at 62 and 63 cents. Flaxseed, No. 1 N. W., is quoted this week in Chicago at $1.74, while No. 1 S W. was listed at $1.64.

The demand for paints in this city is a little better than normal, and has been so since early in September, when many of the big operations in this city were being finished. The prospects are, according to well-informed persons in the trade, that the Winter will be a busy one, followed by a lull in the Spring, with resumption of activities on a still larger scale than that of this year in the Summer. Varnish is unsteady, but showed improvement in the early part of the week.

Stone in Quiet Market.

Except for the fact that retailers and wholesalers in the stone trade continue to place good-sized requisitions for rough material, and in nearly every instance in greater quantities than in any year since 1906, the week was uneventful. Cutters report that while they have a good volume of business on hand they are taking few new contracts, comparatively speaking. Most of them have work sufficient to keep them moving well during the winter.

NO. 1 BANGOR SLATE HIGHER.

Slate dealers report that the market conditions in that commodity continue to firm for an advance on Jan. 1. Genuine No. 1 Bangor is quoted today at $5.00 and $6.75, with the latter price ruling. E. J. Johnson, of The E. J. Johnson Co., Potter building, when asked what the price outlook for the first of the year was, said: "The tendency is upward and better prices undoubtedly will prevail after Jan. 1. Market conditions are satisfactory for this time of the year, and toward its close prices will go back to the figures that maintained before the panic." As in the case with other branches of the stone trade, slate is making a greatly improved showing.

Old Building Firm Incorporates.

The George W. Ruddell Co., of 25 West 42d st, is a corporation recently formed to succeed the firm of John & G. Ruddell, which was established in this city in 1862. Mr. John Ruddell is president of the new company, and is one of the oldest builders living and still in business. He, with his brother, formed a partnership in the year just mentioned and made a specialty of building private homes both for themselves and others. They built very largely on the East Side, in the 19th Ward, and completed many rows of houses in that section, having had as clients many old representatives of New York whose estates the company still does work for. George W. Ruddell, the vice-president of the company, has been actively engaged in the building business for many years, both as a mason builder and general contractor. His work has been carried on principally on the new West Side, and includes all branches of the building business. The George W. Ruddell Co. is at present actively engaged and has a well established business.

Harrison & Meyer's Work in Demand.

Harrison & Meyer, specialists in artificial stonework, of 16 East 18th st, have recently taken some important contracts for sidewalk and concrete floor work. Among them is the U. S. Casualty building at Liberty st and Temple pl, and the Hudson Savings Bank, Hudson, N. Y., for the Andrew J. Robinson Co., and in St. Luke's Hospital for Ernest Flagg, the architect.

This company makes a specialty of artificial stone sidewalks, cellars and vaults. George T. Harrison and John T. Meyer, are both experts in their line and give personal supervision to all work. Estimates are cheerfully given and inquiries may be made by mail or telephone, Stuyvesant, 3170. Some of the important work that this firm has handled, is found in the Singer building, where this firm laid all the underflooring from sub-basement to roof.

Gasoline vs. Alcohol.

A gallon of denatured alcohol can be made to do the same amount of work in an engine as a gallon of gasoline; moreover, the alcohol does not produce smoke and is less liable to yield obnoxious odors, but the lower price of gasoline makes it the cheaper fuel. These conclusions, based on the results of 2,000 comparative tests of the two substances as engine fuels, are given in Bulletin 392 of the United States Geological Survey.

New Architectural Terra Cotta Company Enters the Field.

The Federal Terra Cotta Company has recently been incorporated with a capital of $1,500,000, and with offices in the Trinity Building, No. 111 Broadway, New York. It is the purpose of this company to immediately build and equip a model architectural terra cotta factory. Great improvements will be made in this factory, which will enable the company to produce a superior quality of terra cotta and make deliveries on shorter time. The plant, which will be the largest in the country, will be completed April 1, 1910. Land has been purchased at Woodbridge, N. J., with siding connections with the Pennsylvania Railroad. It is also situated on the deep waterway, Woodbridge Creek, which will enable the company to ship in bulk to all the coast States.

The officers and directors of the company are as follows: Directors—De Forest Grant, William Manice, John E. Berwind, Edw. R. Stettinius, Frank A. Thayer, Madison Grant, Dwight W. Taylor, Edwin Thorne, Rodney Thayer, Wm. B. Dinsmore.

Officers—President and general manager, De Forest Grant; first vice-president, Edwin Thorne; second vice-president, William Manice; treasurer, Frank A. Thayer; secretary, Dwight W. Taylor.

The management of the company will be in the hands of men who had long and active experience in the terra cotta business and are well known to the building trade. The company is very strong financially, having all the necessary money to build and equip the plant and carry on a large business.

Other prominent men interested financially in the company are Stuyvesant Fish, Goelet Gallatin, H. Holbrook Curtis, H. A. Berwind, B. N. Duke, Wm. de Forest Haynes, Schuyler Schieffelin, Lewis R. Morris, Norman Grant, E. H. Wells, Alfred H. Bond.

In recent years there has developed a very great demand for a high class of architectural terra cotta, and it is to fill this demand satisfactorily and promptly that this company has been formed.

An Engineer on Criminal Courts Building.

Since the scare over the possible collapse of the Criminal Courts Building has passed out of the public mind to some extent at least, and various experts have been heard upon the subject of whether the structure is safe for occupancy, it is interesting to recall that its condition was known to be practically the same as it is to-day five years ago. Discussing the subject of foundations in an interview with a Record and Guide representative this week, Mr. Fred. Dana Rhodes, of 140 Cedar st said:

"During the construction of the subway I had the honor to be engaged on the committee of examination of the construction company, and while our territory was between Brooklyn and the City Hall here, we made an investigation of the Criminal Courts building, and found cracks in the walls and some arches supported by timbers. It is an established fact that a pile deep driven into the earth until the driving end is entirely "broomed," or until it can no longer be driven, will continue to sink slowly if a great weight is constantly applied to it. That, in my opinion, based upon a casual examination, is what is happening in the Criminal Courts building.

"When we reported we recommended that measurements be taken by the city every once in a while exactly as they now propose to do so as to note the rapidity with which these piles are sinking. That is the only way to keep an intelligent tab on the safety of the structure."

Mr. Rhodes added that he believed the building to be safe in its present condition, and that dynamite would have to be employed to tear it down should such a course be attempted.

Mr. Rhodes has attained a high reputation as an expert engineer and examiner of buildings adjacent to new structures, being chief engineer of the committee that examined and reported on buildings and property to the value of $75,000,000 along the Brooklyn-Manhattan subway extension. Some of the buildings adjacent to excavations that he has examined are the Estate of Janet Lavaing, Al. Hayman, The Aeolian building, Mendelssohn Hall, the rectory and church of the Holy Communion, Abbott & Morgan and many others. He is a Cornell graduate and a member of the American Society of Engineers, and has made a life long study of his specialty.

Nassau Steel & Iron Co. to Move.

C. J. Wolfe, properitor of the Nassau Steel & Iron Works, will announce to the trade within the next few weeks the removal of his offices from No. 24-26 Stone st, to his own building at No. 525 58th st, Brooklyn. The Nassau Steel and Iron Works has had its headquarters at the Stone street address for several years, but will move from there on or about December 1.

The works will remain where they are at Nos. 37 and 39 42d st, Brooklyn, where every facility will be offered contractors and architects for turning out architectural and ornamental iron. The company's equipment is of the finest and a staff of expert designers and draughtsmen is employed to give careful attention to the minutest detail of all kinds of ornamental iron construction work. Sketches and estimates, as announced in his advertisement in another part of this issue, are always cheerfuly and promptly given.

Tremendous Demand for Front Brick.

Front brick dealers are reporting a great demand for that material, and are expecting a busy Spring. Discussing this subject a few days ago, Mr. Houghtaling, of Houghtaling & Wittpenn, 44 East 23d st, made this statement, as illustrating 1909 conditions:

"We are selling up to the capacity of our yards, the Kittanning Clay Potteries, at Kittanning, Pa. During the last six months we have had more business than in any one year. A great deal of the demand for our material has been downtown, but while some of it has been in sizeable contracts, medium quantities prevailed. There seems to be much more of this kind of business than usual. This, I consider, to be a good sign for a busy season early next year. I do not look for much this winter, however.

"A good field is opening up in New Jersey. Less frame construction is going on, because most of the progressive cities are extending their fire limits. The result of this is seen in Jersey City, where a fine grade of dwelling and apartment house work is going on. Newark is developing rapidly, but as a result of the introduction of the tunnel system of transportation to and from this city, other towns are developing—Westfield, Elizabeth, Plainfield and towns even as far away as Trenton, taking their part in the demand for front brick."

Rumored Deal Between Big Companies.

The rumor was current in the trade this week that the American Steel & Wire Company had effected a selling arrangement for the Metropolitan district with the Berger Manufacturing Company, s e cor 11th av and 22d st, for the steel company's Triangle Mesh Reinforcement.

This information, which, from inquiries made by the Record and Guide, seems to have some foundation in fact, will be good news to contractors in this city and vicinity, as the Berger Manufacturing Company undoubtedly will carry a large stock available for immediate delivery at jobs, both here and in the suburbs. The Berger Company already has branches established at No. 2 Sarah Ann st, Tompkinsville, S. I., and in the Realty building, 149th st and 3d av, in the heart of the Bronx. This will enable contractors to get this material in almost any quantity desired at short notice, which has not been entirely possible heretofore.

ADVANCE REPORTS.

and 113th st, for Geo. F. Johnson & Son. Geo. and Edward Blum, 503 5th av, prepared the plans. Estimated cost $1,500,000. For further particulars see another column of this issue.

Municipal Work.

DE KALB AV.—Plans are near completion for alterations, which will cost $25,000, to the engine house at 124 De Kalb av, for the New York Fire Department. The architect is H. Bullard, care of the department. The work will include a feed-storage house.

AQUEDUCT.—Bids will be received by the Board of Water Supply, 299 Broadway, Nov. 24, until 11 A. M., for Contract 60, for the construction of the Hurley dikes of the Ashokan reservoir, known as Glenford, Woodstock and West Hurley dikes. They are to be of rolled earth embankments, with concrete core-walls, and aggregate about 1.6 miles in length. The work is located near West Hurley, on the Ulster and Delaware Railroad, about six miles northwest of Kingston, in the towns of Hurley and Kingston, Ulster County, N. Y. The security required will be $280,000.

WILLIAMSBURGH BRIDGE. — The Bridge Department is planning to give more strength to the Williamsburgh Bridge structure in order to prepare for the subway traffic. Commissioner Stevenson says the plans of the present bridge were drawn more than ten years ago, and at a time when subway traffic over the bridge was not contemplated. As early as two years ago, when the Public Service Commission first brought forward the plan to have the subway loop trains cross the bridge, the department began to plan for that new traffic. Two extra bents will be placed underneath the land spans on either side, but the work will not be done immediately. No appropriation has been asked for.

Government Work.

The bid of Morse-Boulger Destructor Co., of New York, $3,750 in amount, has been accepted for the construction of a garbage crematory at Fort Hamilton, N. Y. The work is to be completed within 75 days.

TOLEDO, O.—Sealed proposals will be received December 20 for the installation of a conduit and wiring system and a standard clock system in the U. S. Post Office, Toledo, O. James Knox Taylor, Supervising Architect, Washington, D. C.

Municipal Work.

ATHENS, O.—Sealed proposals will be received on the 28th of December for the construction (including plumbing, gas piping, heating aparatus, electric conduits and wiring), of the U. S. Post Office at Athens, O. James Knox Taylor, Supervising Architect, Washington, D. C.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.—Mark P. Wells, of Philadelphia, Pa., general contractor for the new post office building to be erected here, has awarded sub-contract for excavating to Smith W. Robbins, of Saratoga Springs, and the sub-contract for the electric work to R. C. Strang, of Philadelphia. Excavating began this week.

THE WEEK.

WHILE there was an absence of 5th av transactions, which have characterized the market for the past month, there was a very satisfactory amount of business reported. The total foots up seventy-five sales. Of these, eleven were between 24th and 30th sts, between Broadway and 7th. av. All of the sales were to builders for immediate improvement.

Between 30th and 90th sts there were only nine sales reported, none of them being of any importance.

The Bronx is represented in our reports by more than the usual number of transactions, there being twenty-one, of these nine are transactions in vacant property, representing sales of 35 lots.

Washington Heights transactions were all in vacant lots, and there were only six of these, two of them being in the region affected by the 181st st station of the Subway, where there is also a very good demand for stores. All of the stores on 181st st, and also those on St. Nicholas av and Broadway at the same point, are rented. The sale of the Field estate holding in the block bounded by Riverside Drive, Broadway, 149th and 150th sts, is the largest transaction closed on the Heights in some months, and more than likely means its immediate resale to builders for improvement.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THERE were forty-eight parcels offered in the Vesey street salesroom this week, one-half of them being foreclosures.

On Tuesday, Joseph P. Day offered a number of properties at voluntary sales, but met with indifferent success, most of them being bid in.

Wednesday was the interesting day of the week, as over $600,000 worth of property was sold. Bryan L. Kennelly offered several parcels for the Robert Barkley estate, one being the southeast corner of 8th av and 24th st, consisting of three 4-sty buildings, on a plot 84x75, which was bought by David H. Taylor for $160,000. Mr. Taylor represented the Gould estate, which owns the Grand Opera House, at the northwest corner of 8th av and 23d st. This purchase gives the estate a plot fronting 200 feet on the avenue and 275 and 245 feet on 23d and 24th sts, respectively.

On the same day Herbert A. Sherman held a successful sale of the properties in the Taylor estate, the whole bringing $5,000 more than the highest appraisal made for the estate, the total being $147,650. Samuel Marx, James L. Wells Co. and Hugh D. Smyth each sold a Bronx property at foreclosure.

UNIFORMITY IN RENTS.

While Mr. Clarence T. Coley, of the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company was making some remarks at the late Detroit convention of building managers and owners, Mr. W. W. Hannan, of Detroit, asked him a question regarding the practice here in New York with respect to renting and managing property. The discussion is reported by Secretary Paterson in "Building Management."

Mr. Hannan (Detroit): I want to ask you a further question which has come up a great deal this last summer in my travels and talks with real estate men all over the country. They have no general rule. A man comes into your office who merely wants you to find a tenant. In this city we charge him 3 per cent of the gross rent. Many persons say to you, "I just want you to find a tenant, I don't want you to look after the property." I found a firm in Seattle which takes nobody's property unless they take it to care for it, and for that they get 5 per cent. I want to know if that is the rule you use in New York?

Mr. Coley (New York): No, we all rent property at the prevailing renting percentages. We make a lease and collect a certain per cent of the gross net of that lease. If a man rents an office for $10,000, we collect a certain percentage of the $10,000 for the making of the lease, paid to us in advance.

Mr. Hannan: My friend suggests possibly you did not quite understand me. This firm in Seattle will not take anyone's property unless they have the care and management of it, for which they get 5 per cent of the monthly remittance. I believe that is the correct principle myself. I have never followed it, but I am going to bring it up before our real estate board here. I was wondering whether you followed any such practice in New York?

Mr. Coley: It is not uniform.

Mr. Hannan: I want to ask another thing: Suppose you have an apartment house where the rents run above $25?

Mr. Coley: A tenement?

Mr. Hannan: Tenement, as you term them. Does the renting of the ground floor, or first story of the building to a store, depreciate the value of the flats above?

Mr. Coley: No, sir, not when you consider it strictly in the tenement district. When you get up to rents of $50, then it does.

A Delegate: Would you advise varying the price of apartments in the same building? We have some buildings where the lower floors rent for so much and the upper ones for more. So, in the same building we get a tenant who pays $50 rent, and also get one who pays $25. My point is this: Is it good policy to mix the tenants who can pay $50 with the tenants who pay only $25?

Mr. Coley: I think, in answering that question, that there would be considerable objection on those low rentals, $25 and $50. Thedifference in the way a man dresses, the difference in his education and general appearance, between a man who can afford to pay $25 and a man who can afford to pay $50, is very marked, although that it not the case after you get up into the higher grade apartments. I may be living in an apartment where there are people who pay $3,000 a year rent. I am only paying $1,000. I dress as well as he does. I have just as good an education and general appearance. In that case it does not depreciate the property as it would in the lower grades of rent where there is a marked difference between the tenants.

UNITED REAL ESTATE OWNERS.

A regular bi-monthly meeting of the United Real Estate Owners' Association will be held in Parlor A of the Grand Union Hotel, on Tuesday, Nov. 23. An auction of boxes will be held in advance for the annual ball to be held at Terrace Garden, 58th st., between Lexington and Third avs, early in January, 1910.

TITLE OFFICIALS OPTIMISTIC.

It was said this week at the office of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company that it is evident that those about to undertake real estate enterprises need not hold back on account of financial accommodations. Although the real estate market, is, as reported in the Record and Guide last Saturday, a very light market, yet the demand for mortgage investments continues strong. Last week this company supplied to various investors more than one hundred mortgages, aggregating one million dollars.

LAND TITLE REGISTRATION.

Mr. A. N. Gitterman delivered the regular weekly lecture to the Real Estate Class at the West Side Y. M. C. A. last week, his subject being "Land Title Registration." He said in part:

"The present method of recording titles has become too cumbersome. The upkeep of it is a great expense and it necessitates vast storage space for the accumulation of all these voluminous records. The incidental delay, adds greatly to the cost of transferring real estate and the possibility of error is increasing annually. Any expense, tax or tariff added to trading, retards the free and economical exchange of any commodity.

WHEN SEARCHING A TITLE.

"Just for a moment let me call your attention to some of the things that are necessary in searching the title to a house in New York. First, the records of the Register's office are carefully examined and a transcript of all transfers are made. The Surrogate's office is visited next, with a view of finding wills that may have a bearing on the property. The Court records are inspected, to find out any judgments that have been filed against the owner. The County Clerk's office reveals to us all the liens and attachments that have been filed, and the tax books inform us if the taxes are paid up to date, or if they are in arrears. The Department of Public Works may have a bill for water charges—The Tenement House Dept. reveals any violations of this Law.

"Yet, with all these full reports, the title is not freed from attack, as the State does not hold itself liable for any errors that may have occurred in the copying of any of the instruments, and errors are occurring continually, such as the judgment being recorded against a man of similar name, or the name has been transposed. The leaving out of the record if the vendee is married or single. Through these apparently small errors much harm has been done, and future transactions in this piece of property may be delayed until proper adjudication can be had, which may necessitate a lawsuit of years.

"Assume a piece of property of great value has been purchased, and all of this work has been properly done by a careful and conscientious lawyer of ability and good standing. We are morally certain that all the work up to this point is without flaw. Why should this title be liable to attack, if nothing has occurred previous to this transaction? Would it not be far better to record or register these instruments in such a way that all trades in connection therewith in the future should start from this date? Land Title Registration does just this. Land Title Registration secures for the applicant, simplicity, economy and security, instead of tedious and expensive searches and researches.

"In 1853 Mr. Robert Torrens, Commissioner of Customs at Adelaide, Australia, was in charge of the ship registry office of the place. He noted the ease with which ships in transit were registered in the home port, showing not only the participation of the various owners, but the entire history of the ship and all its vicissitudes in its various travels. Mr. Torrens then conceived the idea when put in charge of the Land Registry office at New South Wales, in 1856, that the same method adopted by the seafaring men in registering their ships, could well be done, in connection with ground, which is always situated in the same place and always capable of inspection.

"The Australian provinces at this time were inhabited by remittance men and penal convicts from the home country. These lawless people did not have a high respect for law, in fact it resembled the condition that one finds in a semi-civilized community.

"With this unsettled condition to work upon, and with the Queen's various grants, as a basis, Sir Robert Torrens inaugurated the system which now bears his name, and by it, the owner, adjacent holders and adverse claimants and liens on the property are brought under the eye of the Registrar of Titles, who gives all parties interested an opportunity to be heard, with a view of establishing the merits of the claims made by the presumptive owner. After a specified time, allowing for advertising, and a public hearing, an entry is made by the examiner, and a certificate is issued to the owner, specifying the location of the land, its ownership and encumbrances, and all other details that would affect any transaction in the same. This certificate becomes a negotiable instrument, and by comparison with the original at the registrar's office the exact status of the property can be found on the shortest notice.

HOW TO REGISTER A TITLE.

"The method of proceedure under the Land Title Registration Act, which went into effect February 1, 1909, in this State, provides that the applicant must present a thorough search and examination of the title certified to by an official examiner with an accurate survey to the Supreme Court, with the names of all parties claiming any right or interest in the property. These will receive legal notice to appear and answer a complaint. The notices are to be conspicuously posted on the property and advertised in the newspapers for forty days preceding the hearing. The proceedings are simple, as in 95 per cent. of the cases, there will be no contestants.

"The only pleading is the application signed and sworn to be the owner or prospective owner if the property is under contract. Twenty eight days elapse after notices have been given before the Court takes up the consideration of the application. If the title is then found to be good, a decree of the Court is entered directing the Register to issue to the applicant a certificate of title. In a proceeding properly conducted, every person having possible interest in the land is notified, hence the title is practically established as against the whole world as soon as registered. The time required may be 50 or 60 days, but this does not interfere with the active trading, selling or mortgaging of the property during this time.

"Twenty-six years ago the opposition of the lawyers to Title insurance was a big factor in hindering its early growth, but now that these companies which have done so much for real estate in this city,, are continually helping us, we can look forward, I hope, to the time, not far distant when they will endorse and foster Land Title Registration."

RIVERSIDE AND MORNINGSIDE.

The last regular meeting of the Riverside and Morningside Association was held at the "Hotel Langham," formerly the "Marseille," at Broadway and 103d st., on Nov. 8th. Mr. F. M. Burdick is president of the association and Charles E. Schuyler is secretary. One of the public squares in the neighborhood is named 'Schuyler Square." Other officers and committeemen are Rev. Dr. John P. Peters, rector of St. Michael's, and famous as an explorer of the Holy Land; Rev. E. M. Sweeney, Rev. Dr. Keigwin, J. Aspinwall Hodge, Jr., W. W. Perrine, Myles Tierney, Alexander Walker, William F. Clare, Ward Brower and Vincent Loeser.

The Treasurer reported that a number of members were in arrears for dues, and stated that the work of the Association, which had been so successful in protecting the neighborhood from nuisance, could not go on without money from membership dues. He earnestly requested that all of those owing any dues would forward them to the Treasurer, at No. 820 West End av. The Secretary was requested to notify all of those in arrears by personal letter.

The Local Improvement Committee, through Mr. Loeser, reported that the work on Broadway, of fencing the grass plots in the middle of the avenue, was progressing satisfactorily, and that it was expected that before the beginning of the year, the whole line would be parked from 59th to 122d sts. The Secretary reported that there were no other nuisances complained of.

Mr. Clare, chairman of the Grievance Committee, reported that the work was progressing satisfactorily, and that certain saloons were continued closed on Sundays, but that there was an evident evil in the use of tenements for disreputable purposes. It was suggested that the Clergy of the section hold a meeting to agree upon a basis upon which they could enlist the efforts of the parishioners to assist the Association to rid the section of this disreputable use of flats and apartments, and keep the district as a high-class residential section.

The President stated that he would be away next year, and it would be necessary to elect new officers at the next meeting. He also requested that a nominating committee be appointed to select officers for the coming year, and upon motion, the President was authorized to appoint such a committee. He thereupon appointed Mr. W. F. Clare, Mr. Alexander Walker and Mr. Vincent Loeser, and the Secretary was requested to notify them of their appointment.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned until the first monday in December, which will be the annual meeeting.

CONCRETE WATER-GATES.

When Metcalf & Eddy, of Boston, consulting engineers to the Boston Finance Commission, made their recent investigation of the Boston Water Department, the concrete plant had but recently been established for the purpose of manufacturing, in an experimental way, reinforced concrete gate and hydrant boxes to replace the wooden boxes heretofore used. The wooden boxes naturally have a very short life when buried in the earth, while the concrete boxes should last for many years, if not indefinitely. These concrete boxes consist of four flat slabs cast in wooden molds.

The force employed at the time of the inspection consisted of five men, two masons and three helpers. The helpers oiled the molds, mixed the concrete and dumped it into the molds, while the masons packed the concrete and placed the steel reinforcement in it. After filling, the molds were placed in a rack and the concrete allowed to set until hard enough to be removed.

The average amount of work done by the force of five men was then eight slabs per day, or two complete gate boxes. During the inspection it took the force but twenty minutes to perform the complete operation of building a slab. Allowing thirty minutes to each slab, this would mean sixteen slabs or four complete boxes per day, just twice the average amount of work which the force had previously been doing. Later, under the spur of inspection, a force of eight men, two masons and six laborers, completed twenty-eight slabs or seven boxes in eight hours. It is, therefore, fair to assume that an output of three-quarters of a box per day per man is not excessive.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE.—The vacant block bounded by Broadway and Riverside Drive, 149th and 150th st, has been sold by the Field Estate to a syndicate of operators. Just north of the Field block, from 150th to 151st st, is the property of the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society, which will probably be put on the market as soon as the society's new buildings in Westchester County have been completed.

LIABILITY OF REPRESENTATIVE LANDLORDS.

An interesting case, decided not very long since, was based on the failure of the committee of an incompetent's estate to repair properly an alley or hallway retained in control of the landlord of property leased. Injury resulted, and an action was brought for damages.

The estate of the incompetent could not be held liable, for very obvious reasons, he not being in a position to contract an obligation.

The question is quite similar to one where an executor or administrator, who is not, as such, in anyway involved with real estate belonging to the decedent whose estate he represents, but if he do assume its control and management he exercises the same functions as an "administrator de sou tort"; that is, one who acts without authority—"butts in"—and as such must likewise assume the responsibilities.

In the case before us, the committee sought to screen itself from the consequences of the negligence exercised in repairs by the claim of its being simply a functionary appointed by a court, and a mere bailiff of the court to take charge of the property.

The particular question had never but once been decided by a court, but in that instance sustaining the defence of immunity on the part of the committee.

In the case before us (Rooney vs. Peoples Trust Co., 61 Misc., 159) this immunity was changed to one of liability for the committee, the court saying: "Here is a grant of independent authority to enter into the relation of landlord and tenant, and it carries with it, necessarily, an assumption of all the rights and duties that ordinarily attend such a relation. If the committee rents the property under its charge in such a way that it retains control over the common passageways used by the various tenants, there is no conceivable reason why it should not be charged with all the duties of a landlord, to the same extent as it is possessed with all the rights of such a legal relation. The reason why it cannot be held liable in its representative capacity is that the estate of the incompetent must not be subjected to a liability for the torts of one who is not his agent in the legal sense. This reason falls far short of exempting the committee individually."

Directors who do not direct are thus not alone in a class who assume responsibilities they do not intend to fully perform, and committees of incompetents and administrators of estates assuming the function of landlords must learn through personal accountability to perform the duties of the relation.

BUILDING LINE ORDINANCES.

At a meeting held between a representative of the Corporation Counsel's office and Nelson P. Lewis, engineer of the Board of Estimate, it was definitely decided that the new code of ordinances now being prepared and expected to be completed by December 1 will not affect any properties that now encroach on the streets. It is the purpose of the new code to include only new buildings that may be erected on present streets and future construction on new streets.

Such property that does encroach will be protected, as far as it can be protected, by the method that has been in force for a long time—through the permits obtained from city departments and officials.

LAW DEPARTMENT

APARTMENT HOUSE HEATING.

"Since the question of using open cars during unseasonable weather has been satisfactorily settled for the good of the public, may I appeal to your valuable paper to kindly take up the question of the heating of our apartments?

"The tenant nowadays is entirely at the mercy of his landlord; no matter how cold the weather is, he will get heat only when the landlord sees fit, sometimes not before Nov. 1, and rarely after March 31.

"Considering the cost of living in New York City apartments, there should be some law regulating so vital a question.

"M. H."

As in Spring the "voice of the turtle (?) is heard in the land"—search your Scriptures—so, in Fall, possibly even more noticeably, is heard the voice of the tenant—and generally in complaint.

The above communication to one of our contemporaries—the mouthpiece likewise of current Polar complaint—is in point. With "Cook nailed," the correspondent possibly hopes to have "flats heated," become a "next" in its Quixotic efforts to right all wrongs due to extreme cold.

Now, the truth is that all these complaints tending to divert just causes of investigation or remedy, from the forum of proper inquiry, either before or after, to the inflammable, irresponsible sympathies of "the people," smack of yellow journalism. What people will read and pay to read becomes the lodestone of journalistic seek-and-find. A man is killed, and the lamb of sacrifice finally selected—usually by newspaper detective work—is at least half-tried before he ever gets to the proper tribunal, a judge and jury. So, of the steam heating of flats; catch the ear of the newspaper public with a cry of insufficient heating, and every calm principle of judgment is thrown aside in a burst of popular sympathy. If a man nowadays ever claims to have fallen among thieves he needs no good Samaritan in the rush of the newspaper "first aid."

As a man selects, or ought to select, his wife, by careful prematrimonial inquiry, so ought an intending tenant to select his proposed home or flat, and obtain either proper binding previous statements as to what he desires, or learn from past or present occupants if the house has a good name, and be likely to suit him in the respects desired.

LIABILITY.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

One of my clients desires to purchase a drug store on which the existing lease has two years to run. The rent is higher than is being asked for adjoining corners. The seller, who is also the lessee, is willing to sell the store for the amount of the debts plus 10 per cent. What my client desires to know is: Does he make himself in any way liable for the lease in case he purchases the drug business and moves it into the opposite corner?

SUBSCRIBER.

ANS.—The question is somewhat obscure. No man is bound to pay the debts of another unless he assumes them in writing. The question, however, seems to involve the purchase of the drug business, to pay all debts and 10 per cent. bonus; the lease is certainly a debt or obligation of the seller, and as such we assume he would expect to have it covered by an obligation of the purchaser to protect him from its required rent. The best course for you, as a broker to prevent future trouble, is to have this plainly understood by the parties to the transaction, for one of them has got to pay the rent required by the lease, for the two years it has yet to run, unless released by the landlord.

TRESPASS.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

How can a builder be compelled to remove sheds that are on private property? Consent was given after they were placed there. Long since the buildings have been completed and the builder has promised to remove the sheds three or four times—but they are still there. Both the builder's sheds and the telephone were placed on the premises during the owner's absence.

Answer.—The removal of sheds placed on your premises by a trespasser can be easily effected with an axe. Coupled, however, with what seems to have been a verbal license by you made after erection, an implied reasonable right to their being there would seem to have been established, and we would advise a thirty days' written notice, requiring removal, to be served on the builder, before proceeding to remove them.—Editor.

HOUSE AND REAL ESTATE OWNERS.

A regular monthly meeting of the House and Real Estate owners' Association of the Twelfth and Nineteenth Wards was held on Friday, Nov. 12, 1909, at Central Turn Hall, 85th st, and Lexington av. The principal business of the evening was revising the constitution.

APARTMENT HOUSES AS INVESTMENTS.

By W. W. HANNAN.*

WHEN a builder once determines to erect a large apartment house, he should bear in mind that the addition of two, three or more stories to his original plans will not increase the fixed charges, with the exception perhaps of a slight increase in taxes. The additional revenue that those additional floors will bring, however, more than offsets any possible increase in the expense of conducting the building.

I might better illustrate this point by drawing a comparison with the remarkable increase in the size of the mighty freighters that ply the Great Lakes. We might take, for instance, a steel steamer of the most modern type, about 250 feet long, and a carrying capacity of about 4,000 tons.

The cost of operating that steamer is just as great as the operation of a 600-foot modern leviathan of the Lakes, with a carrying capacity of from 8,000 to 10,000 tons.

COMPARATIVE ECONOMY OF LARGE BUILDINGS.

And so it is with the modern apartment house. You pay your manager, your engineer or fireman, and your elevator men just as much in a six or seven-story building as you do in a ten or twelve-story building. Understand me, I am making these comparisons in round figures, so to speak, permitting a slight variation of perhaps a few dollars in comparative cost. The idea I wish to convey, however, is that the greater income from the greater building reduces in proportion the fixed charges on that property.

In the early life of the large apartment house it was thought essential to the success of that institution that the apartments be equipped for complete housekeeping. To-day, however, the apartment house that has become rid of that feature, and presents to its tenants a well-managed cafe, is, to my mind, the most successful and most lucrative type of apartment house, or apartment hotel, as we have come to term them.

The cafe, however, demands the most exacting attention, as an ill-managed table will do more to injure the reputation of the apartment hotel than any other one element. The cafe, to be successful, must be moderate in price and plain in service. Cleanliness is the cafe's essential. Make the cafe homelike, both in appointments and in service. Make your tenants feel that they are sitting down to a table that provides them with just what they would have were they in their private home. You should remember that the class of tenants which an apartment hotel attracts is such that the cafe is the pivot around which revolves their judgment of the institution.

In this connection, I might say that I find from my experience that the most successful apartment hotel can provide a most satisfactory cafe service for from $7 to $12 per week.

RESTAURANT SERVICE.

My reasons for advocating the apartment house with cafe service in preference to that with housekeeping facilities, are principally that it produces a better return on the investment, and at the same time attracts a more desirable class of tenants. There is a desirable element in every large city that wishes to rid itself of the servant problem and the apartment hotel points the way to them.

I do not hesitate to say that the income from the apartment hotel that presents the proper cafe service is from 15 to 20 per cent. higher than from the housekeeping apartment house which cost just as much, if not more, to construct.

You can take an apartment that rents at, we will say $60, in a housekeeping apartment house, and by converting it into two smaller suites with cafe service in the same building, you can make that same floor space bring $80 per month.

This class of investment, of course, is beyond the reach of the investor of moderate means. But there is a class of apartment house which is within the reach of the man with practically a mere few hundred dollars, and which brings him a return on his investment which is most satisfactory in every respect. This brings me to the subject of the duplex or two family dwellings.

THE TWO-FAMILY DWELLING.

The two-family dwelling presents an ideal form of investment for the man of small means. With a little plot of ground paid for, he is in a position to borrow the money with which to erect this structure. He then makes one-half of it for his own home and from the other half of the house has a revenue which in time justifies the investment. At the same time, the owner is in a position to care for his property by reason of being right on the ground at all times, and he thus has at once the satisfaction and safety of a home, as well as the assistance and independence which even a limited income carries with it. Ownership of a home is conducive to ideal citizenship. Home ownership breeds a contentment. It makes better men and better women.

Before the advent of the duplex building, many a man was deterred from erecting a home of his own accord because with the means at hand he could not provide a home which he felt would become his station in life. The two-family building, however, has shown him the way. He now erects such a dwelling at practically the same cost of a single home, of the nature he sought, would have cost him, and he as an income from it which finally gives him absolute ownership.

THE DUPLEX BUILDING.

That is why the duplex building is so popular in every section of the United States, and nowhere more popular than right here in the city of Detroit. I make the claim that the highest type of duplex building is to be seen in the City of the Straits. I could point out to you building after building, which, with casual observation, you would say was a single dwelling, but which is in reality the most ideal form of two-family structure.

In this same class of investment I might mention the three and four-family structure, but of course that calls for a slightly higher investment. It gets just a little beyond the means of the man who, by careful methods, can come into possession of the two-family building.

Do not confuse the four-family building with the four-story apartment house investment. The four-family building ordinarily occupies two floors and in point of attractiveness is a strong competitor to the two-family building, although it does not hold out the appearance of the single dwelling as strongly as does the two-family house.

In a four-story apartment house the top floor must necessarily bring a lower rental than the other floors, by reason of the tiresome stair climbing. That again brings a different class of tenants, generally, than are found on the lower floors of the same apartment house. This should be avoided if possible. Every apartment house should be so constructed as to attract one class of tenants as nearly as possible for every floor, and every apartment in the entire building.

*Mr. Hannan is prominent in Detroit real estate circles. This article is a portion of a paper read at the Convention of Building Managers at Detroit, as reported in "Building Management."

THE "ALLIANCE" AND SUBWAYS.

The Committee of Legislation of the Taxpayers' Alliance of the Bronx, of which committee Harry Robitzek is chairman, has rendered a report on the Subject vs. Subway building as follows:

Three actions were brought by taxpayers and in each there was demanded that municipal authorities of the City of New York be restrained from committing the City to certain proposed contracts for construction of subways and various other public improvements, and to issue corporate stock therefor, on the ground that thereby the provisions of the constitution with respect to limitation of the City indebtedness would be violated.

Upon application being made for preliminary injunction, an order of reference was made to General Tracy, and the Referee was required to take proof of and to report with his opinion the amount in which the city was indebted for any purpose, and in any manner, on June 30th, 1908, in order that the court might be enabled to determine thereupon the amount of existing indebtedness coming under the constitution.

General Tracy thereafter reported as a margin for the City's limit to incur further indebteness approximately one hundred and six million dollars. The Court of Appeals, on the 22d day of October last affirmed the report in all regards, except one, and that is as to whether or not certain outstanding contracts which had been entered into by the city of public improvements should be regarded as public indebteness, and in this regard the Court of Appeals has taken an exception with General Tracy, and has decided that such contracts are to be considered as indebtedness, and as such should be inclusive of the computation above referred to. These contracts amount to approximately fifty-four million dollars. However, notwithstanding this one exception to the referee's report which has been sustained by the Court of Appeals, the aggregate amount of the City's debt limit at this time is over one hundred million dollars, because many improvements have been made since the 30th day of January, 1908, which are now public indebtedness, and to be computed and made part of the account upon which the city may compute its debt limit. Because of the affirmation of this report by the Court of Appeals in all regards except the one specified, the Board of Estimate has taken up the matter of Fourth Ave. subway in Brooklyn and has acquiesced with the Public Service Commission in this regard, and work will be begun in a couple of days.

It is up to the people of the Borough of the Bronx to see that the money now available for the building of new subways will be used for building of additional subways in the Borough of the Bronx.

From a report obtained by your committee, it is learned that the People of the State of New York at a recent election voted against an amendment to the State Constitution exempting certain bonds from being computed as part of the debt limit; even if this report be correct, there will still be sufficient moneys available for the city to build a direct East Side subway.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1909.

9th.—T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

Nov. 12, 13, 15, 16, 17 and 18.
